Can't Figure Extent To Thaw Wage Freeze

Labor Leaders Are Against Naming Flemming As Boss

Washington, Feb. 10 (AP) — The Wage Stabilization Board, trying hard to find an overall wage policy to replace the temporary Jan. 26 freeze, may not come up with one until late next week—if then.

The board, headed by Cyrus S. Ching, can't agree on how far to thaw out the freeze. Ching, on leave from the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service, intends to return as chairman of that body as soon as a firm wage policy can be worked out.

Ching has headed the wage board since last Oct. 10. If and when he does resign from the board, a possible successor is W. Williard Wirtz, acting administrative director of the wage board, or David L. Cole, a Paterson, N. J., labor attorney.

May Not Vote Formula

It seems probable today that the three labor members of the wage board may not vote for any wage formula at all. That would leave it up to the three industry and three public members of the nine-man board to come to terms. Ching is one of the public members.

Meanwhile, four other labor leaders wrote a vigorous letter of protest made public today, to Defense Mobilization Chief Charles E. Wilson. The four said they don't like Wilson's appointment of Dr. Arthur S. Flemming to be chairman of a Defense Manpower Policy Committee. They spoke out in support of Secretary of Labor Tobin's efforts to retain control of the nation's civilian manpower program.

Here's a fill-in on these and other home-front mobilization developments:

1. The labor leaders who wrote the letter to Wilson: William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor; Philip Murray, president of the Congress of Industrial Organization; George E. Leighty, president of the Railway Labor Executive Association, and A. J. Hayes, president of the International Association of Machinists. They wrote as members of the United Labor Policy Committee.

Charge Disregard for Labor

Their letter, dated Feb. 9 said Flemming's appointment "completely disregards the considered recommendations of the United Labor Policy Committee, representing 15,000,000 organized workers."

Wilson announced Flemmings appointment as his labor boss despite determined efforts by Tobin to keep manpower policy-making and supervision in the Labor Department. Both Wilson and Tobin had carried their fight for control over the nation's civilian manpower to President Truman.

2. On the wage thaw, public members of the Stablization Board have been proposing that wages be allowed to rise—if employers are willing—no higher than about 10 per cent over levels

Charge Four Sold $20,000 in Drugs to Mitchel Airmen

New York, Feb. 10 (AP)—An air force enlisted man and three others were held in $10,000 bail each yesterday on narcotics charges after an investigation of the alleged sale of $20,000 worth of drugs to airmen at Mitchel Field, N. Y.

The quartet, all residents of Queens, were arrested Thursday night by detectives of the police narcotics squad who said they had gotten complaints that men at the field were using dope.

The arrested airman was identified as Pfc. Cosmo Corette, 24, a Mitchel Field prison guard.

Col. Melvin S. Hollidge, base commander, issued a statement saying Corette denied selling narcotics on the base or to OASE personnel.

"However, if further investigation should indicate narcotics of any type being sold to Mitchel airmen from any source, we intend to make every effort to stop such traffic," Hollidge asserted.

The quartet was accused of illegal possession of narcotics.

Setting the high bail, Magistrate Paul Balsam said:

"Dope peddlers are a secret weapon of the enemy. Sale of narcotics is one of the most vicious threats to a country; it could destroy a nation."

Corette's alleged accomplices are Rudolph Cadogan, 27, and Herbert Martin, 28, both negroes, and Nicholas Spartro, 32.

Connelly Blasts School Opponents For Crack at Him

Charge About Secrecy Is Called Smear Against Board Serving the District

"According to The Freeman of February 7, the anguished wails of Supervisor Claude Bell of the Town of Olive and Olive Democratic Chairman Robert Haver are still reverberating over the Ashokan Reservoir. Like Tennyson's brook, without rhyme or reason, they go on forever."

This was the sentiment of Vincent G. Connelly, attorney for the Onteora School Board, which is under fire because of an increase of $300,000 in the cost of erecting a proposed central school.

"Although counsel to the board," he continued, "I would not now be taking up my pen as a feeble defense cudgel except this last bit of nonsense was indirectly an attack upon me.

"In their first manifesto published January 31, they joined forces on a platform which was wet with crocodile tears for the taxpayer. It is a platform upon which gentlemen of different political faith can float through the air with the greatest of ease. Breathes there a citizen with soul so dead that he is not against taxes! Yet, strangely enough at the Olive meeting on Wednesday Messrs. Haver and Bell did not emphasize the taxing aspects of the situation.

Hits Power Attitude

"In their second manifesto published on February 5, they ridiculed the board for not knowing how to build a school without an additional appropriation of $300,000 and with complete and unmitigated arrogance demanded the resignation of the entire school board. A little power can make some people powerfully intoxicated with that power.

"In their third manifesto of February 7, they charged the Board with haste and secrecy in signing contracts. The complaint of hastiness is particularly amusing since one of their chief complaints against the board has been just the opposite—that of tardiness, delay and "dilly-dallying." The complaint of secrecy is just another part of the smear campaign of Messrs. Bell and Haver, who, for some reason or reasons best known to themselves, seek to discredit the Board by accusations of cloak and dagger tactics. Telegrams were sent to the contractors almost a week in advance to be at my office on Tuesday to sign contracts. One would think from the accusation of secrecy that a password was necessary to enter my office; that the shades were lowered and the doors locked and that the contractors and board affixed their signatures to the contracts with the feeling that they were pulling a fast one on J. Edgar Hoover and the F.B.I. As a matter of fact, many people in the district knew before hand of the time and place of the signing of the contracts and at the Olive meeting on Wednesday taxpayers publicly unpeeled the skin from the baloney by declaring that they knew the contracts were being signed Tuesday. Apparently, Messrs. Haver and Bell feel that any meeting to which they are not given a special engraved invitation is a very secret meeting.

Senate Committee Favors Draft of Some 18-Year-Olds

Approves Bill to Raise Manpower by 7-1; Provisions Are Announced

Washington, Feb. 10 (AP)—The Defense Department proposal for drafting 18-year-olds appears certain to reach the Senate floor. It was included in a bill approved last night by a 7 to 1 vote of the Senate Preparedness Subcommittee.

Although the measure still must clear the Senate Armed Services Committee, that step seemed certain since the seven senators who voted for it in the subcommittee form a majority in the 13-man armed services group.

The subcommittee added several restrictions and modifications to the broad plan urged by Secretary of Defense Marshall to build up the nation's fighting manpower and provide a long-term reserve.

Young men of 18 have never been drafted in peacetime. And stiff opposition to the plan has developed in both the Senate and House, because of many protests, especially from parents and educators.

The House Armed Services Committee is working on a similar measure with public hearings suspended for the time being.

Senator Morse (R.-Ore.), who voted against the subcommittee bill, issued a statement indicating he will continue to fight for some further changes.

Would Take Aliens

One provision the group inserted in the measure would authorize army enlistment during the next five years of up to 125,000 carefully selected aliens.

Chairman Lyndon Johnson (D.-Tex.) told reporters this move was not intended as "any substitute" for drafting 18 year olds. "It is in addition to other features for building up our forces," Johnson said.

Major provision approved by the Senate group would:

1. Lower the present minimum

Will Investigate Rosenberg Aspects

Washington, Feb. 10 (AP)—Attorney General McGrath announced last night a federal grand jury will investigate "certain aspects" of testimony given at Senate hearings on the nomination of Mrs. Anna M. Rosenberg to be assistant secretary of defense.

McGrath said he is asking the grand jury to look into the matter next week but he declined to say what action is proposed. However, the Senate Armed Service Committee asked the Justice Department on Jan. 15 to decide whether witnesses who accused Mrs. Rosenberg of being a Communist sympathizer should be prosecuted on perjury charges.

Ralph De Sola of New York city told the committee last year that he saw Mrs. Rosenberg at Communist meetings 15 years ago. Mrs. Rosenberg insisted throughout the hearing that she was being confused with another Anna Rosenberg.

Un-American Probers Decide To Question Robinson Again

Washington, Feb. 10 (AP)—The House Un-American Activities Committe has tentatively decided to call movie bad man Edward G. Robinson back for more questioning. Some committee members indicated another general search for Communist influence in Hollywood may be in the making.

Meanwhile, the Senate's new subcommittee for investigation of un-American activities announced it has subpoenaed several thousand documents belonging to the Institute of Pacific Relations.

The House committee did not say why an "informal understanding" was reached at a closed door session yesterday to recall Robinson. Robinson appeared voluntarily before the committee Dec. 21 to swear he had never been a Communist or in any way disloyal. The committee subsequently announced he had been "cleared."

In Hollywood yesterday Robinson repeated that he is not and never has been a Communist or Communist sympathizer "despite unfounded and irresponsible rumors to that effect." He added, "I have no hesitancy in placing myself at the disposal of the committee until they are completely satisfied on every score."

Committee members said the Robinson case was brought up in yesterday's organizational meeting by Rep. Jackson (R.-Calif.). Earlier this week Jackson told reporters the committee's function is not to "clear" anyone and protested the group's action on Robinson.

A spokesman for the Senate Un-American Activities Subcommitte said the Institute of Pacific Relations files had been taken because they were relevant to the scope of the group's inquiry. The files were taken from a barn near Lee, Mass.

Senator McCarthy (R.-Wis.) charged in a Senate speech last year that "Soviet intelligence . . . has taken over" the Institute. The Institute's avowed purpose is to increase friendship and knowledge among nations on the Pacific basin. Democratic members of a Senate group which investigated McCarthy's charges called them baseless, while Republicans refused to sign the group's report.

In New York, the Institute's secretary general, William Holland, said the Institute had no objections to its files being seen by "any properly accredited agency provided they are used fairly." He said they had already been studied by the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

Floods Menacing Some Areas; Snow Falls in South

Many Homeless as Water Causes Heavy Damage in Sections Where Rivers Overflow

(By The Associated Press)

Flood waters menaced areas in western Washington and southern Pennsylvania and light snow fell over parts of the south today.

The northeastern states got a blast of sub-zero weather while the winter-weary midwest got some relief from a long cold spell.

It was mild in the western part of the country and in the gulf regions.

The floods caused heavy damage and made scores of persons homeless.

Temperatures dropped to 20 below in the New England states early today and it was minus 8 in Rochester, N. Y. The freezing area in the south extended north of Atlanta.

Two Inches at Raleigh

Snow measured two inches at Raleigh, N. C., Knoxville, Tenn., and Dalton, Ga. There was one inch at Greenville, S. C., and a trace at Charlotte, N. C.

Most of the north central region got relief from the sub-zero cold. Temperatures were from 20 to 30 degrees above yesterday's below zero levels. The warmer air moved into the region from the plains where in some areas yesterday readings were in the 50's.

A half dozen rivers in western Washington, fed by record rains and melting snow in the mountains, were on a rampage. Scores

Allies Take Kimpo Fields; Planes Riddle 1,000 Reds

Patrol Crosses Han River Reaching South Gate of Seoul as Capital Is Shelled; Warships Rake Enemy

Tokyo, Feb. 10 (AP)—Allied tank-infantry columns, rolling northward on the floodtide of their 17-day Red-killing offensive, captured three big prizes around Seoul today without firing a shot.

1. They swept into the southwest industrial suburbs of Yongdungpo.

2. They raced on to the big Kimpo airfields 15 miles northwest of Seoul.

3. They rumbled into the battered Yellow Sea port of Inchon 19 miles west of the old South Korean capital.

"Where the hell are the Chinese?" a GI shouted as he entered Yongdungpo.

One patrol crossed the frozen Han river, breached the southern gate of Seoul itself and tangled in a brisk fire-fight with a company of Chinese troops inside the capital city.

Allied artillery and Howitzer shells crumped into the capital, already buffeted and devastated three times by the tides of the strange Korean war.

Allied warplanes buzzed low in attack. They spewed out napalm firebombs, rockets and machine-gun shells wherever pilots could flush a vanishing enemy. They raked a force of 1,000 Reds trying to flee north across the Han.

Big guns of allied warships including the battleship Missouri and the cruisers USS St. Paul and the British Belfast poured shells into the enemy area. The warships were prowling the Yellow Sea waters off Inchon.

Reds Crumble in West

The whole Communist defense in the west had crumbled. But the Reds were making a stand in the central Korea area against the northward drive of the old U. S. 10th Corps. The 10th now was fighting as a unified element of the U. S. Eighth Army under overall command of Lt. Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway.

Far to the north of the swift ground action, U. S. Fifth Air Force F80 Shooting Star jets tangled in the Sinanju area with Russian-made MIG-15 jets.

No damage to either side was reported.

The MIGs showed up in force for the first time in days. Three flights of Shooting Star pilots reported the MIG attacks. There were 12 Russian-made jets in one flight, seven or eight in a second and an unreported number in the third.

American B-29s plastered Red rail bridges near the Red Korean capital of Pyongyang with 64 one-ton block-busters. Other Superforts hit the rail yards and bridges at Sunchon, about 30 miles north of Pyongyang.

Timetable of Attack

The lightning ground thrusts on the western front started at dawn Saturday. United Nations tanks and men crunched over new snow and raced to their objectives. This was the timetable of the biggest allied day of the war this year:

9:30 a. m.—25th Division Infantry entered Yongdungpo, big industrial suburb of Seoul. Twenty

Says Ike Would Run On Coalition Ticket

Los Angeles, Feb. 10 (AP)—Harry C. Butcher, wartime naval aide to Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, says his onetime boss would accept the presidency on a coalition ticket if the public demanded it in a national crisis.

Butcher last saw Eisenhower just before the general accepted the post of supreme commander of Atlantic Pact nations.

"At that time the general said he would work like the devil in Europe for 18 months," Butcher told a civic group yesterday. "I won't speculate on the significance of that time limit.

"Personally, I'd hate to see him take the beating of the office. But I can imagine circumstances under which even Truman might say, 'what the country needs is Eisenhower'."

Hurley Woman Is Dead From Bullet Wound in Head

Mrs. Van Tassell Thought Victim of Accident While Unloading Rifle in Home

Mary Elizabeth Van Tassell, 34, wife of John H. Van Tassell, manager of Van's Drug Store at 36 John street, was found dead in her home 24 Oak street, Hurley, last evening shortly after 10 o'clock. Death was from a bullet wound in the head. Authorities believe the gun was accidentally fired while Mrs. Van Tassell was unloading it

Nearby was a .22 calibre rifle with one exploded shell in the chamber and another unexploded shell in the magazine. Near the body were three unexploded shells which indicated she may have been in the process of unloading the rifle when it went off. Mrs. Van Tassell was not unfamiliar with guns and frequently accompanied her husband on hunting trips. Authorities today said she may have been unloading the rifle preparatory to cleaning the gun and failed to remove all of the bullets.

Was Alone at Time

At the time of the incident she was alone in the house and the time of the incident has not been determined but it was after 5 o'clock. About 5 o'clock she called her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Vivian

Says 20,000 Pints Of Blood Available

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 10 (AP)—Within six hours of an atomic bomb attack, the State Civil Defense organization would have 20,000 pints of blood en route to the disaster area.

That's the prediction of Dr. James H. Lade, director of the State Health Department's Office of Medical Defense. He spoke yesterday at a meeting of the 38-member state health resources committee.

Dr. Lade said it would be impossible to stockpile enough blood for an atomic disaster. For example, he said, 1,000,000 pints would be needed in New York city during the first 24 hours after an attack there.

He said 263 blood stations would go into operation upstate if there were a disaster. A total of 96,000 donors are listed for service at these stations, he added.

Switchmen's Strike Is Blamed On Rail Union; Fined $25,000

Chicago, Feb. 10 (AP)—The Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, a federal judge ruled yesterday in fining it $25,000, was responsible for the rail switchmen's "sick" strike last December.

Judge Michael L. Igoe imposed the fine on the rail union as full crews of switchmen ended a 10-day similar "sick" walkout and returned to work across the country.

The fine was based on violation of a Federal Court order of Dec. 13 directing the switchmen to return to work. The stoppage ended after three days.

The union faces a second charge of contempt in connection with the walkout just ended. A hearing is scheduled for Feb. 14 but Igoe indicated he would continue it to a later date.

Judge Igoe, who dismissed charges against 40 of its national and local officers and 31 lodges of the BRT in the contempt hearing, said: "As long as a union is functioning as a union, it must be responsible for the mass action of its members."

The government had asked Judge Igoe to fine the rail union $1,500,000, fine three of its top officers a total of $100,000, and to consider fines for other officials of local unions in the Chicago area.

Judge Igoe said he didn't believe in imposing "astronomical fines," and added: "But the union must realize the great wrong they have done."

There was no comment on the ruling from brotherhood or railroad officials in Chicago or Washington.

The second "sick" walkout started on Jan. 30 and followed the same pattern as the mid-December stoppage. Switchmen stayed home, reporting sick, or walked off the job. The December walkout delayed the movement of much Christmas mail and slowed industry.

The second stoppage nearly paralyzed the nation's rail transportation and made idle an estimated 250,000 workers in other industries. It was one of the longest and costliest rail walkouts in the nation's history.

Both walkouts stemmed from the long wage-hour dispute between the unions and the carriers. The unions are seeking a 40-hour work week at 48 hours pay and changes in working rules.

Ex-President's Speech Brings Divided Stand in Capital Among Two Parties

Watch and Wait

Would Survey Europe's Unity Before Troops Are Sent Overseas

New York, Feb. 10 (AP)—Former President Herbert Hoover's warning against a land war with Russia brough divided congressional reaction in Washington today and the possibility he may be invited to hearings on the Troops-to-Europe issue.

Declaring that air and sea might are America's best weapons against aggression, the 76-year-old Hoover said in a radio address last night that land war against Russia would risk "the loss of all civilization."

The Senate Foreign Relations and Armed Services Committees begin public hearings next Thursday on the bill to permit sending American troops to Europe.

A Republican member of the committee, who asked not to be identified, said he though the point of view that Hoover has expressed "certainly should be presented."

Impractical, They Say

Democrats termed impractical Hoover's proposal that the country depend on air and sea might. Most Republicans who expressed an opinion agreed with Hoover on the losses to be suffered from a land war with Russia.

Hoover, who said after his speech he had not yet heard of an invitation to testify at the hearings, urged a period of watchful waiting for evidence of Europe's unity and military strength before sending more ground troopers there.

The former Republican president said that instead of committing land armies abroad, the U. S. should build "overwhelming air and naval power" for use against Russia if she attacks Europe.

"Land offensive against the Communists," he said, "could bring no military victory, no political conclusion." It could bring catastrophe to America, he added, "with no salvation to Europe."

In his second major foreign policy speech in recent weeks, Hoover urged emphasis on production of planes, ships and munitions and sending of supplies to nations "doing their utmost to defend themselves."

Would Arm Chiang

He proposed that Chiang Kai-shek be freed "to do what he wishes to China" and that the U. S. "furnish him with munitions."

His address, carried nationally over the Mutual Broadcasting System network, seemed to modify somewhat his widely debated "Gibraltar" speech of six weeks ago.

But Hoover in no way repudiated his basic thesis that America

'Frozen Woman' Is Making Medical Record in Recovery

Chicago, Feb. 10 (AP)—Chicago's "frozen woman" is making an "astounding recovery," a physician said today, in a case that is making medical history.

The woman, Mrs. Dorothy Mae Stevens, a 23-year old Negro, appeared gaining today—two days after she was brought to Michael Reese Hospital with a temperature of 64 degrees, the lowest in the history of medicine. She was found frozen stiff in a south side passageway. Medical records show no human with a temperature that low ever survived.

Medical authorities had expressed little hope for her recovery and said that if she survived her limbs and arms might have to be amputated.

But Dr. Harold Laufman, staff surgeon, said "it appears now that Mrs. Stevens will keep her limbs. Even now she is able to move all her fingers and toes individually and collectively. She will shed skin, however, but that can be restored through skin graft. She has made an astounding recovery."

Her temperature today remained at about 100 degrees, as against the 98.6 normal, the same as yesterday. She was conscious and although she was reported "resting well," her condition remained critical, a hospital spokesman said.

Un-American Probers Decide To Question Robinson Again

Washington, Feb. 10 (AP)—The House Un-American Activities Committe has tentatively decided to call movie bad man Edward G. Robinson back for more questioning. Some committee members indicated another general search for Communist influence in Hollywood may be in the making.

Meanwhile, the Senate's new subcommittee for investigation of un-American activities announced it has subpoenaed several thousand documents belonging to the Institute of Pacific Relations.

The House committee did not say why an "informal understanding" was reached at a closed door session yesterday to recall Robinson. Robinson appeared voluntarily before the committee Dec. 21 to swear he had never been a Communist or in any way disloyal. The committee subsequently announced he had been "cleared."

In Hollywood yesterday Robinson repeated that he is not and never has been a Communist or Communist sympathizer "despite unfounded and irresponsible rumors to that effect." He added, "I have no hesitancy in placing myself at the disposal of the committee until they are completely satisfied on every score."

Committee members said the Robinson case was brought up in yesterday's organizational meeting by Rep. Jackson (R.-Calif.). Earlier this week Jackson told reporters the committee's function is not to "clear" anyone and protested the group's action on Robinson.

A spokesman for the Senate Un-American Activities Subcommitte said the Institute of Pacific Relations files had been taken because they were relevant to the scope of the group's inquiry. The files were taken from a barn near Lee, Mass.

Senator McCarthy (R.-Wis.) charged in a Senate speech last year that "Soviet intelligence . . . has taken over" the Institute. The Institute's avowed purpose is to increase friendship and knowledge among nations on the Pacific basin. Democratic members of a Senate group which investigated McCarthy's charges called them baseless, while Republicans refused to sign the group's report.

In New York, the Institute's secretary general, William Holland, said the Institute had no objections to its files being seen by "any properly accredited agency provided they are used fairly." He said they had already been studied by the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

Senate Committee Favors Draft of Some 18-Year-Olds

Approves Bill to Raise Manpower by 7-1; Provisions Are Announced

Washington, Feb. 10 (AP)—The Defense Department proposal for drafting 18-year-olds appears certain to reach the Senate floor. It was included in a bill approved last night by a 7 to 1 vote of the Senate Preparedness Subcommittee.

Although the measure still must clear the Senate Armed Services Committee, that step seemed certain since the seven senators who voted for it in the subcommittee form a majority in the 13-man armed services group.

The subcommittee added several restrictions and modifications to the broad plan urged by Secretary of Defense Marshall to build up the nation's fighting manpower and provide a long-term reserve.

Young men of 18 have never been drafted in peacetime. And stiff opposition to the plan has developed in both the Senate and House, because of many protests, especially from parents and educators.

The House Armed Services Committee is working on a similar measure with public hearings suspended for the time being.

Senator Morse (R.-Ore.), who voted against the subcommittee bill, issued a statement indicating he will continue to fight for some further changes.

Would Take Aliens

One provision the group inserted in the measure would authorize army enlistment during the next five years of up to 125,000 carefully selected aliens.

Chairman Lyndon Johnson (D.-Tex.) told reporters this move was not intended as "any substitute" for drafting 18 year olds. "It is in addition to other features for building up our forces," Johnson said.

Major provision approved by the Senate group-would:

1. Lower the present minimum

Will Investigate Rosenberg Aspects

Washington, Feb. 10 (AP)—Attorney General McGrath announced last night a federal grand jury will investigate "certain aspects" of testimony given at Senate hearings on the nomination of Mrs. Anna M. Rosenberg to be assistant secretary of defense.

McGrath said he is asking the grand jury to look into the matter next week but he declined to say what action is proposed. However, the Senate Armed Service Committee asked the Justice Department on Jan. 15 to decide whether witnesses who accused Mrs. Rosenberg of being a Communist sympathizer should be prosecuted on perjury charges.

Ralph De Sola of New York city told the committee last year that he saw Mrs. Rosenberg at Communist meetings 15 years ago. Mrs. Rosenberg insisted throughout the hearing that she was being confused with another Anna Rosenberg.

Land War Against Russia May Bring Catastrophe: Hoover Urges Strong Air, Sea Power

Patrol Crosses Han River Reaching South Gate of Seoul as Capital Is Shelled; Warships Rake Enemy

Tokyo, Feb. 10 (AP)—Allied tank-infantry columns, rolling northward on the floodtide of their 17-day Red-killing offensive, captured three big prizes around Seoul today without firing a shot.

1. They swept into the southwest industrial suburbs of Yongdungpo.

2. They raced on to the big Kimpo airfields 15 miles northwest of Seoul.

3. They rumbled into the battered Yellow Sea port of Inchon 19 miles west of the old South Korean capital.

"Where the hell are the Chinese?" a GI shouted as he entered Yongdungpo.

One patrol crossed the frozen Han river, breached the southern gate of Seoul itself and tangled in a brisk fire-fight with a company of Chinese troops inside the capital city.

Allied artillery and Howitzer shells crumped into the capital, already buffeted and devastated three times by the tides of the strange Korean war.

Allied warplanes buzzed low in attack. They spewed out napalm firebombs, rockets and machine-gun shells wherever pilots could flush a vanishing enemy. They raked a force of 1,000 Reds trying to flee north across the Han.

Big guns of allied warships including the battleship Missouri and the cruisers USS St. Paul and the British Belfast poured shells into the enemy area. The warships were prowling the Yellow Sea waters off Inchon.

Reds Crumble in West

The whole Communist defense in the west had crumbled. But the Reds were making a stand in the central Korea area against the northward drive of the old U. S. 10th Corps. The 10th now was fighting as a unified element of the U. S. Eighth Army under overall command of Lt. Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway.

Far to the north of the swift ground action, U. S. Fifth Air Force F80 Shooting Star jets tangled in the Sinanju area with Russian-made MIG-15 jets.

No damage to either side was reported.

The MIGs showed up in force for the first time in days. Three flights of Shooting Star pilots reported the MIG attacks. There were 12 Russian-made jets in one flight, seven or eight in a second and an unreported number in the third.

Says Ike Would Run On Coalition Ticket

Los Angeles, Feb. 10 (AP)—Harry C. Butcher, wartime naval aide to Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, says his onetime boss would accept the presidency on a coalition ticket if the public demanded it in a national crisis.

Butcher last saw Eisenhower just before the general accepted the post of supreme commander of Atlantic Pact nations.

"At that time the general said he would work like the devil in Europe for 18 months," Butcher told a civic group yesterday. "I won't speculate on the significance of that time limit.

"Personally, I'd hate to see him take the beating of the office. But I can imagine circumstances under which even Truman might say, 'what the country needs is Eisenhower'."

Hurley Woman Is Dead From Bullet Wound in Head

Mrs. Van Tassell Thought Victim of Accident While Unloading Rifle in Home

Mary Elizabeth Van Tassell, 34, wife of John H. Van Tassell, manager of Van's Drug Store at 36 John street, was found dead in her home 24 Oak street, Hurley, last evening shortly after 10 o'clock. Death was from a bullet wound in the head. Authorities believe the gun was accidentally fired while Mrs. Van Tassell was unloading it

Nearby was a .22 calibre rifle with one exploded shell in the chamber and another unexploded shell in the magazine. Near the body were three unexploded shells which indicated she may have been in the process of unloading the rifle when it went off. Mrs. Van Tassell was not unfamiliar with guns and frequently accompanied her husband on hunting trips. Authorities today said she may have been unloading the rifle preparatory to cleaning the gun and failed to remove all of the bullets.

Was Alone at Time

At the time of the incident she was alone in the house and the time of the incident has not been determined but it was after 5 o'clock. About 5 o'clock she called her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Vivian

Says 20,000 Pints Of Blood Available

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 10 (AP)—Within six hours of an atomic bomb attack, the State Civil Defense organization would have 20,000 pints of blood en route to the disaster area.

That's the prediction of Dr. James H. Lade, director of the State Health Department's Office of Medical Defense. He spoke yesterday at a meeting of the 38-member state health resources committee.

Dr. Lade said it would be impossible to stockpile enough blood for an atomic disaster. For example, he said, 1,000,000 pints would be needed in New York city during the first 24 hours after an attack there.

He said 263 blood stations would go into operation upstate if there were a disaster. A total of 96,000 donors are listed for service at these stations, he added.

Switchmen's Strike Is Blamed On Rail Union; Fined $25,000

Chicago, Feb. 10 (AP)—The Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, a federal judge ruled yesterday in fining it $25,000, was responsible for the rail switchmen's "sick" strike last December.

Judge Michael L. Igoe imposed the fine on the rail union as full crews of switchmen ended a 10-day similar "sick" walkout and returned to work across the country.

The fine was based on violation of a Federal Court order of Dec. 13 directing the switchmen to return to work. The stoppage ended after three days.

The union faces a second charge of contempt in connection with the walkout just ended. A hearing is scheduled for Feb. 14 but Igoe indicated he would continue it to a later date.

Judge Igoe, who dismissed charges against 40 of its national and local officers and 31 lodges of the BRT in the contempt hearing, said: "As long as a union is functioning as a union, it must be responsible for the mass action of its members."

The government had asked Judge Igoe to fine the rail union $1,500,000, fine three of its top officers a total of $100,000, and to consider fines for other officials of local unions in the Chicago area.

Judge Igoe said he didn't believe in imposing "astronomical fines," and added: "But the union must realize the great wrong they have done."

There was no comment on the ruling from brotherhood or railroad officials in Chicago or Washington.

The second "sick" walkout started on Jan. 30 and followed the same pattern as the mid-December stoppage. Switchmen stayed home, reporting sick, or walked off the job. The December walkout delayed the movement of much Christmas mail and slowed industry.

The second stoppage nearly paralyzed the nation's rail transportation and made idle an estimated 250,000 workers in other industries. It was one of the longest and costliest rail walkouts in the nation's history.

Both walkouts stemmed from the long wage-hour dispute between the unions and the carriers. The unions are seeking a 40-hour work week at 48 hours pay and changes in working rules.

Ex-President's Speech Brings Divided Stand in Capital Among Two Parties

Would Survey Europe's Unity Before Troops Are Sent Overseas

New York, Feb. 10 (AP)—Former President Herbert Hoover's warning against a land war with Russia brough divided congressional reaction in Washington today and the possibility he may be invited to hearings on the Troops-to-Europe issue.

Declaring that air and sea might are America's best weapons against aggression, the 76-year-old Hoover said in a radio address last night that land war against Russia would risk "the loss of all civilization."

The Senate Foreign Relations and Armed Services Committees begin public hearings next Thursday on the bill to permit sending American troops to Europe.

A Republican member of the committee, who asked not to be identified, said he though the point of view that Hoover has expressed "certainly should be presented."

Impractical, They Say

Democrats termed impractical Hoover's proposal that the country depend on air and sea might. Most Republicans who expressed an opinion agreed with Hoover on the losses to be suffered from a land war with Russia.

Hoover, who said after his speech he had not yet heard of an invitation to testify at the hearings, urged a period of watchful waiting for evidence of Europe's unity and military strength before sending more ground troopers there.

The former Republican president said that instead of committing land armies abroad, the U. S. should build "overwhelming air and naval power" for use against Russia if she attacks Europe.

"Land offensive against the Communists," he said, "could bring no military victory, no political conclusion." It could bring catastrophe to America, he added, "with no salvation to Europe."

In his second major foreign policy speech in recent weeks, Hoover urged emphasis on production of planes, ships and munitions and sending of supplies to nations "doing their utmost to defend themselves."

Would Arm Chiang

He proposed that Chiang Kai-shek be freed "to do what he wishes to China" and that the U. S. "furnish him with munitions."

His address, carried nationally over the Mutual Broadcasting System network, seemed to modify somewhat his widely debated "Gibraltar" speech of six weeks ago.

But Hoover in no way repudiated his basic thesis that America

'Frozen Woman' Is Making Medical Record in Recovery

Chicago, Feb. 10 (AP)—Chicago's "frozen woman" is making an "astounding recovery," a physician said today, in a case that is making medical history.

The woman, Mrs. Dorothy Mae Stevens, a 23-year old Negro, appeared gaining today—two days after she was brought to Michael Reese Hospital with a temperature of 64 degrees, the lowest in the history of medicine. She was found frozen stiff in a south side passageway. Medical records show no human with a temperature that low ever survived.

Medical authorities had expressed little hope for her recovery and said that if she survived her limbs and arms might have to be amputated.

But Dr. Harold Laufman, staff surgeon, said "it appears now that Mrs. Stevens will keep her limbs. Even now she is able to move all her fingers and toes individually and collectively. She will shed skin, however, but that can be restored through skin graft. She has made an astounding recovery."

Her temperature today remained at about 100 degrees, as against the 98.6 normal, the same as yesterday. She was conscious and although she was reported "resting well," her condition remained critical, a hospital spokesman said.

Can't Figure Extent To Thaw Wage Freeze

Labor Leaders Are Against Naming Flemming As Boss

Washington, Feb. 10 (AP) — The Wage Stabilization Board, trying hard to find an overall wage policy to replace the temporary Jan. 26 freeze, may not come up with one until late next week—if then.

The board, headed by Cyrus S. Ching, can't agree on how far to thaw out the freeze. Ching, on leave from the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service, intends to return as chairman of that body as soon as a firm wage policy can be worked out.

Ching has headed the wage board since last Oct. 10. If and when he does resign from the board, a possible successor is W. Williard Wirtz, acting administrative director of the wage board, or David L. Cole, a Paterson, N. J., labor attorney.

May Not Vote Formula

It seems probable today that the three labor members of the wage board may not vote for any wage formula at all. That would leave it up to the three industry and three public members of the nine-man board to come to terms. Ching is one of the public members.

Meanwhile, four other labor leaders wrote a vigorous letter of protest made public today, to Defense Mobilization Chief Charles E. Wilson. The four said they don't like Wilson's appointment of Dr. Arthur S. Flemming to be chairman of a Defense Manpower Policy Committee. They spoke out in support of Secretary of Labor Tobin's efforts to retain control of the nation's civilian manpower program.

Here's a fill-in on these and other home-front mobilization developments:

1. The labor leaders who wrote the letter to Wilson: William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor; Philip Murray, president of the Congress of Industrial Organization; George E. Leighty, president of the Railway Labor Executive Association, and A. J. Hayes, president of the International Association of Machinists. They wrote as members of the United Labor Policy Committee.

Charge Disregard for Labor

Their letter, dated Feb. 9 said Flemming's appointment "completely disregards the considered recommendations of the United Labor Policy Committee, representing 15,000,000 organized workers."

Wilson announced Flemmings appointment as his labor boss despite determined efforts by Tobin to keep manpower policy-making and supervision in the Labor Department. Both Wilson and Tobin had carried their fight for control over the nation's civilian manpower to President Truman.

2. On the wage thaw, public members of the Stablization Board have been proposing that wages be allowed to rise—if employers are willing—no higher than about 10 per cent over levels

Charge Four Sold $20,000 in Drugs to Mitchel Airmen

New York, Feb. 10 (AP)—An air force enlisted man and three others were held in $10,000 bail each yesterday on narcotics charges after an investigation of the alleged sale of $20,000 worth of drugs to airmen at Mitchel Field, N. Y.

The quartet, all residents of Queens, were arrested Thursday night by detectives of the police narcotics squad who said they had gotten complaints that men at the field were using dope.

The arrested airman was identified as Pfc. Cosmo Corette, 24, a Mitchel Field prison guard.

Col. Melvin S. Hollidge, base commander, issued a statement saying Corette denied selling narcotics on the base or to OASE personnel.

"However, if further investigation should indicate narcotics of any type being sold to Mitchel airmen from any source, we intend to make every effort to stop such traffic," Hollidge asserted.

The quartet was accused of illegal possession of narcotics.

Setting the high bail, Magistrate Paul Balsam said:

"Dope peddlers are a secret weapon of the enemy. Sale of narcotics is one of the most vicious threats to a country; it could destroy a nation."

Corette's alleged accomplices are Rudolph Cadogan, 27, and Herbert Martin, 28, both negroes, and Nicholas Spartro, 32.

Connelly Blasts School Opponents For Crack at Him

Charge About Secrecy Is Called Smear Against Board Serving the District

"According to The Freeman of February 7, the anguished wails of Supervisor Claude Bell of the Town of Olive and Olive Democratic Chairman Robert Haver are still reverberating over the Ashokan Reservoir. Like Tennyson's brook, without rhyme or reason, they go on forever."

This was the sentiment of Vincent G. Connelly, attorney for the Onteora School Board, which is under fire because of an increase of $300,000 in the cost of erecting a proposed central school.

"Although counsel to the board," he continued, "I would not now be taking up my pen as a feeble defense cudgel except this last bit of nonsense was indirectly an attack upon me.

"In their first manifesto published January 31, they joined forces on a platform which was wet with crocodile tears for the taxpayer. It is a platform upon which gentlemen of different political faith can float through the air with the greatest of ease. Breathes there a citizen with soul so dead that he is not against taxes! Yet, strangely enough at the Olive meeting on Wednesday Messrs. Haver and Bell did not emphasize the taxing aspects of the situation.

Hits Power Attitude

"In their second manifesto published on February 5, they ridiculed the board for not knowing how to build a school without an additional appropriation of $300,000 and with complete and unmitigated arrogance demanded the resignation of the entire school board. A little power can make some people powerfully intoxicated with that power.

"In their third manifesto of February 7, they charged the Board with haste and secrecy in signing contracts. The complaint of hastiness is particularly amusing since one of their chief complaints against the board has been just the opposite—that of tardiness, delay and "dilly-dallying." The complaint of secrecy is just another part of the smear campaign of Messrs. Bell and Haver, who, for some reason or reasons best known to themselves, seek to discredit the Board by accusations of cloak and dagger tactics. Telegrams were sent to the contractors almost a week in advance to be at my office on Tuesday to sign contracts. One would think from the accusation of secrecy that a password was necessary to enter my office; that the shades were lowered and the doors locked and that the contractors and board affixed their signatures to the contracts with the feeling that they were pulling a fast one on J. Edgar Hoover and the F.B.I. As a matter of fact, many people in the district knew before hand of the time and place of the signing of the contracts and at the Olive meeting on Wednesday taxpayers publicly unpeeled the skin from the baloney by declaring that they knew the contracts were being signed Tuesday. Apparently, Messrs. Haver and Bell feel that any meeting to which they are not given a special engraved invitation is a very secret meeting.

"As has been explained, the contracts signed are within the permisible $1,850,000 with deletions that can be restored if the

Un-American Probers Decide To Question Robinson Again

Washington, Feb. 10 (AP)—The House Un-American Activities Committee has tentatively decided to call movie bad man Edward G. Robinson back for more questioning. Some committee members indicated another general search for Communist influence in Hollywood may be in the making.

Meanwhile, the Senate's new subcommittee for investigation of un-American activities announced it has subpoenaed several thousand documents belonging to the Institute of Pacific Relations.

The House committee did not say why an "informal understanding" was reached at a closed door session yesterday to recall Robinson. Robinson appeared voluntarily before the committee Dec. 21 to swear he had never been a Communist or in any way disloyal. The committee subsequently announced he had been "cleared."

In Hollywood yesterday Robinson repeated that he is not and never has been a Communist or Communist sympathizer "despite unfounded and irresponsible rumors to that effect." He added, "I have no hesitancy in placing myself at the disposal of the committee until they are completely satisfied on every score."

Committee members said the Robinson case was brought up in yesterday's organizational meeting by Rep. Jackson (R.-Calif.). Earlier this week Jackson told reporters the committee's function is not to "clear" anyone and protested the group's action on Robinson.

A spokesman for the Senate Un-American Activities Subcommitte said the Institute of Pacific Relations files had been taken because they were relevant to the scope of the group's inquiry. The files were taken from a barn near Lee, Mass.

Senator McCarthy (R.-Wis.) charged in a Senate speech last year that "Soviet intelligence . . . has taken over" the Institute. The Institute's avowed purpose is to increase friendship and knowledge among nations on the Pacific basin. Democratic members of a Senate group which investigated McCarthy's charges called them baseless, while Republicans refused to sign the group's report.

In New York, the Institute's secretary general, William Holland, said the Institute had no objections to its files being seen by "any properly accredited agency provided they are used fairly." He said they had already been studied by the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

Hoover, who said after his speech he had not yet heard of an invitation to testify at the hearings, urged a period of watchful waiting for evidence of Europe's unity and military strength before sending more ground troopers there.

The former Republican president said that instead of committing land armies abroad, the U. S. should build "overwhelming air and naval power" for use against Russia if she attacks Europe.

"Land offensive against the Communists," he said, "could bring no military victory, no political conclusion." It could bring catastrophe to America, he added, "with no salvation to Europe."

In his second major foreign policy speech in recent weeks, Hoover urged emphasis on production of planes, ships and munitions and sending of supplies to nations "doing their utmost to defend themselves."

Would Arm Chiang

He proposed that Chiang Kai-shek be freed "to do what he wishes to China" and that the U. S. "furnish him with munitions."

His address, carried nationally over the Mutual Broadcasting System network, seemed to modify somewhat his widely debated "Gibraltar" speech of six weeks ago.

Patrol Crosses Han River Reaching South Gate of Seoul as Capital Is Shelled; Warships Rake Enemy

Tokyo, Feb. 10 (AP)—Allied tank-infantry columns, rolling northward on the floodtide of their 17-day Red-killing offensive, captured three big prizes around Seoul today without firing a shot.

1. They swept into the southwest industrial suburbs of Yongdungpo.

2. They raced on to the big Kimpo airfields 15 miles northwest of Seoul.

3. They rumbled into the battered Yellow Sea port of Inchon 19 miles west of the old South Korean capital.

"Where the hell are the Chinese?" a GI shouted as he entered Yongdungpo.

One patrol crossed the frozen Han river, breached the southern gate of Seoul itself and tangled in a brisk fire-fight with a company of Chinese troops inside the capital city.

Allied artillery and Howitzer shells crumped into the capital, already buffeted and devastated three times by the tides of the strange Korean war.

Allied warplanes buzzed low in attack. They spewed out napalm firebombs, rockets and machine-gun shells wherever pilots could flush a vanishing enemy. They raked a force of 1,000 Reds trying to flee north across the Han.

Big guns of allied warships including the battleship Missouri and the cruisers USS St. Paul and the British Belfast poured shells into the enemy area. The warships were prowling the Yellow Sea waters off Inchon.

Reds Crumble in West

The whole Communist defense in the west had crumbled. But the Reds were making a stand in the central Korea area against the northward drive of the old U. S. 10th Corps. The 10th now was fighting as a unified element of the U. S. Eighth Army under over-all command of Lt. Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway.

Far to the north of the swift ground action, U. S. Fifth Air Force F80 Shooting Star jets tangled in the Sinanju area with Russian-made MIG-15 jets.

No damage to either side was reported.

The MIGs showed up in force for the first time in days. Three flights of Shooting Star pilots reported the MIG attacks. There were 12 Russian-made jets in one flight, seven or eight in a second and an unreported number in the third.

American B-29s plastered Red rail bridges near the Red Korean capital of Pyongyang with 64 one-ton block-busters. Other Superforts hit the rail yards and bridges at Sunchon, about 30 miles north of Pyongyang.

Timetable of Attack

The lightning ground thrusts on the western front started at dawn Saturday. United Nations tanks and men crunched over new snow and raced to their objectives. This was the timetable of the biggest allied day of the war this year:

9:30 a. m.—25th Division Infantry entered Yongdungpo, big industrial suburb of Seoul. Twenty

Says Ike Would Run On Coalition Ticket

Los Angeles, Feb. 10 (AP)—Harry C. Butcher, wartime naval aide to Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, says his onetime boss would accept the presidency on a coalition ticket if the public demanded it in a national crisis.

Butcher last saw Eisenhower just before the general accepted the post of supreme commander of Atlantic Pact nations.

"At that time the general said he would work like the devil in Europe for 18 months," Butcher told a civic group yesterday. "I won't speculate on the significance of that time limit.

"Personally, I'd hate to see him take the beating of the office. But I can imagine circumstances under which even Truman might say, 'what the country needs is Eisenhower'."

Hurley Woman Is Dead From Bullet Wound in Head

Mrs. Van Tassell Thought Victim of Accident While Unloading Rifle in Home

Mary Elizabeth Van Tassell, 34, wife of John H. Van Tassell, manager of Van's Drug Store at 36 John street, was found dead in her home 24 Oak street, Hurley, last evening shortly after 10 o'clock. Death was from a bullet wound in the head. Authorities believe the gun was accidentally fired while Mrs. Van Tassell was unloading it

Nearby was a .22 calibre rifle with one exploded shell in the chamber and another unexploded shell in the magazine. Near the body were three unexploded shells which indicated she may have been in the process of unloading the rifle when it went off. Mrs. Van Tassell was not unfamiliar with guns and frequently accompanied her husband on hunting trips. Authorities today said she may have been unloading the rifle preparatory to cleaning the gun and failed to remove all of the bullets.

Was Alone at Time

At the time of the incident she was alone in the house and the time of the incident has not been determined but it was after 5 o'clock. About 5 o'clock she called her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Vivian

Says 20,000 Pints Of Blood Available

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 10 (AP)—Within six hours of an atomic bomb attack, the State Civil Defense organization would have 20,000 pints of blood en route to the disaster area.

That's the prediction of Dr. James H. Lade, director of the State Health Department's Office of Medical Defense. He spoke yesterday at a meeting of the 38-member state health resources committee.

Dr. Lade said it would be impossible to stockpile enough blood for an atomic disaster. For example, he said, 1,000,000 pints would be needed in New York city during the first 24 hours after an attack there.

He said 263 blood stations would go into operation upstate if there were a disaster. A total of 96,000 donors are listed for service at these stations, he added.

Switchmen's Strike Is Blamed On Rail Union; Fined $25,000

Chicago, Feb. 10 (AP)—The Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, a federal judge ruled yesterday in fining it $25,000, was responsible for the rail switchmen's "sick" strike last December.

Judge Michael L. Igoe imposed the fine on the rail union as full crews of switchmen ended a 10-day similar "sick" walkout and returned to work across the country.

The fine was based on violation of a Federal Court order of Dec. 13 directing the switchmen to return to work. The stoppage ended after three days.

The union faces a second charge of contempt in connection with the walkout just ended. A hearing is scheduled for Feb. 14 but Igoe indicated he would continue it to a later date.

Judge Igoe, who dismissed charges against 40 of its national and local officers and 31 lodges of the BRT in the contempt hearing, said: "As long as a union is functioning as a union, it must be responsible for the mass action of its members."

The government had asked Judge Igoe to fine the rail union $1,500,000, fine three of its top officers a total of $100,000, and to consider fines for other officials of local unions in the Chicago area.

Judge Igoe said he didn't believe in imposing "astronomical fines," and added: "But the union must realize the great wrong they have done."

There was no comment on the ruling from brotherhood or railroad officials in Chicago or Washington.

The second "sick" walkout started on Jan. 30 and followed the same pattern as the mid-December stoppage. Switchmen stayed home, reporting sick, or walked off the job. The December walkout delayed the movement of much Christmas mail and slowed industry.

The second stoppage nearly paralyzed the nation's rail transportation and made idle an estimated 250,000 workers in other industries. It was one of the longest and costliest rail walkouts in the nation's history.

Both walkouts stemmed from the long wage-hour dispute between the unions and the carriers. The unions are seeking a 40-hour work week at 48 hours pay and changes in working rules.

'Frozen Woman' Is Making Medical Record in Recovery

Chicago, Feb. 10 (AP)—Chicago's "frozen woman" is making an "astounding recovery," a physician said today, in a case that is making medical history.

The woman, Mrs. Dorothy Mae Stevens, a 23-year old Negro, appeared gaining today—two days after she was brought to Michael Reese Hospital with a temperature of 64 degrees, the lowest in the history of medicine. She was found frozen stiff in a south side passageway. Medical records show no human with a temperature that low ever survived.

Medical authorities had expressed little hope for her recovery and said that if she survived her limbs and arms might have to be amputated.

But Dr. Harold Laufman, staff surgeon, said "it appears now that Mrs. Stevens will keep her limbs. Even now she is able to move all her fingers and toes individually and collectively. She will shed skin, however, but that can be restored through skin graft. She has made an astounding recovery."

Her temperature today remained at about 100 degrees, as against the 98.6 normal, the same as yesterday. She was conscious and although she was reported "resting well," her condition remained critical, a hospital spokesman said.

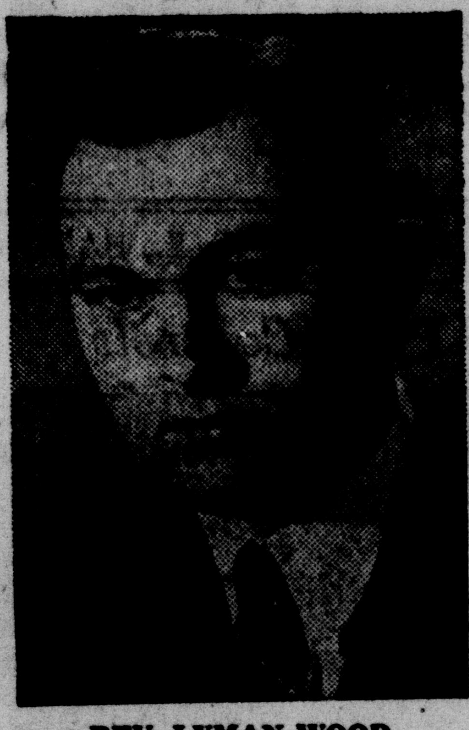
To Speak Here



REV. LYMAN WOOD

The Rev. Lyman P. Wood, widely-known youth leader in the Church of the Nazarene, and pastor of Richmond Hill Church, New York, will be the special speaker during 14th anniversary week convention at the Church of the Nazarene, Elmendorf street and Wiltwyck avenue. The special services will begin Tuesday, 7:45 p. m. and continue nightly through Sunday, Feb. 18. The Rev. and Mrs. Wood will provide music selections during the convention. Also, the Eastern Nazarene College "King's Men" Quartet, and the Trumpeteers, will play instrumental numbers and sing during most of the services.

Since the founding and organization of the local church 14 years ago, much progress has been made with increases in membership, Sunday school, and finances noted each year. The present Sunday school enrollment of 237 reveals the serious need of property expansion to provide adequate facilities for the work of the church. Enlargement plans have been approved by the official board and an expansion building program is expected to get underway early this spring. The architect's drawing of the proposed improvements will be made public during the convention and an offering will be secured to add to the present building fund.

The Rev. Fred Fike, pastor, extends a cordial invitation to all to attend the evangelistic services each night during this convention.

Sacred Ibis

The ibis was considered so sacred in ancient Egypt that its remains were embalmed at death, and one of the pyramids was erected in its honor. The bird's appearance each year coincided with the rise of the Nile and this gave rise to the belief that it was responsible for the precious waters that were so necessary to the country's welfare.

To Speak Here

REV. LYMAN WOOD

The Rev. Lyman P. Wood, widely-known youth leader in the Church of the Nazarene, and pastor of Richmond Hill Church, New York, will be the special speaker during 14th anniversary week convention at the Church of the Nazarene, Elmendorf street and Wiltwyck avenue. The special services will begin Tuesday, 7:45 p. m. and continue nightly through Sunday, Feb. 18. The Rev. and Mrs. Wood will provide music selections during the convention. Also, the Eastern Nazarene College "King's Men" Quartet, and the Trumpeteers, will play instrumental numbers and sing during most of the services.

Since the founding and organization of the local church 14 years ago, much progress has been made with increases in membership, Sunday school, and finances noted each year. The present Sunday school enrollment of 237 reveals the serious need of property expansion to provide adequate facilities for the work of the church. Enlargement plans have been approved by the official board and an expansion building program is expected to get underway early this spring. The architect's drawing of the proposed improvements will be made public during the convention and an offering will be secured to add to the present building fund.

The Rev. Fred Fike, pastor, extends a cordial invitation to all to attend the evangelistic services each night during this convention.

Sacred Ibis

The ibis was considered so sacred in ancient Egypt that its remains were embalmed at death, and one of the pyramids was erected in its honor. The bird's appearance each year coincided with the rise of the Nile and this gave rise to the belief that it was responsible for the precious waters that were so necessary to the country's welfare.

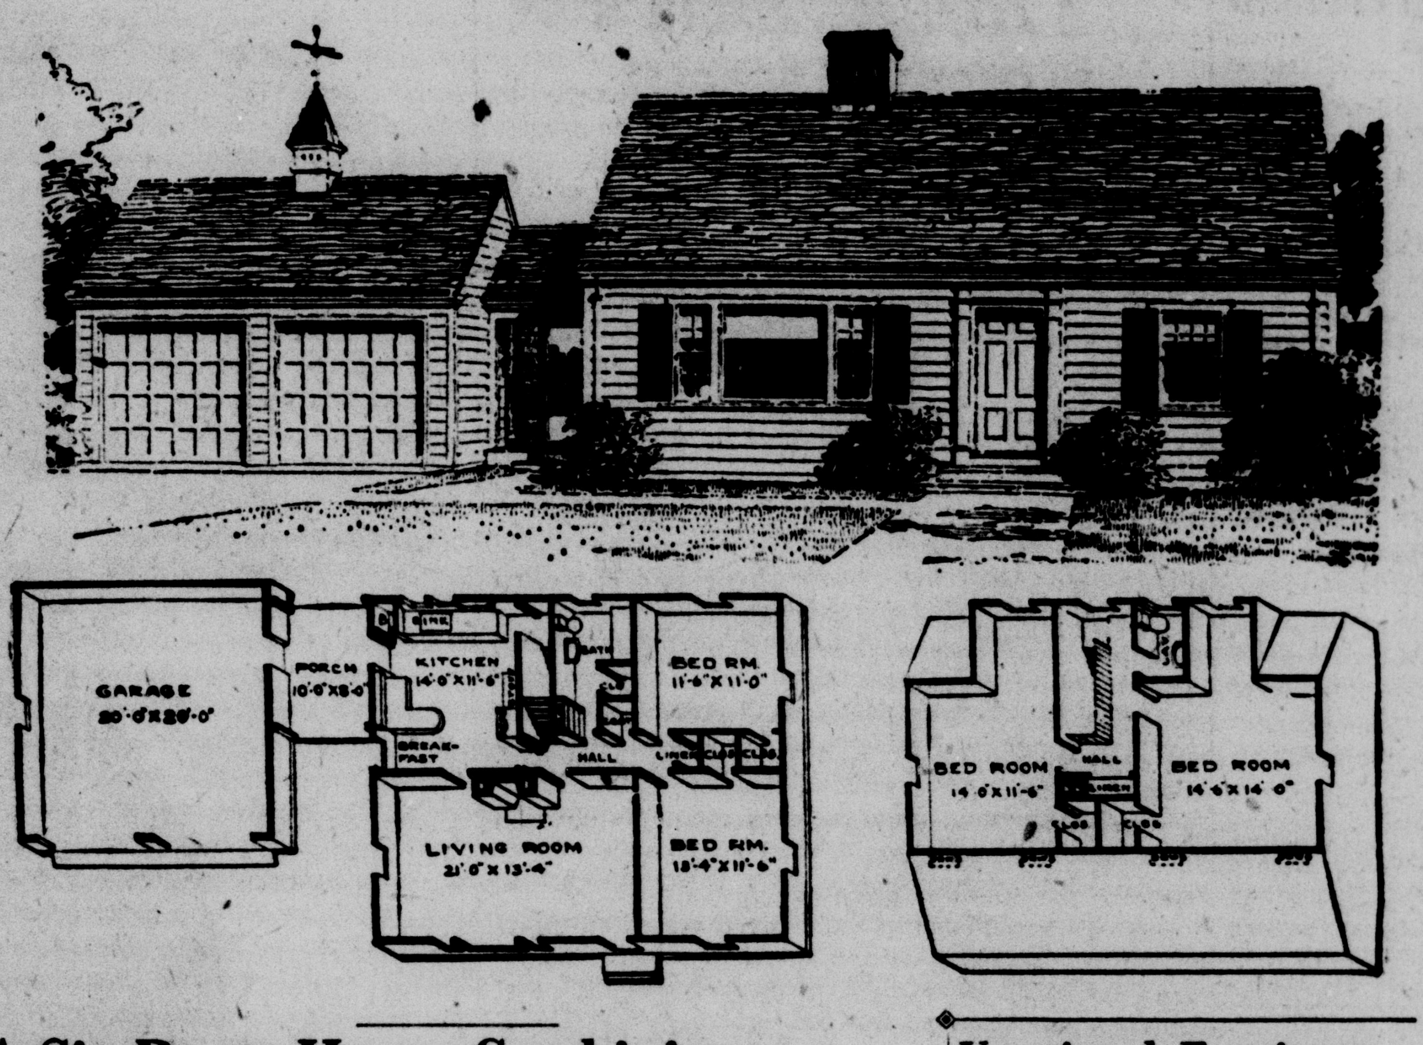
THE LUDLOW



A Six Room House Combining Traditional and Modern Styles

Rooms	Six
Bedrooms	Four
Closets	Nine
Cubage
House	19,000
Garage	6,700
Dimensions	34' x 28'

A modern touch is provided in the picture window and room layout in which the sleeping quarters are separated from the living quarters. The breezeway, which can be closed in, is another modern feature.

The simple Cape Cod design of the house, and the setback two-stall garage, topped with an old-fashioned weathervane, are in keeping with traditional style. The Colonial style doorway and frame, the small panes in the shuttered windows and the clapboarded sidewalls are likewise in harmony with traditional architecture.

Because the first floor of "The Ludlow" provides complete living quarters it isn't necessary to finish the second floor until a later date—a feature certain to win the approval of many prospective builders who want a good sized home, but can't afford to build it all at once.

Any housewife would be delighted with the nine large closets and four sets of built-in drawers located in the upper bedrooms. And even though your family has just one car, the two-stall garage will still come in handy. The second stall can easily be converted into a workshop for Dad or can be used as a storage place for screens, storm windows, or Junior's bicycle or sled. If you prefer, you can omit the second stall.

Over-All Dimensions

Measuring 34'x28' the house has a cubic footage of 19,000 feet; the garage has a cubic footage of 6700 feet. With the breezeway and garage, the over-all front dimensions are 63 feet. Therefore, a lot at least 75 feet wide is required.

A spacious living room that measures 21'x13'4" is the heart of the home. Flanked by doors to the kitchen and hall, a fireplace is located in the center of the back inside wall. Directly opposite, in the front wall, is the fixed picture window with smaller windows, which can be opened on each side. Another window, located in the side wall, admits light and air and helps to provide good cross ventilation.

The door to the right of the fireplace opens into the hall which leads to the downstairs bedrooms at one end, and the kitchen at the other end. The bathroom, a coat closet and the stairs to the upper floor also open off this hallway.

Located on the left, the breakfast nook is well lighted by a window. There is an L-shaped counter between the window and the door to the 10'8" porch. Overhead cupboards are located above this counter. A broom closet is in the back wall, next to the side door, while a straight counter extends along the back wall to the doorway to the cellar stairs. The refrigerator and stove are placed along the side wall adjacent to the swinging door from the central hallway. Double windows provide ample light for the kitchen.

At the end of the hall, handy to the two bedrooms, is the location for the linen closet. The front bedroom measures 13'4" x 11'6" and the back, 11'6" x 11'; both have deep closets.

A window at the head of the stairs provides light for the stairway and also for the L-shaped hall which extends toward the front of the house. Another large linen closet should be placed at the head of the hall, next to the chimney.

At the back of the house, off the hall, is the lavatory. Just beyond is the door to the 14'6" x 14' master bedroom. Another bedroom, 14' x 11'6" in dimensions, is at the end of the hall.

Shed Dormer

Because of the shed dormer across the back of the house both bedrooms have full windows and headroom. Each bedroom has one window in the back wall and another in the side wall. A shower stall could be installed in the lavatory by extending the rear shed dormer to the right to allow for the extra space required.

The bays provided by the dormer at the back make ideal locations for desks, or can be used as hobby corners.

If preferred, the 10'x8' porch between the kitchen and garage can be closed in. It would then make an excellent spot for a sewing room, a play area for the youngsters; or it could be converted into a utility room for the laundry.

A door from the garage is placed opposite the side kitchen door, thus making a convenient short cut to the kitchen.

The heating system is in the full cement cellar beneath the kitchen but placed so the chimney to the fireplace is utilized. The laundry is located beneath the bathroom and the rest of the cellar can be partitioned off to suit the owner.

Plans Available

Complete plans and specifications for "The Ludlow," and other houses in this series, can be obtained at a moderate cost. To ascertain the exact price of these documents, write to the Home Building Editor, Dept. 24, Kingston Daily Freeman, Kingston, N. Y., and enclose a self-addressed envelope bearing a three-cent stamp. At least one week should be allowed for a reply.

New Coat of Paint Always Effective In Modernization

A new coat of paint, properly selected and applied, can be one of the most effective of all modernization devices. Careful choice of shades can bring to the house effects not thought possible by the average home owner.

In modernizing a home, painting should be high on the list of improvements.

Among the unusual effects obtainable from painting, according to the Council of Paint Styling, are:

Dark rooms seem to be lower to the ground; if the roof is too high for the length of the house, paint it a dark color.

If the house has shutters, paint shutters of the upper story the same color as the roof. This will visually bring the roof line lower, as the eye will travel to the bottom of the dark shutters. Paint the remaining shutters the color of the body of the house.

If the roof is cut up by too many gables, everything about the roof should be dark, and nothing should stick out in color.

Dormers will make a small house seem larger if they are painted on their faces the color of the side wall of the house. This will carry the side-wall color up into the roof and give the appearance of additional height. Dormers on a tall house should be painted the dark roof color. They will visually become part of the roof and not of the side walls, making the house seem lower.

If the chimney is too large for the size of the house, it should be painted the same color as the body of the house to make it appear smaller. With this camouflage, the chimney will blend with the house and will not be noticed.

Where window openings of different sizes disturb the unity of the house's over-all shape, the treatment is painting the openings the same color as the body of the house.

Where a color accent is needed to lower the roof line or draw attention to the first floor, shutters help to achieve this result.

If shuttered windows are of various sizes, remove all smaller shutters and leave only those of the larger and more uniform size.

Decoration Can Start With Floor Covering

Traditional, Provincial Contemporary — formal or informal — whatever the style of the home, the right floor covering will make it a pleasant place to live. The floor covering can often serve as a foundation for the entire decorative scheme of a room as well as change the apparent proportions and size.

One of the problems confronting the rug buyer is whether to have wall-to-wall covering, a room-size rug or scatter rugs.

For the family that moves from time to time, a room-size rug or scatter rugs are advisable. Wall-to-wall carpeting is ideal for the permanent house owner as it not only makes the rooms appear larger and warmer but also can be made to fit irregularities such as jogs in the walls and bay windows so that they will appear to be an integral part of the room.

Unpainted Furniture Is Smart Economy

If you're handy with a paint brush and budget-minded, too, you can have a smartly furnished home by investing in unpainted furniture which is now so low-priced.

This type of furniture is well constructed of hardwoods, smartly styled, and offers a wider selection of pieces for every room than has ever been available before.

For bedrooms, there are headboards, which may be either painted or slipcovered, chests, dressing tables, night-tables, and chests. Pieces for the living room include cocktail tables, lamp tables, step-tables, and snack tables in addition to sectional bookshelves, record cabinets, chests and desks. There are also complete junior dining grounds.

Smoothly sanded, all of this furniture is ready to paint, and only imagination can limit the color effects that can be worked out. Dark lacquered finishes such as black, forest green, slate gray, and charcoal blue combined with light or bright colors for the interiors and shelves or bookcases or chests are highly dramatic and effective. If light finishes are preferred, several coats of clear lacquer and a colorless polish is sufficient to do the job.

Space Saver

If an 8- or 9-inch space is left between cabinets in the kitchen, utilize the space by installing a tray rack or towel dryer in between.

Oak Needs Filler

Oak is a hard wood with open grain. It requires a filler for a smooth finish.

Teen-Agers Want Colorful Rooms

Teen-age boys and girls want "their" room to be more than just a bedroom; it must be a living-room as well and it must have color and imaginative furnishings.

Decorative treatment should be planned from the floor up, and if asphalt tile flooring is used, the color possibilities are unlimited. To have the floor darker than the walls makes for good contrast but the two must harmonize. Striped effects with brown and light buff tiles alternating, are especially good in a girl's room having pale blue walls and harmonizing blue draperies and upholstery. A boy's room calls for bolder treatment. Tan tile flooring set off by chocolate-colored border of this easily-cleaned material, and knotty-pine paper on the walls, will mark the room as masculine. Dark green upholstery and draperies complete the decorative scheme.

Clean Flues Reduce Chimney Fire Danger

The risk of chimney fires, which take a heavy toll of property damage every fall and winter, can be reduced by cleaning out flues before the heating season begins. It's best to hire a professional chimney sweep for this task but if the householder has the means and the courage to get up on the roof he can do it himself.

The usual method is to put a quantity of excelsior and two or three bricks in a burlap bag, attach a rope, drop the bag down the chimney. By dragging it slowly up and down the chimney walls, accumulations of soot will be loosened. The soot may be removed through the clean-out door which is at the base of every properly built chimney.

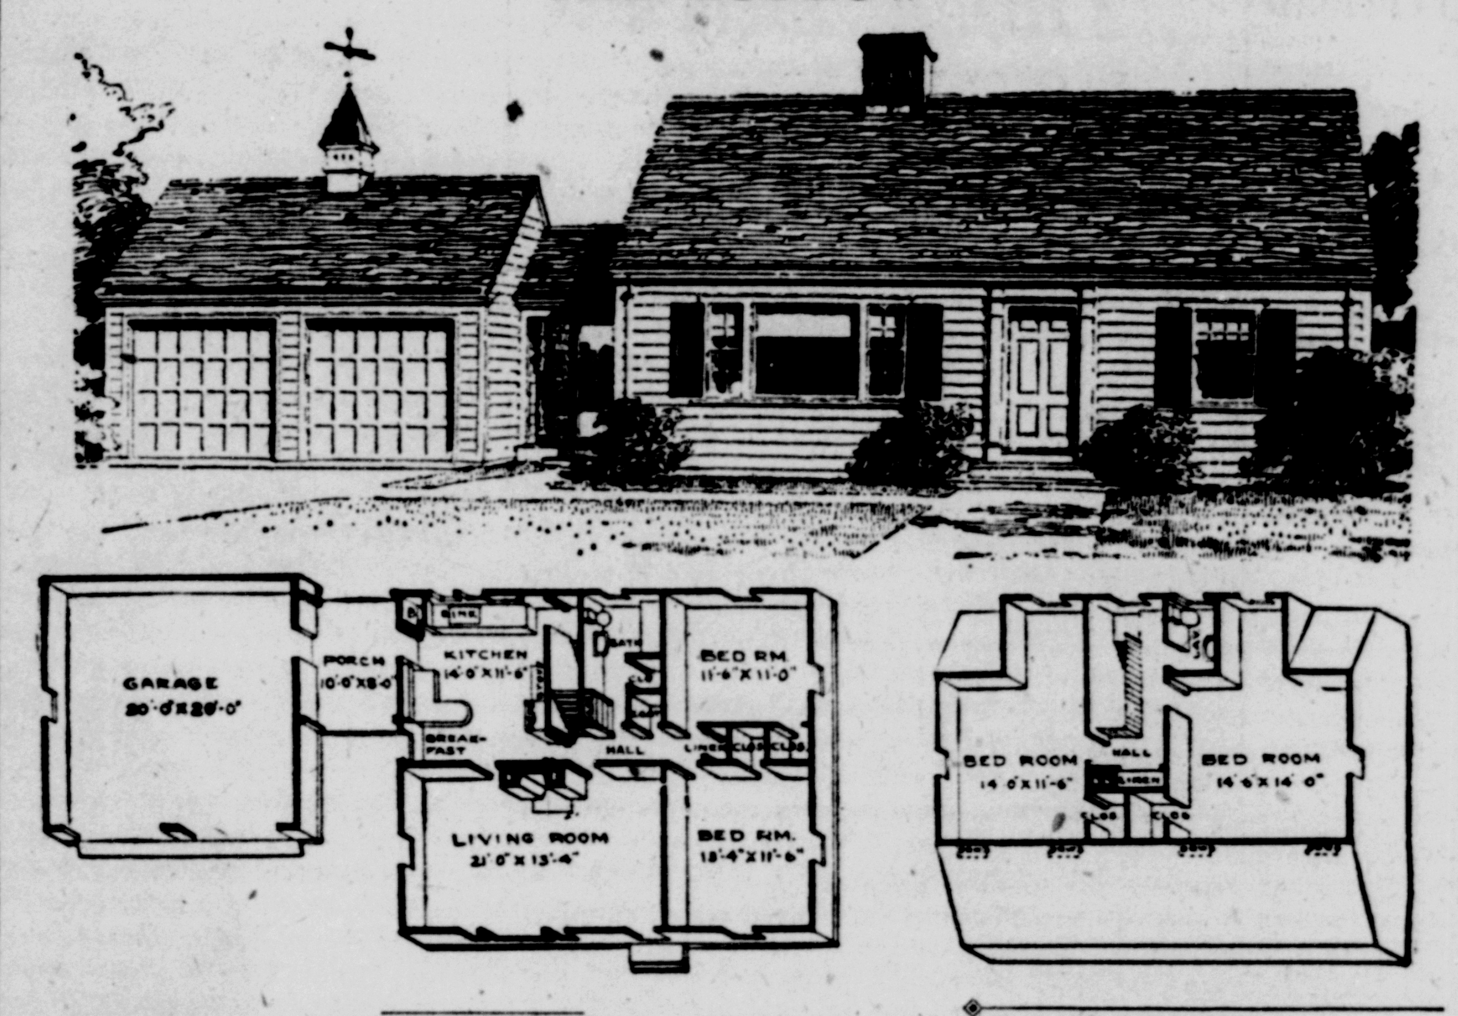
THE LUDLOW



A Six Room House Combining Traditional and Modern Styles

Rooms	Six
Bedrooms	Four
Closets	Nine
Cubage
House	19,000
Garage	6,700
Dimensions	34' x 28'

A modern touch is provided in the picture window and room layout in which the sleeping quarters are separated from the living quarters. The breezeway, which can be closed in, is another modern feature.

The simple Cape Cod design of the house, and the setback two-stall garage, topped with an old-fashioned weathervane, are in keeping with traditional style. The Colonial style doorway and frame, the small panes in the shuttered windows and the clapboarded sidewalls are likewise in harmony with traditional architecture.

Because the first floor of "The Ludlow" provides complete living quarters it isn't necessary to finish the second floor until a later date—a feature certain to win the approval of many prospective builders who want a good sized home, but can't afford to build it all at once.

Any housewife would be delighted with the nine large closets and four sets of built-in drawers located in the upper bedrooms. And even though your family has just one car, the two-stall garage will still come in handy. The second stall can easily be converted into a workshop for Dad or can be used as a storage place for screens, storm windows, or Junior's bicycle or sled. If you prefer, you can omit the second stall.

Over-All Dimensions

Measuring 34'x28' the house has a cubic footage of 19,000 feet; the garage has a cubic footage of 6700 feet. With the breezeway and garage, the over-all front dimensions are 63 feet. Therefore, a lot at least 75 feet wide is required.

A spacious living room that measures 21'x13'4" is the heart of the home. Flanked by doors to the kitchen and hall, a fireplace is located in the center of the back inside wall. Directly opposite, in the front wall, is the fixed picture window with smaller windows, which can be opened on each side. Another window, located in the side wall, admits light and air and helps to provide good cross ventilation.

The door to the right of the fireplace opens into the hall which leads to the downstairs bedrooms at one end, and the kitchen at the other end. The bathroom, a coat closet and the stairs to the upper floor also open off this hallway.

Located on the left, the breakfast nook is well lighted by a window. There is an L-shaped counter between the window and the door to the 10'8" porch. Overhead cupboards are located above this counter. A broom closet is in the back wall, next to the side door, while a straight counter extends along the back wall to the doorway to the cellar stairs. The refrigerator and stove are placed along the side wall adjacent to the swinging door from the central hallway. Double windows provide ample light for the kitchen.

At the end of the hall, handy to the two bedrooms, is the location for the linen closet. The front bedroom measures 13'4" x 11'6" and the back, 11'6" x 11'; both have deep closets.

A window at the head of the stairs provides light for the stairway and also for the L-shaped hall which extends toward the front of the house. Another large linen closet should be placed at the head of the hall, next to the chimney.

At the back of the house, off the hall, is the lavatory. Just beyond is the door to the 14'6" x 14' master bedroom. Another bedroom, 14' x 11'6" in dimensions, is at the end of the hall.

Shed Dormer

Because of the shed dormer across the back of the house both bedrooms have full windows and headroom. Each bedroom has one window in the back wall and another in the side wall. A shower stall could be installed in the lavatory by extending the rear shed dormer to the right to allow for the extra space required.

The bays provided by the dormer at the back make ideal locations for desks, or can be used as hobby corners.

If preferred, the 10'x8' porch between the kitchen and garage can be closed in. It would then make an excellent spot for a sewing room, a play area for the youngsters; or it could be converted into a utility room for the laundry.

A door from the garage is placed opposite the side kitchen door, thus making a convenient short cut to the kitchen.

The heating system is in the full cement cellar beneath the kitchen but placed so the chimney to the fireplace is utilized. The laundry is located beneath the bathroom and the rest of the cellar can be partitioned off to suit the owner.

Plans Available

Complete plans and specifications for "The Ludlow," and other houses in this series, can be obtained at a moderate cost. To ascertain the exact price of these documents, write to the Home Building Editor, Dept. 24, Kingston Daily Freeman, Kingston, N. Y., and enclose a self-addressed envelope bearing a three-cent stamp. At least one week should be allowed for a reply.

New Coat of Paint Always Effective In Modernization

A new coat of paint, properly selected and applied, can be one of the most effective of all modernization devices. Careful choice of shades can bring to the house effects not thought possible by the average home owner.

In modernizing a home, painting should be high on the list of improvements.

Among the unusual effects obtainable from painting, according to the Council of Paint Styling, are:

Dark rooms seem to be lower to the ground; if the roof is too high for the length of the house, paint it a dark color.

If the house has shutters, paint shutters of the upper story the same color as the roof. This will visually bring the roof line lower, as the eye will travel to the bottom of the dark shutters. Paint the remaining shutters the color of the body of the house.

If the roof is cut up by too many gables, everything about the roof should be dark, and nothing should stick out in color.

Dormers will make a small house seem larger if they are painted on their faces the color of the side wall of the house. This will carry the side-wall color up into the roof and give the appearance of additional height. Dormers on a tall house should be painted the dark roof color. They will visually become part of the roof and not of the side walls, making the house seem lower.

If the chimney is too large for the size of the house, it should be painted the same color as the body of the house to make it appear smaller. With this camouflage, the chimney will blend with the house and will not be noticed.

Where window openings of different sizes disturb the unity of the house's over-all shape, the treatment is painting the openings the same color as the body of the house.

Where a color accent is needed to lower the roof line or draw attention to the first floor, shutters help to achieve this result.

If shuttered windows are of various sizes, remove all smaller shutters and leave only those of the larger and more uniform size.

Decoration Can Start With Floor Covering

Traditional, Provincial Contemporary — formal or informal — whatever the style of the home, the right floor covering will make it a pleasant place to live. The floor covering can often serve as a foundation for the entire decorative scheme of a room as well as change the apparent proportions and size.

One of the problems confronting the rug buyer is whether to have wall-to-wall covering, a room-size rug or scatter rugs.

For the family that moves from time to time, a room-size rug or scatter rugs are advisable. Wall-to-wall carpeting is ideal for the permanent house owner as it not only makes the rooms appear larger and warmer but also can be made to fit irregularities such as jogs in the walls and bay windows so that they will appear to be an integral part of the room.

Unpainted Furniture Is Smart Economy

If you're handy with a paint brush and budget-minded, too, you can have a smartly furnished home by investing in unpainted furniture which is now so low-priced.

This type of furniture is well constructed of hardwoods, smartly styled, and offers a wider selection of pieces for every room than has ever been available before.

For bedrooms, there are headboards, which may be either painted or slipcovered, chests, dressing tables, night-tables, and chests. Pieces for the living room include cocktail tables, lamp tables, step-tables, and snack tables in addition to sectional bookshelves, record cabinets, chests and desks. There are also complete junior dining grounds.

Smoothly sanded, all of this furniture is ready to paint, and only imagination can limit the color effects that can be worked out. Dark lacquered finishes such as black, forest green, slate gray, and charcoal blue combined with light or bright colors for the interiors and shelves or bookcases or chests are highly dramatic and effective. If light finishes are preferred, several coats of clear lacquer and a colorless polish is sufficient to do the job.

Space Saver

Oak Needs Filler

Oak is a hard wood with open grain. It requires a filler for a smooth finish.

Teen-Agers Want Colorful Rooms

Teen-age boys and girls want "their" room to be more than just a bedroom; it must be a living-room as well and it must have color and imaginative furnishings.

Decorative treatment should be planned from the floor up, and if asphalt tile flooring is used, the color possibilities are unlimited. To have the floor darker than the walls makes for good contrast but the two must harmonize. Striped effects with brown and light buff tiles alternating, are especially good in a girl's room having pale blue walls and harmonizing blue draperies and upholstery. A boy's room calls for bolder treatment. Tan tile flooring set off by chocolate-colored border of this easily-cleaned material, and knotty-pine paper on the walls, will mark the room as masculine. Dark green upholstery and draperies complete the decorative scheme.

Clean Flues Reduce Chimney Fire Danger

The risk of chimney fires, which take a heavy toll of property damage every fall and winter, can be reduced by cleaning out flues before the heating season begins. It's best to hire a professional chimney sweep for this task but if the householder has the means and the courage to get up on the roof he can do it himself.

The usual method is to put a quantity of excelsior and two or three bricks in a burlap bag, attach a rope, drop the bag down the chimney. By dragging it slowly up and down the chimney walls, accumulations of soot will be loosened. The soot may be removed through the clean-out door which is at the base of every properly built chimney.

Harry O'Brien on the Ideal Woman, and read by Louis Checka; game of a farmer's letter to his girl for all to take part; song, Coming Through the Rye. Refreshments were served by Mr. and Mrs. Philip Bravata, Mrs. Mary Carroll, Mrs. Mary Castellano and Mrs. Betty Birdsall. There will be an officers' meeting in Rosendale Feb. 14.

The fourth quarterly conference was held Thursday night in the Methodist Church and presided over by the superintendent, the Rev. C. Lee Ball. The pastor of the church, the Rev. Stanley Jones, was given a unanimous call to return for another year. The organization leaders reported with Mrs. Parker Decker for the Sunday school; Mrs. John F. Wadlin, W.S.C.S. with 80 members and the successful play produced last fall which netted over $200; Harry B. Cotant, Jr., and Meredith Turner, secretary and treasurer, gave the budget for the coming year as $7,500 which will be met if payments continue; Mrs. Meredith Turner on the work of the Ganse Church School Society; Troy Cook as lay reader told his plans for laymen's service Sunday. Mr. Jones reported the church had 381 members with an average Sunday attendance of 101. A new heating system had been installed and painting had been done on the exterior of the church and manse. He had made over 1,000 calls during the year. An increase of $200 was made to his salary.

Mr. and Mrs. Adelbert Martin on Sunday observed the birthday of Mrs. Christy Martin who had a candlelighted birthday cake and many gifts. Other guests were Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Lane, Poughkeepsie; the Misses Katherine and Jessica Martin, Charles Martin, Mr. and Mrs. Christie Martin and the hosts.

Chapter A., P.E.O. will meet Thursday afternoon, Feb. 15, in the Presbyterian Church hall. This will be a guest meeting with the speaker a young Syrian girl, student at New Paltz college.

Philip Bravata was in Atlantic City Sunday and Monday attending a convention.

J. Otis Benson, Poughkeepsie, was the guest speaker at the meeting of the Lions Club dinner Monday night at Blossom Farm. He represents the tax and rent association of his city, and he is advocating higher license fees and definite truck weight limits. Another guest was Alfred LaFalce, brother of Frank LaFalce, coach of the local Central school and a member of the club. Peter Burdash presided and announced the date of the basketball game between Mil-Mar and Highland Lions Clubs as Feb. 17 in the Highland gymnasium. This will be followed by old-fashioned dances. The proceeds are used by the club's eye clinics. Frank Mandy is general chairman assisted by Albert Roberts, John Mack, Richard Dowd and Thomas Phillips with Mr. LaFalce preparing the team. There were 17 members and two guests present.

On Monday night Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Whittley and Mr. and Mrs. U. Parker Decker entertained John Moyer, a staff member of the Chicago Museum of National History, a members of the advisory board of the Hobby Guild of America, an associate of the American Ornithologists Union and a member of the New York Zoological Society, and a writer of popular and scientific articles. He lectured Monday in Vassar Institute, Poughkeepsie on, "Rivals of Nature," the all-color film of how explorers bring back rare birds and animals from the four corners of the world. Mr. Moyer's wife is the former Miss Helen Gibson, a granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Whittley and niece of Mrs. Decker.

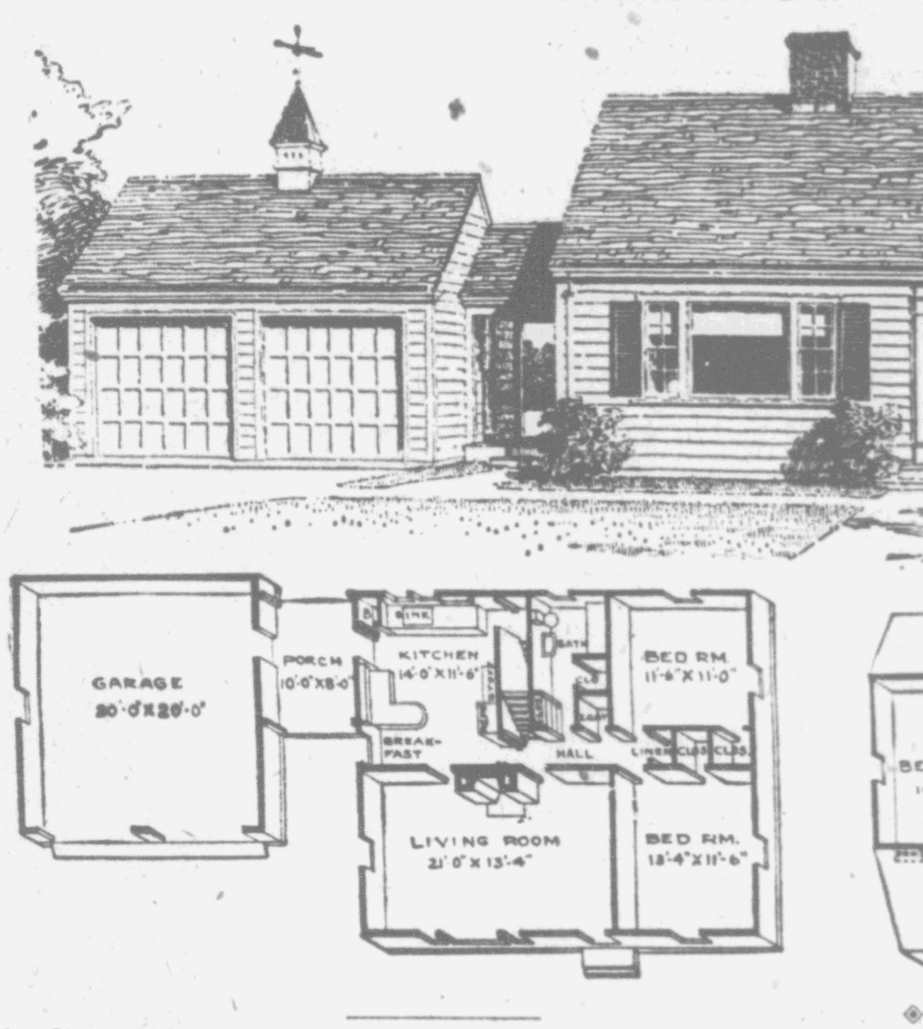
THE LUDLOW



A Six Room House Combining Traditional and Modern Styles

Rooms	Six
Bedrooms	Four
Closets	Nine
Cubage
House	19,000
Garage	6,700
Dimensions	34' x 28'

A modern touch is provided in the picture window and room layout in which the sleeping quarters are separated from the living quarters. The breezeway, which can be closed in, is another modern feature.

The simple Cape Cod design of the house, and the setback two-stall garage, topped with an old-fashioned weathervane, are in keeping with traditional style. The Colonial style doorway and frame, the small panes in the shuttered windows and the clapboarded sidewalls are likewise in harmony with traditional architecture.

Because the first floor of "The Ludlow" provides complete living quarters it isn't necessary to finish the second floor until a later date—a feature certain to win the approval of many prospective builders who want a good sized home, but can't afford to build it all at once.

Any housewife would be delighted with the nine large closets and four sets of built-in drawers located in the upper bedrooms. And even though your family has just one car, the two-stall garage will still come in handy. The second stall can easily be converted into a workshop for Dad or can be used as a storage place for screens, storm windows, or Junior's bicycle or sled. If you prefer, you can omit the second stall.

Over-All Dimensions

Measuring 34'x28' the house has a cubic footage of 19,000 feet; the garage has a cubic footage of 6700 feet. With the breezeway and garage, the over-all front dimensions are 63 feet. Therefore, a lot at least 75 feet wide is required.

A spacious living room that measures 21'x13'4" is the heart of the home. Flanked by doors to the kitchen and hall, a fireplace is located in the center of the back inside wall. Directly opposite, in the front wall, is the fixed picture window with smaller windows, which can be opened on each side. Another window, located in the side wall, admits light and air and helps to provide good cross ventilation.

The door to the right of the fireplace opens into the hall which leads to the downstairs bedrooms at one end, and the kitchen at the other end. The bathroom, a coat closet and the stairs to the upper floor also open off this hallway.

Located on the left, the breakfast nook is well lighted by a window. There is an L-shaped counter between the window and the door to the 10'8" porch. Overhead cupboards are located above this counter. A broom closet is in the back wall, next to the side door, while a straight counter extends along the back wall to the doorway to the cellar stairs. The refrigerator and stove are placed along the side wall, adjacent to the swinging door from the central hallway. Double windows provide ample light for the kitchen.

At the end of the hall, handy to the two bedrooms, is the location for the linen closet. The front bedroom measures 13'4" x 11'6" and the back, 11'6" x 11'; both have deep closets.

A window at the head of the stairs provides light for the stairway and also for the L-shaped hall which extends toward the front of the house. Another large linen closet should be placed at the head of the hall, next to the chimney.

At the back of the house, off the hall, is the lavatory. Just beyond is the door to the 14'6" x 14' master bedroom. Another bedroom, 14' x 11'6" in dimensions, is at the end of the hall.

Shed Dormer

Because of the shed dormer across the back of the house both bedrooms have full windows and headroom. Each bedroom has one window in the back wall, and another in the side wall. A shower stall could be installed in the lavatory by extending the rear shed dormer to the right to allow for the extra space required.

The bays provided by the dormer at the back make ideal locations for desks, or can be used as hobby corners.

If preferred, the 10'x8' porch between the kitchen and garage can be closed in. It would then make an excellent spot for a sewing room, a play area for the youngsters; or it could be converted into a utility room for the laundry.

A door from the garage is placed opposite the side kitchen door, thus making a convenient short cut to the kitchen.

The heating system is in the full cement cellar beneath the kitchen but placed so the chimney to the fireplace is utilized. The laundry is located beneath the bathroom and the rest of the cellar can be partitioned off to suit the owner.

Plans Available

Complete plans and specifications for "The Ludlow," and other houses in this series, can be obtained at a moderate cost. To ascertain the exact price of these documents, write to the Home Building Editor, Dept. 24, Kingston Daily Freeman, Kingston, N. Y., and enclose a self-addressed envelope bearing a three-cent stamp. At least one week should be allowed for a reply.

New Coat of Paint Always Effective In Modernization

A new coat of paint, properly selected and applied, can be one of the most effective of all modernization devices. Careful choice of shades can bring to the house effects not thought possible by the average home owner.

In modernizing a home, painting should be high on the list of improvements.

Among the unusual effects obtainable from painting, according to the Council of Paint Styling, are:

Dark rooms seem to be lower to the ground; if the roof is too high for the length of the house, paint it a dark color.

If the house has shutters, paint shutters of the upper story the same color as the roof. This will visually bring the roof line lower, as the eye will travel to the bottom of the dark shutters. Paint the remaining shutters the color of the body of the house.

If the roof is cut up by too many gables, everything about the roof should be dark, and nothing should stick out in color.

Dormers will make a small house seem larger if they are painted on their faces the color of the side wall of the house. This will carry the side-wall color up into the roof and give the appearance of additional height. Dormers on a tall house should be painted the dark roof color. They will visually become part of the roof and not of the side walls, making the house seem lower.

If the chimney is too large for the size of the house, it should be painted the same color as the body of the house to make it appear smaller. With this camouflage, the chimney will blend with the house and will not be noticed.

Where window openings of different sizes disturb the unity of the house's over-all shape, the treatment is painting the openings the same color as the body of the house.

Where a color accent is needed to lower the roof line or draw attention to the first floor, shutters help to achieve this result.

If shuttered windows are of various sizes, remove all smaller shutters and leave only those of the larger and more uniform size.

Decoration Can Start With Floor Covering

Traditional, Provincial Contemporary — formal or informal — whatever the style of the home, the right floor covering will make it a pleasant place to live. The floor covering can often serve as a foundation for the entire decorative scheme of a room as well as change the apparent proportions and size.

One of the problems confronting the rug buyer is whether to have wall-to-wall covering, a room-size rug or scatter rugs.

For the family that moves from time to time, a room-size rug or scatter rugs are advisable. Wall-to-wall carpeting is ideal for the permanent house owner as it not only makes the rooms appear larger and warmer but also can be made to fit irregularities such as jogs in the walls and bay windows so that they will appear to be an integral part of the room.

Unpainted Furniture Is Smart Economy

If you're handy with a paint brush and budget-minded, too, you can have a smartly furnished home by investing in unpainted furniture which is now so low-priced.

This type of furniture is well constructed of hardwoods, smartly styled, and offers a wider selection of pieces for every room than has ever been available before.

For bedrooms, there are headboards, which may be either painted or slipcovered, chests, dressing tables, night-tables, and chests. Pieces for the living room include cocktail tables, lamp tables, step-tables, and snack tables in addition to sectional bookshelves, record cabinets, chests and desks. There are also complete junior dining grounds.

Smoothly sanded, all of this furniture is ready to paint, and only imagination can limit the color effects that can be worked out. Dark lacquered finishes such as black, forest green, slate gray, and charcoal blue combined with light or bright colors for the interiors and shelves or bookcases or chests are highly dramatic and effective. If light finishes are preferred, several coats of clear lacquer and a colorless polish is sufficient to do the job.

Space Saver

Oak Needs Filler

Oak is a hard wood with open grain. It requires a filler for a smooth finish.

Teen-Agers Want Colorful Rooms

Teen-age boys and girls want "their" room to be more than just a bedroom; it must be a living-room as well and it must have color and imaginative furnishings.

Decorative treatment should be planned from the floor up, and if asphalt tile flooring is used, the color possibilities are unlimited. To have the floor darker than the walls makes for good contrast but the two must harmonize. Striped effects with brown and light buff tiles alternating, are especially good in a girl's room having pale blue walls and harmonizing blue draperies and upholstery. A boy's room calls for bolder treatment. Tan tile flooring set off by chocolate-colored border of this easily-cleaned material, and knotty-pine paper on the walls, will mark the room as masculine. Dark green upholstery and draperies complete the decorative scheme.

Clean Flues Reduce Chimney Fire Danger

The risk of chimney fires, which take a heavy toll of property damage every fall and winter, can be reduced by cleaning out flues before the heating season begins. It's best to hire a professional chimney sweep for this task but if the householder has the means and the courage to get up on the roof he can do it himself.

The usual method is to put a quantity of excelsior and two or three bricks in a burlap bag, attach a rope, drop the bag down the chimney. By dragging it slowly up and down the chimney walls, accumulations of soot will be loosened. The soot may be removed through the clean-out door which is at the base of every properly built chimney.

THREAT TO FREE PRESS

The Argentine newspaper, La Prensa, published in Buenos Aires, has long stood for liberty, integrity and independence in Latin America. So much is it a symbol that anything which curbs its freedom hurts the cause of free journalism in the whole world.

Since he came to power, President Juan Peron of Argentina has made many efforts to silence La Prensa's politically embarrassing criticisms of his regime.

The devices were varied. Once on some pretext the government seized the paper's newsprint. Another time La Prensa's delivery trucks were penalized by the issuance of innumerable traffic tickets. For months now, police have kept a guard in the paper's press room, blocking installation of a new press.

But none of these maneuvers successfully muzzled La Prensa, so a new and slightly more subtle trick has now been resorted to.

The news venders' union, a government-sponsored organization, is picketing the paper's offices and barring entry to its employes. The excuse for this tactic is La Prensa's refusal to grant the union's extreme demands for a monopoly on local distribution and twenty per cent of its want-ad revenue for a welfare fund.

Publication has been suspended. Meantime, this "strike" has been encouraged by the Peron press, which strangely is not confronted by similar demands from the venders. The government also has ignored several requests by the paper for police protection.

Why has Peron concocted this thinly-disguised scheme to curb La Prensa?

He has an election campaign coming up next year. More than a few aspects of his administration do not bear too close examination, from all accounts. He can't afford the kind of scrutiny he would get from an independent newspaper bent on telling people the truth. He wants a press which is nothing but a cheering section for him.

For the good of Argentina, of Latin America, of all free peoples, his latest attempt to stifle La Prensa should fail, like all the others. Moreover, it ought to be loudly advertised everywhere for what it is.

Peron is indulging in methods strongly reminiscent of the heyday of Hitler and Mussolini, not to mention Stalin today. To these dictators the press could have no place except as a complete tool of the regime. How is Peron different when he seeks to spoon-feed Argentinians with an uncritical view of his administration?

La Prensa's cause is one which free newspapers everywhere should champion. Peron should be made to understand that if he desires Argentina to hold a respected place among the family of nations he cannot rely upon the devices of totalitarian oppression.

The true lesson when finding oneself in a tight spot is in figuring a way out of it.

Don't complain about the other fellow's taste; it would be worse if he didn't have any.

PREPARING FOR DISASTER

Residents of strategic areas in this country are currently giving thought to the question of civil defense. The problem this time is greater than in World War II, when first aid instruction and casualty squad training covered the ground. First aid included instructions for the treatment of victims of various gases, and these were memorized without much conviction that they would ever be needed.

Now the presence of the atomic bomb threat, with its devastating effects and their modification by distance, requires a new program of education. The possibility that germ warfare and poison gases may be utilized by an enemy is deemed not too remote by the experts, and familiarity with their effects must be achieved by education also. Red Cross officials are said to favor the use of schools and colleges for training centers whose trainees can then be called on to instruct community groups.

Citizens who are equipped to deal with disastrous occurrences are likely to be calm in the face of them. Ignorance leads to panic and unnecessary casualties.

'These Days'

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

LANDLESS PROLETARIAT

The militarization of the United States is now afoot. For the first time in our history, we publicly acknowledge an objective enemy in time of peace, and we set out for prolonged preparation to meet him whenever and wherever he may charge not only upon us but upon any whom we recognize as our allies.

The closest we have ever come to that state was the preparations against the machinations of Citizen Genet, who attempted to bring the French revolution to our shores during the administration of George Washington. But we got out of this in due course with little more than the Louisiana Purchase by Thomas Jefferson. Since then, we have had no conflict with France, although we were unhappy about the French putting Maximilian on the throne of Mexico.

From that remote period until recent years, this country has been struggling to avoid militarism and now we shall have to adopt it in all its manifestations, namely:

1. An economy based on permanent preparation for war;
2. Universal military service, altering the educational and family status of our youth;
3. Subordination of domestic progress to international necessities;
4. Instead of no entangling alliances, our foreign relations will be in a state of flux, of shifting alliances, of new friends and new foes, of former friends and former foes.

These historic alternations in American life are vast and their consequences are not predictable. Already, we witness the influence of two general wars upon our economic and political and even social institutions. Certainly, the United States of 1951 is altogether different from the United States of 1900.

The generation of those who are 18 this year can hardly picture the peaceful, energetic, competitive, cheerful life of 1900. They have remote notions of the world of William McKinley and Theodore Roosevelt. They live in an era of an increasing landlessness among Americans, a concentration in cities where neighborliness and tradition are lost in the bricks and mortar of barrack-like homes. To an ever larger degree, they are a landless proletariat, dependent upon a paycheck and a government-guaranteed security.

Now, an imprudent government even forces upon small businessmen, artists, writers—citizens of enterprise, imagination and daring—a payroll tax upon themselves. It is called some kind of social security but leveled upon those who seek not security but free adventure. These, too, are to be leveled down through taxation into the proletariat. The President's tax bill facilitates this process.

Thus is the reservoir of initiative dried up, and all new enterprise will, in time, be forced to find its capital from the government. The R.F.C., the largest of the government lending agencies, has become a bastion of corruption. A committee of investigation, headed by the Democrat, Senator J. William Fulbright, has presented evidence to the attorney general. But probably this, like the data of espionage unearthed by Senator Joe McCarthy, will be smothered and silenced and forgotten. Senator Fulbright is to be congratulated on his courage.

The landless proletariat has nothing to lose but its security. Therefore, it tolerates corruption and indecencies not only in government but in every phase of life because nothing matters to those whose roots are thin and shallow but sustenance.

It is interesting that the huge increase in divorce runs apace with the shift from independent land-ownership to the concentration of population in cities.

No matter what the cause, divorce, from the standpoint of the family as the basic social institution, marks failure. No matter how just the parties to a divorce may regard it, or how necessary, or how important, it cannot, from a moral standpoint, be a gay, a festive, a glorious event.

Yet, read your newspapers each day; read the gossip columns and listen on a Sunday night to those who specialize on such matters on the radio! It is possible to believe from what is written and what is said that marriages are arranged only to be consummated in divorces. Divorce is even made glamorous!

Something curiously twisted has come upon us when what should be tragedy becomes comedy. Something seems all wrong when those who are not yet unmarried are engaged to be married. Is it bigamy or polyandry or concubinage? Certainly, it is not the product of an American civilization steeped in natural law. It is the landless proletariat diplaying still more vividly its abhorrence of responsibility.

ANXIETY NEUROSIS

Physicians admit that many individuals consulting them for various symptoms require assurance more than medicine. They find that in an effort to get ahead of any suspected disease, they should consult their physician immediately, as early diagnosis of a disease such as cancer or a heart ailment, means a better than even chance of curing or controlling it.

The disease that was called soldier's heart following World War I is now known by various names—anxiety neurosis, effort syndrome, cardiac (heart) neurosis, neurasthenia. The chief symptoms are breathlessness, pounding of the heart, nervousness, irritability, chest pain or discomfort, tiring easily (effort syndrome), spells of dizziness, faintness or "anxiety attacks." There are thus many symptoms but the physician cannot find any organic cause for the symptoms, that is, there are no physical signs.

In Medical Clinics of North America, Dr. Mandel E. Cohen (Harvard University) states that patients may complain of choking and smothering spells, rapid heart beat, pain in chest, nervousness, getting tired easily, irritability, dizziness or "heart trouble." Thorough questioning of the patient reveals many symptoms in addition to their main complaint, most often tiredness and breathlessness due to the heart. Difficulty in doing hard work is almost always one of their symptoms, as is difficulty in handling emotional disturbances. A review of symptoms usually reveals headaches, blurred vision and giddiness. Breathing difficulties are almost universal, sighing is characteristics, there is difficulty on exertion or in breathing and chest discomfort even when sitting down.

The few signs present are rapid heartbeat, flushed face, trembling of outstretched fingers (present in severe goiter), and exaggerated knee jerk. All laboratory tests give normal results and the course of the illness is mild.

From the above findings it would be thought that permanent results would occur such as peptic ulcer and high blood pressure but Dr. Cohen states, after a 20 year follow-up of 173 of these patients, that this condition did not predispose them to any other disease or early death.

One visit to a physician might save these patients a lifetime of misery.

Shots Heard Round the World

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

Washington—With the nation facing one of its biggest tax bills in history, it is more important than ever that there be no tax chiselers.

Supporting this idea, Sen. John Williams, Delaware Republican, has now taken up a tax bribery scandal first exposed in this column and has demanded the ouster of James W. Johnson as collector of internal revenue for New York's Third District. Located right in the center of Manhattan, this is the wealthiest tax district in the nation.

Williams' blast at Johnson is an outgrowth of bribery and corruption unearthed by this column on Jan. 30, 1950, more than a year ago. Naming names and giving details, this column revealed how five of Johnson's tax collectors had been shaking down business firms and collecting lush bribes. Several months later, the same five collectors were brought to justice and sentenced to jail as follows—William A. Ganey, five years and $14,350; Anthony V. Fiscella, two years, six months and $2,500; John A. Galgano, two years and $2,850; Thomas J. Cannon, 18 months and $2,500; and James A. Bessell, 10 years probation.

J. S. Johnson, the collector in charge of these men, was also cited by the Commissioner of Internal revenue for his "weak and ineffective" administration. This, however, failed to shame him out of office, and he was then formally asked to resign—as of last November. However, he has not resigned, but is still on the job, trying to weather the storm.

Senator Williams, citing some of these facts, recently told the Senate:

"Early in 1950, supervisors from Washington were sent to (the third district) and they reported that conditions were worse than previous reports indicated. They reported that only one division in the entire office was functioning even in a fairly satisfactory manner. But the collector (Johnson), who is responsible for such an amazing state of affairs, is still in charge of the office.

"How bad do conditions have to get before some action is taken?" demanded the senator from Delaware. "If the government expects the taxpayers to cooperate wholeheartedly in its huge tax problem, it must put its own house in order."

Note 1—One year ago, this column, trying to clean up the New York scandals, telephoned Johnson and tried to obtain his cooperation. Johnson slammed down the telephone.

Note 2—Senator Williams has urged a "complete and constructive investigation by the United States Senate of the whole system by which taxes are collected." He points out this would determine "(1) Whether the government is getting paid all it is entitled to be paid, and (2) whether the tax laws are fairly and honestly administered."

Washington Pipeline

Senator Jumpin' Joe McCarthy of Wisconsin, frankly boasted the other day that he didn't pay his full income taxes. This amazing confession came out in a chat with New Mexico's Clint Anderson. Anderson expressed surprise and shock at McCarthy's confession. "So what?" shrugged McCarthy. "You never heard of a United States senator going to jail for income-tax violation." . . . Before leaving for the Republicans' one-dollar box supper, Senator Taft took the precaution of slipping into the private Senate dining room and eating a steak dinner. . . . Irrepressible Rep. George Bender of Ohio was all over the GOP box-supper arena, whooping it up for his friend Taft and getting in the hair of Gov. Tom Dewey's cheering section. . . . Sen. Irving Ives, leader of the Dewey forces, didn't try to conceal his resentment when Bender distributed "Taft for president" newspapers. When Bender and other Ohioans yelled for bandleader Fred Waring to play "I'm Looking Over a Four Leaf Clover," the Taft 1948 convention tune, Ives shook his head vigorously. Finally Waring compromised by playing "Way Down on the Ohio," which didn't suit Taftites at all. They would have preferred the official state song, "Beautiful Ohio." . . . House Minority Leader Joe Martin, as usual, came through with the speech of the evening.

Chinese-Russian Deal

Word of a new and highly important secret military agreement between Russia and Communist China has just reached Washington. The deal could be a serious one for our future position in Korea.

According to the best intelligence information, the agreement was signed in Moscow at about the time the United Nations' cease-fire order was under discussion. The deal was probably put across in order to bolster the Chinese and prevent them from yielding to the cease-fire proposals. In brief, here is what Russia gives to China under the new military pact:

1, The Kremlin will help train and equip ten new divisions for the Chinese Peoples' Republic. These divisions are to be composed of foreign troops, one-half Jap prisoners of war, plus an unspecified number of Inner Mongolians.

2. The Kremlin to provide the Chinese Peoples' Republic with 100 jet planes.

3. Train 1,000 Chinese pilots.

4. Train 2,000 Chinese paratroopers.

5. Station 300,000 Russian troops in Manchuria.

6. Provide the Chinese army with heavy equipment including tanks and artillery—exact number not determined.

7. Russia will return to China 47 of the industrial plants it removed from Manchuria in 1945-46.

At present the U. S. military situation in Korea is better than ever, with Communist forces suffering terrible casualties. However, this new military deal between Moscow and the Chinese has aroused considerable U. S. worry regarding the future.

High-Pressure Salesman

Elliott Roosevelt, when inviting guests to participate in his mother's radio program, won't take no for an answer.

Recently, he called the British U.N. delegation and asked Sir Gladwyn Jebb to appear, saying he had some other big names scheduled for the program.

Jebb, through his secretaary, tried to stall. But Elliott phoned repeatedly. Jebb, meantime, found that the other "big names" had not accepted, and, being busy, told his secretary he couldn't do it.

When Elliott pressed for a final answer, and the secretary gave a final no, Elliott countered: "I'm going to report Sir Gladwyn to the State Department."

THREAT TO FREE PRESS

The Argentine newspaper, La Prensa, published in Buenos Aires, has long stood for liberty, integrity and independence in Latin America. So much is it a symbol that anything which curbs its freedom hurts the cause of free journalism in the whole world.

Since he came to power, President Juan Peron of Argentina has made many efforts to silence La Prensa's politically embarrassing criticisms of his regime.

The devices were varied. Once on some pretext the government seized the paper's newsprint. Another time La Prensa's delivery trucks were penalized by the issuance of innumerable traffic tickets. For months now, police have kept a guard in the paper's press room, blocking installation of a new press.

But none of these maneuvers successfully muzzled La Prensa, so a new and slightly more subtle trick has now been resorted to.

The news venders' union, a government-sponsored organization, is picketing the paper's offices and barring entry to its employes. The excuse for this tactic is La Prensa's refusal to grant the union's extreme demands for a monopoly on local distribution and twenty per cent of its want-ad revenue for a welfare fund.

Publication has been suspended. Meantime, this "strike" has been encouraged by the Peron press, which strangely is not confronted by similar demands from the venders. The government also has ignored several requests by the paper for police protection.

Why has Peron concocted this thinly-disguised scheme to curb La Prensa?

He has an election campaign coming up next year. More than a few aspects of his administration do not bear too close examination, from all accounts. He can't afford the kind of scrutiny he would get from an independent newspaper bent on telling people the truth. He wants a press which is nothing but a cheering section for him.

For the good of Argentina, of Latin America, of all free peoples, his latest attempt to stifle La Prensa should fail, like all the others. Moreover, it ought to be loudly advertised everywhere for what it is.

Peron is indulging in methods strongly reminiscent of the heyday of Hitler and Mussolini, not to mention Stalin today. To these dictators the press could have no place except as a complete tool of the regime. How is Peron different when he seeks to spoon-feed Argentinians with an uncritical view of his administration?

La Prensa's cause is one which free newspapers everywhere should champion. Peron should be made to understand that if he desires Argentina to hold a respected place among the family of nations he cannot rely upon the devices of totalitarian oppression.

The true lesson when finding oneself in a tight spot is in figuring a way out of it.

Don't complain about the other fellow's taste; it would be worse if he didn't have any.

PREPARING FOR DISASTER

Residents of strategic areas in this country are currently giving thought to the question of civil defense. The problem this time is greater than in World War II, when first aid instruction and casualty squad training covered the ground. First aid included instructions for the treatment of victims of various gases, and these were memorized without much conviction that they would ever be needed.

Now the presence of the atomic bomb threat, with its devastating effects and their modification by distance, requires a new program of education. The possibility that germ warfare and poison gases may be utilized by an enemy is deemed not too remote by the experts, and familiarity with their effects must be achieved by education also. Red Cross officials are said to favor the use of schools and colleges for training centers whose trainees can then be called on to instruct community groups.

Citizens who are equipped to deal with disastrous occurrences are likely to be calm in the face of them. Ignorance leads to panic and unnecessary casualties.

'These Days'

LANDLESS PROLETARIAT

The militarization of the United States is now afoot. For the first time in our history, we publicly acknowledge an objective enemy in time of peace, and we set out for prolonged preparation to meet him whenever and wherever he may charge not only upon us but upon any whom we recognize as our allies.

The closest we have ever come to that state was the preparations against the machinations of Citizen Genet, who attempted to bring the French revolution to our shores during the administration of George Washington. But we got out of this in due course with little more than the Louisiana Purchase by Thomas Jefferson. Since then, we have had no conflict with France, although we were unhappy about the French putting Maximilian on the throne of Mexico.

From that remote period until recent years, this country has been struggling to avoid militarism and now we shall have to adopt it in all its manifestations, namely:

1. An economy based on permanent preparation for war;
2. Universal military service, altering the educational and family status of our youth;
3. Subordination of domestic progress to international necessities;
4. Instead of no entangling alliances, our foreign relations will be in a state of flux, of shifting alliances, of new friends and new foes, of former friends and former foes.

These historic alternations in American life are vast and their consequences are not predictable. Already, we witness the influence of two general wars upon our economic and political and even social institutions. Certainly, the United States of 1951 is altogether different from the United States of 1900.

The generation of those who are 18 this year can hardly picture the peaceful, energetic, competitive, cheerful life of 1900. They have remote notions of the world of William McKinley and Theodore Roosevelt. They live in an era of an increasing landlessness among Americans, a concentration in cities where neighborliness and tradition are lost in the bricks and mortar of barrack-like homes. To an ever larger degree, they are a landless proletariat, dependent upon a paycheck and a government-guaranteed security.

Now, an imprudent government even forces upon small businessmen, artists, writers—citizens of enterprise, imagination and daring—a payroll tax upon themselves. It is called some kind of social security but leveled upon those who seek not security but free adventure. These, too, are to be leveled down through taxation into the proletariat. The President's tax bill facilitates this process.

Thus is the reservoir of initiative dried up, and all new enterprise will, in time, be forced to find its capital from the government. The R.F.C., the largest of the government lending agencies, has become a bastion of corruption. A committee of investigation, headed by the Democrat, Senator J. William Fulbright, has presented evidence to the attorney general. But probably this, like the data of espionage unearthed by Senator Joe McCarthy, will be smothered and silenced and forgotten. Senator Fulbright is to be congratulated on his courage.

The landless proletariat has nothing to lose but its security. Therefore, it tolerates corruption and indecencies not only in government but in every phase of life because nothing matters to those whose roots are thin and shallow but sustenance.

It is interesting that the huge increase in divorce runs apace with the shift from independent land-ownership to the concentration of population in cities.

No matter what the cause, divorce, from the standpoint of the family as the basic social institution, marks failure. No matter how just the parties to a divorce may regard it, or how necessary, or how important, it cannot, from a moral standpoint, be a gay, a festive, a glorious event.

Yet, read your newspapers each day; read the gossip columns and listen on a Sunday night to those who specialize on such matters on the radio! It is possible to believe from what is written and what is said that marriages are arranged only to be consummated in divorces. Divorce is even made glamorous!

Something curiously twisted has come upon us when what should be tragedy becomes comedy. Something seems all wrong when those who are not yet unmarried are engaged to be married. Is it bigamy or polyandry or concubinage? Certainly, it is not the product of an American civilization steeped in natural law. It is the landless proletariat diplaying still more vividly its abhorrence of responsibility.

Physicians admit that many individuals consulting them for various symptoms require assurance more than medicine. They find that in an effort to get ahead of any suspected disease, they should consult their physician immediately, as early diagnosis of a disease such as cancer or a heart ailment, means a better than even chance of curing or controlling it.

The disease that was called soldier's heart following World War I is now known by various names—anxiety neurosis, effort syndrome, cardiac (heart) neurosis, neurasthenia. The chief symptoms are breathlessness, pounding of the heart, nervousness, irritability, chest pain or discomfort, tiring easily (effort syndrome), spells of dizziness, faintness or "anxiety attacks." There are thus many symptoms but the physician cannot find any organic cause for the symptoms, that is, there are no physical signs.

In Medical Clinics of North America, Dr. Mandel E. Cohen (Harvard University) states that patients may complain of choking and smothering spells, rapid heart beat, pain in chest, nervousness, getting tired easily, irritability, dizziness or "heart trouble." Thorough questioning of the patient reveals many symptoms in addition to their main complaint, most often tiredness and breathlessness due to the heart. Difficulty in doing hard work is almost always one of their symptoms, as is difficulty in handling emotional disturbances. A review of symptoms usually reveals headaches, blurred vision and giddiness. Breathing difficulties are almost universal, sighing is characteristics, there is difficulty on exertion or in breathing and chest discomfort even when sitting down.

The few signs present are rapid heartbeat, flushed face, trembling of outstretched fingers (present in severe goiter), and exaggerated knee jerk. All laboratory tests give normal results and the course of the illness is mild.

From the above findings it would be thought that permanent results would occur such as peptic ulcer and high blood pressure but Dr. Cohen states, after a 20 year follow-up of 173 of these patients, that this condition did not predispose them to any other disease or early death.

One visit to a physician might save these patients a lifetime of misery.

Shots Heard Round the World

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

Washington—With the nation facing one of its biggest tax bills in history, it is more important than ever that there be no tax chiselers.

Supporting this idea, Sen. John Williams, Delaware Republican, has now taken up a tax bribery scandal first exposed in this column and has demanded the ouster of James W. Johnson as collector of internal revenue for New York's Third District. Located right in the center of Manhattan, this is the wealthiest tax district in the nation.

Williams' blast at Johnson is an outgrowth of bribery and corruption unearthed by this column on Jan. 30, 1950, more than a year ago. Naming names and giving details, this column revealed how five of Johnson's tax collectors had been shaking down business firms and collecting lush bribes. Several months later, the same five collectors were brought to justice and sentenced to jail as follows—William A. Ganey, five years and $14,350; Anthony V. Fiscella, two years, six months and $2,500; John A. Galgano, two years and $2,850; Thomas J. Cannon, 18 months and $2,500; and James A. Bessell, 10 years probation.

J. S. Johnson, the collector in charge of these men, was also cited by the Commissioner of Internal revenue for his "weak and ineffective" administration. This, however, failed to shame him out of office, and he was then formally asked to resign—as of last November. However, he has not resigned, but is still on the job, trying to weather the storm.

Senator Williams, citing some of these facts, recently told the Senate:

"Early in 1950, supervisors from Washington were sent to (the third district) and they reported that conditions were worse than previous reports indicated. They reported that only one division in the entire office was functioning even in a fairly satisfactory manner. But the collector (Johnson), who is responsible for such an amazing state of affairs, is still in charge of the office.

"How bad do conditions have to get before some action is taken?" demanded the senator from Delaware. "If the government expects the taxpayers to cooperate wholeheartedly in its huge tax problem, it must put its own house in order."

Note 1—One year ago, this column, trying to clean up the New York scandals, telephoned Johnson and tried to obtain his cooperation. Johnson slammed down the telephone.

Note 2—Senator Williams has urged a "complete and constructive investigation by the United States Senate of the whole system by which taxes are collected." He points out this would determine "(1) Whether the government is getting paid all it is entitled to be paid, and (2) whether the tax laws are fairly and honestly administered."

Washington Pipeline

Senator Jumpin' Joe McCarthy of Wisconsin, frankly boasted the other day that he didn't pay his full income taxes. This amazing confession came out in a chat with New Mexico's Clint Anderson. Anderson expressed surprise and shock at McCarthy's confession. "So what?" shrugged McCarthy. "You never heard of a United States senator going to jail for income-tax violation." . . . Before leaving for the Republicans' one-dollar box supper, Senator Taft took the precaution of slipping into the private Senate dining room and eating a steak dinner. . . . Irrepressible Rep. George Bender of Ohio was all over the GOP box-supper arena, whooping it up for his friend Taft and getting in the hair of Gov. Tom Dewey's cheering section. . . . Sen. Irving Ives, leader of the Dewey forces, didn't try to conceal his resentment when Bender distributed "Taft for president" newspapers. When Bender and other Ohioans yelled for bandleader Fred Waring to play "I'm Looking Over a Four Leaf Clover," the Taft 1948 convention tune, Ives shook his head vigorously. Finally Waring compromised by playing "Way Down on the Ohio," which didn't suit Taftites at all. They would have preferred the official state song, "Beautiful Ohio." . . . House Minority Leader Joe Martin, as usual, came through with the speech of the evening.

Chinese-Russian Deal

Word of a new and highly important secret military agreement between Russia and Communist China has just reached Washington. The deal could be a serious one for our future position in Korea.

According to the best intelligence information, the agreement was signed in Moscow at about the time the United Nations' cease-fire order was under discussion. The deal was probably put across in order to bolster the Chinese and prevent them from yielding to the cease-fire proposals. In brief, here is what Russia gives to China under the new military pact:

1, The Kremlin will help train and equip ten new divisions for the Chinese Peoples' Republic. These divisions are to be composed of foreign troops, one-half Jap prisoners of war, plus an unspecified number of Inner Mongolians.

2. The Kremlin to provide the Chinese Peoples' Republic with 100 jet planes.

3. Train 1,000 Chinese pilots.

4. Train 2,000 Chinese paratroopers.

5. Station 300,000 Russian troops in Manchuria.

6. Provide the Chinese army with heavy equipment including tanks and artillery—exact number not determined.

7. Russia will return to China 47 of the industrial plants it removed from Manchuria in 1945-46.

At present the U. S. military situation in Korea is better than ever, with Communist forces suffering terrible casualties. However, this new military deal between Moscow and the Chinese has aroused considerable U. S. worry regarding the future.

High-Pressure Salesman

Elliott Roosevelt, when inviting guests to participate in his mother's radio program, won't take no for an answer.

Recently, he called the British U.N. delegation and asked Sir Gladwyn Jebb to appear, saying he had some other big names scheduled for the program.

Jebb, through his secretaary, tried to stall. But Elliott phoned repeatedly. Jebb, meantime, found that the other "big names" had not accepted, and, being busy, told his secretary he couldn't do it.

When Elliott pressed for a final answer, and the secretary gave a final no, Elliott countered: "I'm going to report Sir Gladwyn to the State Department."

THREAT TO FREE PRESS

The Argentine newspaper, La Prensa, published in Buenos Aires, has long stood for liberty, integrity and independence in Latin America. So much is it a symbol that anything which curbs its freedom hurts the cause of free journalism in the whole world.

Since he came to power, President Juan Peron of Argentina has made many efforts to silence La Prensa's politically embarrassing criticisms of his regime.

The devices were varied. Once on some pretext the government seized the paper's newsprint. Another time La Prensa's delivery trucks were penalized by the issuance of innumerable traffic tickets. For months now, police have kept a guard in the paper's press room, blocking installation of a new press.

But none of these maneuvers successfully muzzled La Prensa, so a new and slightly more subtle trick has now been resorted to.

The news venders' union, a government-sponsored organization, is picketing the paper's offices and barring entry to its employes. The excuse for this tactic is La Prensa's refusal to grant the union's extreme demands for a monopoly on local distribution and twenty per cent of its want-ad revenue for a welfare fund.

Publication has been suspended. Meantime, this "strike" has been encouraged by the Peron press, which strangely is not confronted by similar demands from the venders. The government also has ignored several requests by the paper for police protection.

Why has Peron concocted this thinly-disguised scheme to curb La Prensa?

He has an election campaign coming up next year. More than a few aspects of his administration do not bear too close examination, from all accounts. He can't afford the kind of scrutiny he would get from an independent newspaper bent on telling people the truth. He wants a press which is nothing but a cheering section for him.

For the good of Argentina, of Latin America, of all free peoples, his latest attempt to stifle La Prensa should fail, like all the others. Moreover, it ought to be loudly advertised everywhere for what it is.

Peron is indulging in methods strongly reminiscent of the heyday of Hitler and Mussolini, not to mention Stalin today. To these dictators the press could have no place except as a complete tool of the regime. How is Peron different when he seeks to spoon-feed Argentinians with an uncritical view of his administration?

La Prensa's cause is one which free newspapers everywhere should champion. Peron should be made to understand that if he desires Argentina to hold a respected place among the family of nations he cannot rely upon the devices of totalitarian oppression.

The true lesson when finding oneself in a tight spot is in figuring a way out of it.

Don't complain about the other fellow's taste; it would be worse if he didn't have any.

PREPARING FOR DISASTER

Residents of strategic areas in this country are currently giving thought to the question of civil defense. The problem this time is greater than in World War II, when first aid instruction and casualty squad training covered the ground. First aid included instructions for the treatment of victims of various gases, and these were memorized without much conviction that they would ever be needed.

Now the presence of the atomic bomb threat, with its devastating effects and their modification by distance, requires a new program of education. The possibility that germ warfare and poison gases may be utilized by an enemy is deemed not too remote by the experts, and familiarity with their effects must be achieved by education also. Red Cross officials are said to favor the use of schools and colleges for training centers whose trainees can then be called on to instruct community groups.

Citizens who are equipped to deal with disastrous occurrences are likely to be calm in the face of them. Ignorance leads to panic and unnecessary casualties.

'These Days'

LANDLESS PROLETARIAT

The militarization of the United States is now afoot. For the first time in our history, we publicly acknowledge an objective enemy in time of peace, and we set out for prolonged preparation to meet him whenever and wherever he may charge not only upon us but upon any whom we recognize as our allies.

The closest we have ever come to that state was the preparations against the machinations of Citizen Genet, who attempted to bring the French revolution to our shores during the administration of George Washington. But we got out of this in due course with little more than the Louisiana Purchase by Thomas Jefferson. Since then, we have had no conflict with France, although we were unhappy about the French putting Maximilian on the throne of Mexico.

From that remote period until recent years, this country has been struggling to avoid militarism and now we shall have to adopt it in all its manifestations, namely:

1. An economy based on permanent preparation for war;
2. Universal military service, altering the educational and family status of our youth;
3. Subordination of domestic progress to international necessities;
4. Instead of no entangling alliances, our foreign relations will be in a state of flux, of shifting alliances, of new friends and new foes, of former friends and former foes.

These historic alternations in American life are vast and their consequences are not predictable. Already, we witness the influence of two general wars upon our economic and political and even social institutions. Certainly, the United States of 1951 is altogether different from the United States of 1900.

The generation of those who are 18 this year can hardly picture the peaceful, energetic, competitive, cheerful life of 1900. They have remote notions of the world of William McKinley and Theodore Roosevelt. They live in an era of an increasing landlessness among Americans, a concentration in cities where neighborliness and tradition are lost in the bricks and mortar of barrack-like homes. To an ever larger degree, they are a landless proletariat, dependent upon a paycheck and a government-guaranteed security.

Now, an imprudent government even forces upon small businessmen, artists, writers—citizens of enterprise, imagination and daring—a payroll tax upon themselves. It is called some kind of social security but leveled upon those who seek not security but free adventure. These, too, are to be leveled down through taxation into the proletariat. The President's tax bill facilitates this process.

Thus is the reservoir of initiative dried up, and all new enterprise will, in time, be forced to find its capital from the government. The R.F.C., the largest of the government lending agencies, has become a bastion of corruption. A committee of investigation, headed by the Democrat, Senator J. William Fulbright, has presented evidence to the attorney general. But probably this, like the data of espionage unearthed by Senator Joe McCarthy, will be smothered and silenced and forgotten. Senator Fulbright is to be congratulated on his courage.

The landless proletariat has nothing to lose but its security. Therefore, it tolerates corruption and indecencies not only in government but in every phase of life because nothing matters to those whose roots are thin and shallow but sustenance.

It is interesting that the huge increase in divorce runs apace with the shift from independent land-ownership to the concentration of population in cities.

No matter what the cause, divorce, from the standpoint of the family as the basic social institution, marks failure. No matter how just the parties to a divorce may regard it, or how necessary, or how important, it cannot, from a moral standpoint, be a gay, a festive, a glorious event.

Yet, read your newspapers each day; read the gossip columns and listen on a Sunday night to those who specialize on such matters on the radio! It is possible to believe from what is written and what is said that marriages are arranged only to be consummated in divorces. Divorce is even made glamorous!

Something curiously twisted has come upon us when what should be tragedy becomes comedy. Something seems all wrong when those who are not yet unmarried are engaged to be married. Is it bigamy or polyandry or concubinage? Certainly, it is not the product of an American civilization steeped in natural law. It is the landless proletariat diplaying still more vividly its abhorrence of responsibility.

ANXIETY NEUROSIS

Physicians admit that many individuals consulting them for various symptoms require assurance more than medicine. They find that in an effort to get ahead of any suspected disease, they should consult their physician immediately, as early diagnosis of a disease such as cancer or a heart ailment, means a better than even chance of curing or controlling it.

The disease that was called soldier's heart following World War I is now known by various names—anxiety neurosis, effort syndrome, cardiac (heart) neurosis, neurasthenia. The chief symptoms are breathlessness, pounding of the heart, nervousness, irritability, chest pain or discomfort, tiring easily (effort syndrome), spells of dizziness, faintness or "anxiety attacks." There are thus many symptoms but the physician cannot find any organic cause for the symptoms, that is, there are no physical signs.

In Medical Clinics of North America, Dr. Mandel E. Cohen (Harvard University) states that patients may complain of choking and smothering spells, rapid heart beat, pain in chest, nervousness, getting tired easily, irritability, dizziness or "heart trouble." Thorough questioning of the patient reveals many symptoms in addition to their main complaint, most often tiredness and breathlessness due to the heart. Difficulty in doing hard work is almost always one of their symptoms, as is difficulty in handling emotional disturbances. A review of symptoms usually reveals headaches, blurred vision and giddiness. Breathing difficulties are almost universal, sighing is characteristics, there is difficulty on exertion or in breathing and chest discomfort even when sitting down.

The few signs present are rapid heartbeat, flushed face, trembling of outstretched fingers (present in severe goiter), and exaggerated knee jerk. All laboratory tests give normal results and the course of the illness is mild.

From the above findings it would be thought that permanent results would occur such as peptic ulcer and high blood pressure but Dr. Cohen states, after a 20 year follow-up of 173 of these patients, that this condition did not predispose them to any other disease or early death.

One visit to a physician might save these patients a lifetime of misery.

Washington—With the nation facing one of its biggest tax bills in history, it is more important than ever that there be no tax chiselers.

Supporting this idea, Sen. John Williams, Delaware Republican, has now taken up a tax bribery scandal first exposed in this column and has demanded the ouster of James W. Williams' blast at Johnson is an outgrowth of bribery and corruption unearthed by this column on Jan. 30, 1950, more than a year ago. Naming names and giving details, this column revealed how five of Johnson's tax collectors had been shaking down business firms and collecting lush bribes. Several months later, the same five collectors were brought to justice and sentenced to jail as follows—William A. Ganey, five years and $14,350; Anthony V. Fiscella, two years, six months and $2,500; John A. Galgano, two years and $2,850; Thomas J. Cannon, 18 months and $2,500; and James A. Bessell, 10 years probation.

J. S. Johnson, the collector in charge of these men, was also cited by the Commissioner of Internal revenue for his "weak and ineffective" administration. This, however, failed to shame him out of office, and he was then formally asked to resign—as of last November. However, he has not resigned, but is still on the job, trying to weather the storm.

Senator Williams, citing some of these facts, recently told the Senate:

"Early in 1950, supervisors from Washington were sent to (the third district) and they reported that conditions were worse than previous reports indicated. They reported that only one division in the entire office was functioning even in a fairly satisfactory manner. But the collector (Johnson), who is responsible for such an amazing state of affairs, is still in charge of the office.

"How bad do conditions have to get before some action is taken?" demanded the senator from Delaware. "If the government expects the taxpayers to cooperate wholeheartedly in its huge tax problem, it must put its own house in order."

Note 1—One year ago, this column, trying to clean up the New York scandals, telephoned Johnson and tried to obtain his cooperation. Johnson slammed down the telephone.

Note 2—Senator Williams has urged a "complete and constructive investigation by the United States Senate of the whole system by which taxes are collected." He points out this would determine "(1) Whether the government is getting paid all it is entitled to be paid, and (2) whether the tax laws are fairly and honestly administered."

Washington Pipeline

Senator Jumpin' Joe McCarthy of Wisconsin, frankly boasted the other day that he didn't pay his full income taxes. This amazing confession came out in a chat with New Mexico's Clint Anderson. Anderson expressed surprise and shock at McCarthy's confession. "So what?" shrugged McCarthy. "You never heard of a United States senator going to jail for income-tax violation." . . . Before leaving for the Republicans' one-dollar box supper, Senator Taft took the precaution of slipping into the private Senate dining room and eating a steak dinner. . . . Irrepressible Rep. George Bender of Ohio was all over the GOP box-supper arena, whooping it up for his friend Taft and getting in the hair of Gov. Tom Dewey's cheering section. . . . Sen. Irving Ives, leader of the Dewey forces, didn't try to conceal his resentment when Bender distributed "Taft for president" newspapers. When Bender and other Ohioans yelled for bandleader Fred Waring to play "I'm Looking Over a Four Leaf Clover," the Taft 1948 convention tune, Ives shook his head vigorously. Finally Waring compromised by playing "Way Down on the Ohio," which didn't suit Taftites at all. They would have preferred the official state song, "Beautiful Ohio." . . . House Minority Leader Joe Martin, as usual, came through with the speech of the evening.

Chinese-Russian Deal

Word of a new and highly important secret military agreement between Russia and Communist China has just reached Washington. The deal could be a serious one for our future position in Korea.

According to the best intelligence information, the agreement was signed in Moscow at about the time the United Nations' cease-fire order was under discussion. The deal was probably put across in order to bolster the Chinese and prevent them from yielding to the cease-fire proposals. In brief, here is what Russia gives to China under the new military pact:

1. The Kremlin will help train and equip ten new divisions for the Chinese Peoples' Republic. These divisions are to be composed of foreign troops, one-half Jap prisoners of war, plus an unspecified number of Inner Mongolians.
2. The Kremlin to provide the Chinese Peoples' Republic with 100 jet planes.
3. Train 1,000 Chinese pilots.
4. Train 2,000 Chinese paratroopers.
5. Station 300,000 Russian troops in Manchuria.
6. Provide the Chinese army with heavy equipment including tanks and artillery—exact number not determined.
7. Russia will return to China 47 of the industrial plants it removed from Manchuria in 1945-46.

At present the U. S. military situation in Korea is better than ever, with Communist forces suffering terrible casualties. However, this new military deal between Moscow and the Chinese has aroused considerable U. S. worry regarding the future.

High-Pressure Salesman

Elliott Roosevelt, when inviting guests to participate in his mother's radio program, won't take no for an answer.

Recently, he called the British U.N. delegation and asked Sir Gladwyn Jebb to appear, saying he had some other big names scheduled for the program.

Jebb, through his secretaary, tried to stall. But Elliott phoned repeatedly. Jebb, meantime, found that the other "big names" had not accepted, and, being busy, told his secretary he couldn't do it.

When Elliott pressed for a final answer, and the secretary gave a final no, Elliott countered: "I'm going to report Sir Gladwyn to the State Department."

Mrs. Brinnier Gives Women's Club Group Beauty Care Tips

A charter member of the Women's Club of the Y.W.C.A., Mrs. Parker Brinnier, who recently made beauty her business, spoke on beauty care and good grooming at the group's Thursday afternoon meeting. Before working at a local beauty parlor here, Mrs. Brinnier, who was introduced by Mrs. Robert Pixley, studied at the Charles of the Ritz School in New York.

"My favorite phase of beauty work is make-up," the speaker explained. "First of all, milady must be color conscious. She must consider her lipstick, being careful to select the proper shade that blends with the color of the costume she is wearing.

"Secondly, milady must start early to condition her skin to prevent wrinkles, as there is no care for them after they come. Proper application of the correct preparations will soften these lines, however."

Selecting models from the group, Mrs. Brinnier then demonstrated the proper procedure for massage and how to apply suitable cosmetics, giving pertinent suggestions as she worked.

"People who wear glasses need more eye shadow," the speaker noted. "Always bring the shadow up to the brow.

"Most women use too much rouge. Select the proper shade use it sparingly. Apply with the finger tips, follow the bone structure of the face, and don't bring it down too far."

Other suggestions the speaker made included "pencil with the brow, instead of drawing a line; apply mascara by brushing it on the lashes, first down, then up, and be sure to reach the corners of the eyes;" and "the day of the rosebud mouth is over. Apply lipstick to the very end of the mouth. If you haven't a cupid's bow, make one, or have it made."

Mrs. Brinnier concluded by referring to preparations that conceal blemishes, and broken veins.

Also on the afternoon's program was a dramatic reading, "Born Without a Chance," given by Mrs. Ella Ochs, pertaining to Abraham Lincoln. Mrs. Thomas H. Edmonston conducted the worship.

At the conclusion of the business meeting, and program, tea was served by the hostesses: the Mmes. A. Noble Graham, William C. Kingman, Mary B. LeFever and Howard Lewis. Mrs. Ochs poured.

Poultry Producers Form Organization

First steps in the formal organization of a poultry producers cooperative were taken in Ellenville Thursday night.

At a meeting presided over by Edward Koenig, extension agricultural agent for the Jewish Agricultural Society, 55 poultry producers elected a board of directors and discussed ways in which to form an orderly poultry meat marketing organization.

Officers for the cooperative will be elected by the board of directors at a future date.

The organization, at present drawing most of its members from the Ellenville-Woodridge area and concerned mostly with the broiler market, may at a later time include the marketing of hens that are no longer laying.

Plans were left flexible, but among the possibilities mentioned for study was that of marketing broilers and young pullets directly to hotels and restaurants in this area, rather than selling to New York markets and having them resold to hotel men in this area.

Among the persons attending the meeting were producers and county agricultural agents or assistants from Ulster, Sullivan and Orange counties.

Mrs. Brinnier Gives Women's Club Group Beauty Care Tips

A charter member of the Women's Club of the Y.W.C.A., Mrs. Parker Brinnier, who recently made beauty her business, spoke on beauty care and good grooming at the group's Thursday afternoon meeting. Before working at a local beauty parlor here, Mrs. Brinnier, who was introduced by Mrs. Robert Pixley, studied at the Charles of the Ritz School in New York.

"My favorite phase of beauty work is make-up," the speaker explained. "First of all, milady must be color conscious. She must consider her lipstick, being careful to select the proper shade that blends with the color of the costume she is wearing.

"Secondly, milady must start early to condition her skin to prevent wrinkles, as there is no care for them after they come. Proper application of the correct preparations will soften these lines, however."

Selecting models from the group, Mrs. Brinnier then demonstrated the proper procedure for massage and how to apply suitable cosmetics, giving pertinent suggestions as she worked.

"People who wear glasses need more eye shadow," the speaker noted. "Always bring the shadow up to the brow.

"Most women use too much rouge. Select the proper shade use it sparingly. Apply with the finger tips, follow the bone structure of the face, and don't bring it down too far."

Other suggestions the speaker made included "pencil with the brow, instead of drawing a line; apply mascara by brushing it on the lashes, first down, then up, and be sure to reach the corners of the eyes;" and "the day of the rosebud mouth is over. Apply lipstick to the very end of the mouth. If you haven't a cupid's bow, make one, or have it made."

Mrs. Brinnier concluded by referring to preparations that conceal blemishes, and broken veins.

Also on the afternoon's program was a dramatic reading, "Born Without a Chance," given by Mrs. Ella Ochs, pertaining to Abraham Lincoln. Mrs. Thomas H. Edmonston conducted the worship.

At the conclusion of the business meeting, and program, tea was served by the hostesses: the Mmes. A. Noble Graham, William C. Kingman, Mary B. LeFever and Howard Lewis. Mrs. Ochs poured.

Poultry Producers Form Organization

First steps in the formal organization of a poultry producers cooperative were taken in Ellenville Thursday night.

At a meeting presided over by Edward Koenig, extension agricultural agent for the Jewish Agricultural Society, 55 poultry producers elected a board of directors and discussed ways in which to form an orderly poultry meat marketing organization.

Officers for the cooperative will be elected by the board of directors at a future date.

The organization, at present drawing most of its members from the Ellenville-Woodridge area and concerned mostly with the broiler market, may at a later time include the marketing of hens that are no longer laying.

Plans were left flexible, but among the possibilities mentioned for study was that of marketing broilers and young pullets directly to hotels and restaurants in this area, rather than selling to New York markets and having them resold to hotel men in this area.

Among the persons attending the meeting were producers and county agricultural agents or assistants from Ulster, Sullivan and Orange counties.

Mrs. Brinnier Gives Women's Club Group Beauty Care Tips

A charter member of the Women's Club of the Y.W.C.A., Mrs. Parker Brinnier, who recently made beauty her business, spoke on beauty care and good grooming at the group's Thursday afternoon meeting. Before working at a local beauty parlor here, Mrs. Brinnier, who was introduced by Mrs. Robert Pixley, studied at the Charles of the Ritz School in New York.

"My favorite phase of beauty work is make-up," the speaker explained. "First of all, milady must be color conscious. She must consider her lipstick, being careful to select the proper shade that blends with the color of the costume she is wearing.

"Secondly, milady must start early to condition her skin to prevent wrinkles, as there is no care for them after they come. Proper application of the correct preparations will soften these lines, however."

Selecting models from the group, Mrs. Brinnier then demonstrated the proper procedure for massage and how to apply suitable cosmetics, giving pertinent suggestions as she worked.

"People who wear glasses need more eye shadow," the speaker noted. "Always bring the shadow up to the brow.

"Most women use too much rouge. Select the proper shade use it sparingly. Apply with the finger tips, follow the bone structure of the face, and don't bring it down too far."

Other suggestions the speaker made included "pencil with the brow, instead of drawing a line; apply mascara by brushing it on the lashes, first down, then up, and be sure to reach the corners of the eyes;" and "the day of the rosebud mouth is over. Apply lipstick to the very end of the mouth. If you haven't a cupid's bow, make one, or have it made."

Mrs. Brinnier concluded by referring to preparations that conceal blemishes, and broken veins.

Also on the afternoon's program was a dramatic reading, "Born Without a Chance," given by Mrs. Ella Ochs, pertaining to Abraham Lincoln. Mrs. Thomas H. Edmonston conducted the worship.

At the conclusion of the business meeting, and program, tea was served by the hostesses: the Mmes. A. Noble Graham, William C. Kingman, Mary B. LeFever and Howard Lewis. Mrs. Ochs poured.

Poultry Producers Form Organization

First steps in the formal organization of a poultry producers cooperative were taken in Ellenville Thursday night.

At a meeting presided over by Edward Koenig, extension agricultural agent for the Jewish Agricultural Society, 55 poultry producers elected a board of directors and discussed ways in which to form an orderly poultry meat marketing organization.

Officers for the cooperative will be elected by the board of directors at a future date.

The organization, at present drawing most of its members from the Ellenville - Woodridge area and concerned mostly with the broiler market, may at a later time include the marketing of hens that are no longer laying.

Plans were left flexible, but among the possibilities mentioned for study was that of marketing broilers and young pullets directly to hotels and restaurants in this area, rather than selling to New York markets and having them resold to hotel men in this area.

Among the persons attending the meeting were producers and county agricultural agents or assistants from Ulster, Sullivan and Orange counties.

Someone Said:

"Sunshine is delicious, rain is refreshing, wind braces us up, snow is exhilarating." There is no such thing as bad weather—only different kinds of weather.

Bus Driver—How old are you little girl?

Little Girl—If you don't mind, big man, I'll pay full fare and keep my statistics to myself.

Mother—Get a spoon, Freddie. Mother has something for you.

Freddie—A big spoon or a little spoon?

Mother—What difference does it make?

Freddie—Makes a heap of difference. Is it medicine you got or ice cream?

The worst thing that can happen to a woman" "is to marry a man who needs no reforming." But don't let that worry you, girls it's one of those things that can't happen.

Bill—How is it you never tell your wife whenever you particularly like something she cooks?

Jack—If I did she'd serve it to me every day.

Why?

No human being ever lives,
Who doesn't have some trouble;
But why should one
Shut out the sun,
—William J. Lampton.

Betty—Black hens are more clever than white ones, aren't they, Ma?

Ma—What makes you think that, dear?

Betty—Well, the black ones can lay white eggs, but the white ones can't lay black eggs.

Churches seem to be having the same trouble as buses and street cars. One minister reported finding, after the morning services, one pair of spectacles, two hats, assorted gloves and—of all things—a stocking.

Goodness consists not in the outward things we do, but in the inward things that we are. To be is the great thing.

According to Coronet: London street cleaners finally won their demands for a five-day week. After a brief period they requested a return to their former five-and-a-half-day schedule. The explanation? Their wives were insisting they devote Saturday morning to household duties. Let that be a lesson to the forty-hour-a-week advocates.

Record City Tenpin Meet Starts Tonight

The all-time record breaking Kingston Bowling Association city tournament starts at the Ruzzo Bowlatorium tonight at 7 o'clock.

Ceremonies at 6:45 will include brief speeches by Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk, who will throw the first ball; President Louis G. Bruhn of the K.B.A.; Addison Jones, tournament manager, and Peter Keresman, life member.

New entry records include 109 five-man teams, 139 singles, 133 all-events and 83 doubles.

Two squads are scheduled at 7 and 9:15 p. m. and three on Sunday at 1 p. m., 3:15 p. m. and 5:30 p. m. Singles and doubles are scheduled the following week-end at the Ferraro Bowlodrome.

Harold Broskie was flirting with another "700" in the Ferraro Classic League last night and he wound up with 682 and the hat trick of 215, 245, 222.

The pre-tournament prepping by the major keglers produced several other hefty scores. Fred Rice clustered strikes for 209-210-224-643, Eddie Heins shot 211-231-628 and Marty Kellenberger, the Old Owl, was among the leaders with 236-616.

Other top scorers included Frank Roe, 229-585; Buster Ferraro 201-201-577; John Schatzel 211-576; Don Weeks 208-204-575; Herb Sleight 203-573.

Sandwiching 176 with 212 and 205, Jack Houghtaling led Everybody's League with 594 at the Central planks. Tom Miller shot 202-586; Joe Sangi 234-579; F. Amato 209-209-576; John Sangi 213-200-567; Stan Colvin 207-538; Fred Schryver 207-537; Tom Welch 533 and Ken Woodman 531.

Burt Burr, Sr. smoke-balled his way a "600" flat in the Electrol League at the Bowlatorium, with counts of 200-173-227. H. Smith posted 200-202-554; J. Spadafore 213-537; F. Sember 535; Tony La Rocca 533; A. Roosa 527; D. Vanderlyn 524 and J. Burns 520.

Sam Hayes led a low scoring session of the Y Mercantile National League this week with a 545 triple on strikes of 182-171-192.

The only other 500 was turned in by R. Blass who fired 202 and and pair of 154 games for a 510 triple.

J. Carle shot 495; E. Schussler 475; Bill Hornbeck 479 and Fred Short 470.

'Mean' Landlord Gets Jail

New York, Feb. 10 (AP)—A landlady whom a judge once called one of the meanest in town" must spend 90 days in jail because she did not repair a dilapidated tenement house. The woman, Dorothy Bloom, 43, was denied a stay yesterday by Magistrate Philip B. Thurston. The sentence was imposed a year ago, suspended, and then reinvoked when the repairs were not made. With her sister, Pearl, 41, Miss Bloom also was convicted of rent gouging a year ago. They paid fines totaling $7,500, and each served a five month sentence. At that time, Special sessions Justice Nathan D. Perlman called them the "meanest landlords in town."

Plan Rival N.I.T. in Chicago Stadium

Chicago, Feb. 10 (AP)—Plans for a National Invitational basketball tourney at the Chicago Stadium in direct competition with the established National Invitation meet at New York's Madison Square Garden were disclosed today by Arthur Morse, Chicago Stadium cage impressario.

Morse said he was sounding out such teams as Kentucky, Oklahoma A. & M., North Carolina State, Bradley, Arizona, Beloit and two other ranking quintets to round out an eight-team field.

The meet would be held four days, between March 10 and 17, paralleling New York's invitational meet which has a 12-team field.

Usually teams which win National Collegiate Athletic Association tourney berths also play in the N.I.T. at New York. City College of New York won both meets last year and Bradley was runner-up in both.

The N.C.A.A. tourney this season will be held from March 21 to March 27.

of last June, or even some earlier date.

But the board has had trouble agreeing that 10 per cent fits the general pattern of increases since the Korean war broke out. Industry members have said the pattern was much lower; labor members have suggested that a 10 per cent rise wouldn't be enough.

Want Representation

3. In a second letter also dated Feb. 9, the day after Flemming's appointment, the same four union executives urged Wilson to appoint "a leading figure from our trade union organizations" to be named by them as a member of "your top policy staff." It said such an appointment was "long overdue." The letter did not name the proposed labor representative.

4. On the price front, the Bureau of Labor Statistics reported yesterday that the week's rise in wholesale prices was 0.7 per cent. This took the wholesale price index to 182.2 compared with 180.9 on Jan. 30.

The index was 5.5 per cent above Dec. 5 and 16 per cent above the pre-Korean conflict level.

Principal increases in the Feb. 6 week—the 13th consecutive one to see all records shattered — were in farm products and foods, many of which were not included in last month's price freeze. These went up 1.6 and 1.9 per cent respectively. Meat rose 3.2 per cent and livestock 2.7 per cent.

Layne Outpoints Brion At Garden

New York, Feb. 10 (AP)—Next for Rex Layne, the bullboy from Lewiston, Utah, could be Roland Lastarza, Rocky Marciano, Pat Valentino, or maybe Gorgeous George?

Marv Jenson, Layne's manager, held out for Lastarza, Marciano or Valentino after last night's split decision victory over Argentina's Cesar Brion.

Many of the 5,768 customers and TV watchers called for Gorgeous George after the boxing-wrestling exhibition at Madison Square Garden.

Seriously, though, 22-year-old Rex from Utah's sugar beet land, failed to live up to the gaudy promise of his Nov. 24 upset over Joe Walcott.

Layne won, no doubt about it in this corner, although Referee Jack Watson, a little man who had to tug and shove the big brutes all night, cast his ballot for Brion 5-4-1. Brion and his manager thought Jack was right. Judge Frank Forbes liked Layne 7-3 and Judge Harold Barnes made it 7-2-1 for Layne. The AP card agreed with Forbes.

Felt Sluggish

In his dressing room, Layne was quick to admit his disappointment over his showing.

"I felt sluggish," he said. "No alibis. I thought I won all right. But with two styles like that nobody could look good."

That was what the folks who paid $19,040 thought too. They hooted after the decision and booed at the end of four rounds. Actually it wasn't Layne they booed but the close range mauling anad wrestling of both boys that led to an unhappy evening for all.

Layne, a 9 to 5 favorite, got off strong, overpowering Brion with a wild whistling right to the body. Cesar got in a few good shots but persistent Rex did it better and more often.

Dad Vail Regatta Lost to Po'keepsie

New York, Feb. 10 (AP)—Poughkeepsie, the regatta city, may become a ghost town as far as future crew races are concerned.

It lost the "Poughkeepsie" regatta, biggest race of them all to Marietta, O., last year and now is on the verge of surrendering the Dad Vail event. At a meeting of the board of stewards of the Dad Vail Association last night, tentative sites for the coming regatta were discussed.

Prime reason for the contemplated switch was the reported failure by the Poughkeepsie Recreation Committee to raise the $3,500 to house the crews and pay for their expenses.

"This is a severe blow to our Association," said Brett Leverich, honorary chairman of the Dad Vail Association. "Just when we reach our peak, we have to take an elevator plunge. I always thought we had a home in Poughkeepsie."

Members of the Poughkeepsie Recreation Committee who were invited to attend the meeting failed to make an appearance. "No purpose would be served in attending the meeting. We have nothing to offer the crews," said Fred Stitzel, president of the P.R.C.

Charles F. Jennings, vice-chairman of the Dad Vail Association expressed hope of coming to some agreement. "We are satisfied completely with the housing, boating and water at Poughkeepsie. Our 1950 regatta held there was a complete success."

Best Troops Dying

Chicago, Feb. 10 (AP)—Gen. J. Lawton Collins, army chief of staff, says he cannot predict the outcome of the Korean war. But, he told a news conference yesterday, the war is "accomplishing a lot toward destruction of the best Communist troops," and the result is an asset to the western world.

Westrum Will Coach Valley Cage Stars

Fred Davi today announced the appointment of Wes Westrum, New York Giant catcher, as coach of the Hudson Valley All Star basketball squad which meets the Yankee Five on Thursday, Feb. 15, at the municipal auditorium.

Two established maojr league stars, Allie Clark of the Cleveland Indians, and Dick Kryhoski of the Detroit Tigers, have been added to the Yankee roster, Davi said.

The first string five of the Yankees features two topnotch Negro stars of the New York Giants—Monte Irvin and Hank Thompson, Emil Tunnel, of the New York football Giants; and Babe Sharkey of the football Yankees.

City Baseball League Clarifies Rule On Admission of New Franchises

Doug Ford Leads Texas Open Golf

San Antonio, Tex., Feb. 10 (AP)—Doug Ford of Briarcliff, N. Y., a moderate money-winner on the winter golf trail, led the $10,000 Texas Open into its third round today.

The handsome young pro, with 133 for 36 holes, held a one-stroke margin as the field, cut to 96 yesterday in the most tumultuous round of Texas Open history, moved into the elimination that will lop some 30 more from the list for tomorrow's last 18.

Doughty Doug, winner of $1,288.34 this year but never a first-money grabber to date, vaulted to the top with a five-under-par 66 over 6,400-yard, tree-lined, dusty Brackenridge Park Course. His was just one of 78 par-breaking performances—the most for one day in the annals of the ancient Texas Open.

The greatest par-cracking came at Brackenridge where the top men of the tour played but there were some at the Fort Sam Houston Country Club course, which stretches 6,426 yards and has 71 regulation figures.

Meyer Signs

Philadelphia, Feb. 10 (AP)—Russ Meyer, firebrand pitcher of the Philadelphia Phillies, sent in his signed contract yesterday. The "screwball" artist, who has had trouble controlling his temper, hurled brilliantly for the Phils in 1949, winning 17 games and losing eight. But in spring training last year he suffered an elbow injury, and was unable in the regular season to hit his old stride. He wound up with a record of nine victories and 11 defeats.

Four thousand termites have been counted in a single cubic foot of wood.

Secretary Explains Official Procedure

In an effort to clarify City Baseball League rules on the subject of addition of new teams, Secretary Ed Murphy has dispatched the following letter to the Freeman sports department:

"I have been requested by James Turck, president of the Kingston City Baseball League, to please try to clarify the procedure by which an individual or a group desiring to obtain a franchise in the league, may follow in order to obtain said franchise.

"The first rule or by-law of our league reads thus: 'The Kingston City Baseball League shall be composed of (8) eight teams, all fully agreeing on and upholding the rules and regulations of the league as herein set forth:

1. During the off season, from September until May, one may approach any franchise holder and offer to purchase his franchise for the right to participate in the league as a team to represent you or your establishment.

2. In the event you are unable to purchase a franchise from these men, you may also ask each franchise at this time, if they are willing at their meetings in the spring of 1951 to change this by-law or amend it, so they may extend the number of teams from (8) eight up to (10) ten teams, if another team (excluding your own) would also be willing to join the league.

"The reason I cite this is, because each previous year the managers have balked at following one more team to enter, as they do not care to have a nine-team league.

"If I may help you in any way by furnishing the names and addresses of these (the present) franchise in the league, I would be more to do so upon receipt of a card or letter at my home address.

"If you are successful in either way I have stated above, you can be assured you are more than welcome to become a member of the Kingston City Baseball League."

Signed
EDDIE MURPHY,
Secretary

Ferrick, Reynolds Ink Yank Contracts

New York, Feb. 10 (AP)—The New York Yankees said today that relief pitcher Tom Ferrick, pitcher Allie Reynolds and outfielder Cliff Mapes have sent in their signed contracts.

Reynolds ranked eighth in earned run averages with 3.73 per game last season. He won 16 and lost 12.

Ferrick appeared in 30 games for the world champions last year after being obtained from the St. Louis Browns in mid-season, winning 8 and losing 4. Mapes hit only .247 in 108 games, but drove across 61 runs.

Yankees still not signed include catcher Yogi Berra and pitchers Vic Raschi, Ed Lopat and Joe Page.

Allen vs. Bee

New York, Feb. 10 (AP)—Dr. Forrest C. (Phog) Allen of Kansas and Claire Bee of Long Island U., will be the opposing coaches in the sixth annual fresh air fund East-West All-Star college basketball game in Madison Square Garden, March 31. Allen's acceptance was announced today. Bee agreed to pilot the easterners a week ago.

Basketball Leaders Face Important Games Tonight; Records Threatened

Columbia-Cornell Top Game in East

By JOE FALLS

New York, Feb. 10 (AP)—Nine of the top 10 basketball teams in the land see action tonight—all against stiff opposition. So don't be surprised if the upsets roll in by the bundle.

Only Kentucky, the national leader, is out of immediate danger. The Wildcats ripped Georgia Tech, 75-42, last night to hang up their 19th victory in 20 starts. It was their 13th straight victory.

But the rest of the top 10, from Oklahoma A & M down to North Carolina State, may have their tournament hopes jostled a bit.

Oklahoma A & M, No. 2 in this week's Associated Press poll, entertains Drake. The last time these two teams met the game went into three overtime periods before the Aggies won, 72-70. The Aggies (20-1) must win if they want to stay on Kentucky's trail.

If the Oklahomans stumble, though, Indiana is ready to move right up. That is, if the Hoosiers, No. 3 nationally, get by at Minnesota, which sometimes can be quite a job. The Gophers have been alternately hot and cold, and after four straight losses, they should be about ready to sizzle again. Indiana's gaudy 13-1 mark and Big 10 lead is at stake.

Fourth-ranked Kansas State (16-2) also figures to have its hands full with Missouri, another team which doesn't always follow to the form charts. This is a Big Seven tilt, and, usually, that means anything goes.

The top game of the night takes place in St. Louis, where the eighth-ranked St. Louis Billikens play Bradley, No. 5, in a game that may eliminate the loser from the Missouri Valley race. Bradley (21-3) outlasted St. Louis (17-4), 64-59, in the Sugar Bowl final Dec. 30. But this one is in St. Louis, and not in neutral New Orleans.

Sixth ranked Columbia (12-0), the only major undefeated team in the country, will place its record on the line against Cornell in an Ivy League match at Ithaca. The home-court advantage, like in the Bradley-St. Louis tilt, could turn the tide for Cornell.

St. John's, No. 7, riding the crest of a 10-game winning streak, invades Buffalo Auditorium for a tiff with Canisius. Canisius is up for this one, and a victory over the Redmen would help its chances for a post-season bid.

Ninth-ranked Villanova, with a smart 18-1 record, plays tough Toledo in half of Palestra twin bill at Philadelphia. Harvard faces Penn in the other game.

NFA Cagers Trip St. Pat's, 51-41

Newburgh Free Academy humbled St. Patrick's Academy, 51 to 41 last night in the "Battle of the Century" in the Hill City. The Goldbacks beat the Irishmen but failed to stop their ace center, Big Eddie O'Connor, who poured in 31 points.

JVs Lose To Beacon

Negro Forward Scores 33 Points

Unable to check a one-man gang, Buck Watkins, Negro forward who whipped in 33 points for a Jayvee scoring record in the DUSO League this season, the K.H.S. dropped a 45-43 thriller to the Beacon yearlings, last night on the Dutchess court.

Watkins was the difference between the clubs in a hard fought see-saw contest in which Kingston held two-point leads at the end of the first and third periods. The clubs were tied 23-23 at halftime.

Watkins picked up nine of his 33 markers from the foul line where the game was actually decided The Maroons outscored Beacon from the field, 16-15.

Don Dempsey and DuBois shared scoring honors for Kingston with 12 points each. Hermie Sickler tossed in eight. Haber played an outstanding floor game for the locals.

Katrine Gun Club To Meet Tuesday

The regular monthly meeting of the Lake Katrine Rod and Gun Club will be held Tuesday at 8 p. m. at the Rainbow Inn, Albany avenue extension.

Emerson Mayes, president, requests a full attendance of members as committees for the year will be appointed. Other important business matters will be discussed.

Following the business meeting, a sport film on the "Realm of the Wild" in color and sound will be shown.

Members are requested to bring other sportsmen to the meeting whether members or not.

According to the building committee, the work of sealing in the kitchen of the club house and installing of cabinets is progressing and the knotty pine interior is adding greatly to the beauty of the building. The work is under the direction of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the club.

Club dues are now payable and members are requested to pay same at Tuesday's meeting.

Ferraro Mixers Idle Two Weeks

Due to the firings in both the men's and women's local bowling tournaments scheduled for the next two week-ends, the Bowlodrome Mixed League will be idle for the next two weeks.

Rose Schatzel said today that there will be no bowling Sunday night, February 11 and 18. Regular league action will resume Sunday night, February 25 at the Cornell street alleys.

The haves and have nots of the DUSO League clashed headon in the Beacon High school gym last night. And, as usual, the haves won.

Kingston High's decisive 63 to 50 victory over the Beacon cagers did not reflect the wierd pattern of the contest but it proved once again that Beacon High may yet wind up the 1950-51 campaign without scoring a DUSO victory.

Last night's reversal was their 11the straight in conference play.

Coach G. Warren Kias' cagers had it last night when they needed it. They blew an early first period lead to trail 15-11 then stormed back to lead 27-22 at halftime. Beacon earned a 19-18 shade in the third period and was ahead for the last time at the 41-40 mark. The Kiasmen reeled off five straight points and were never in danger thereafter.

George Carpouzis had one of his better nights with 22 points on ten fields and a pair of conversions. Leroy Hooker scored 12 before he was banished on five personal fouls. Moll Leonard continues his excellent play with 19.

Tom Skipwith, Negro center, led the home cagers with 21 points and Thorn had 14.

Other Results

In other DUSO contests, Ellenville squeaked past Fallsburg, 58-57, to stay in a third-place tie with Kingston, while Middletown thumped Port Jervis, 53-43, the 11th Port loss in 12 league games.

Poughkeepsie and Liberty were cancelled for the second time this season, because of bad travelling conditions.

Other top scorers included Frank Roe, 229-585; Buster Ferraro 201-201-577; John Schatzel 211-576; Don Weeks 208-204-575; Herb Sleight 203-573.

Sandwiching 176 with 212 and 205, Jack Houghtaling led Everybody's League with 594 at the Central planks. Tom Miller shot 202-586; Joe Sangi 234-579; F. Amato 209-209-576; John Sangi 213-200-567; Stan Colvin 207-538; Fred Schryver 207-537; Tom Welch 533 and Ken Woodman 531.

Burt Burr, Sr. smoke-balled his way a "600" flat in the Electrol League at the Bowlatorium, with counts of 200-173-227. H. Smith posted 200-202-554; J. Spadafore 213-537; F. Sember 535; Tony La Rocca 533; A. Roosa 527; D. Vanderlyn 524 and J. Burns 520.

Sam Hayes led a low scoring session of the Y Mercantile National League this week with a 545 triple on strikes of 182-171-192.

The only other 500 was turned in by R. Blass who fired 202 and and pair of 154 games for a 510 triple.

J. Carle shot 495; E. Schussler 475; Bill Hornbeck 479 and Fred Short 470.

'Mean' Landlord Gets Jail

New York, Feb. 10 (AP)—A landlady whom a judge once called one of the meanest in town" must spend 90 days in jail because she did not repair a dilapidated tenement house. The woman, Dorothy Bloom, 43, was denied a stay yesterday by Magistrate Philip B. Thurston. The sentence was imposed a year ago, suspended, and then reinvoked when the repairs were not made. With her sister, Pearl, 41, Miss Bloom also was convicted of rent gouging a year ago. They paid fines totaling $7,500, and each served a five month sentence. At that time, Special sessions Justice Nathan D. Perlman called them the "meanest landlords in town."

Plan Rival N.I.T. in Chicago Stadium

Chicago, Feb. 10 (AP)—Plans for a National Invitational basketball tourney at the Chicago Stadium in direct competition with the established National Invitation meet at New York's Madison Square Garden were disclosed today by Arthur Morse, Chicago Stadium cage impressario.

Morse said he was sounding out such teams as Kentucky, Oklahoma A. & M., North Carolina State, Bradley, Arizona, Beloit and two other ranking quintets to round out an eight-team field.

The meet would be held four days, between March 10 and 17, paralleling New York's invitational meet which has a 12-team field.

Usually teams which win National Collegiate Athletic Association tourney berths also play in the N.I.T. at New York. City College of New York won both meets last year and Bradley was runner-up in both.

The N.C.A.A. tourney this season will be held from March 21 to March 27.

Can't Figure . . .

of last June, or even some earlier date.

But the board has had trouble agreeing that 10 per cent fits the general pattern of increases since the Korean war broke out. Industry members have said the pattern was much lower; labor members have suggested that a 10 per cent rise wouldn't be enough.

Want Representation

3. In a second letter also dated Feb. 9, the day after Flemming's appointment, the same four union executives urged Wilson to appoint "a leading figure from our trade union organizations" to be named by them as a member of "your top policy staff." It said such an appointment was "long overdue." The letter did not name the proposed labor representative.

4. On the price front, the Bureau of Labor Statistics reported yesterday that the week's rise in wholesale prices was 0.7 per cent. This took the wholesale price index to 182.2 compared with 180.9 on Jan. 30.

The index was 5.5 per cent above Dec. 5 and 16 per cent above the pre-Korean conflict level.

Principal increases in the Feb. 6 week—the 13th consecutive one to see all records shattered—were in farm products and foods, many of which were not included in last month's price freeze. These went up 1.6 and 1.9 per cent respectively. Meat rose 3.2 per cent and livestock 2.7 per cent.

Layne Outpoints Brion At Garden

New York, Feb. 10 (AP)—Next for Rex Layne, the bullboy from Lewiston, Utah, could be Roland Lastarza, Rocky Marciano, Pat Valentino, or maybe Gorgeous George?

Marv Jenson, Layne's manager, held out for Lastarza, Marciano or Valentino after last night's split decision victory over Argentina's Cesar Brion.

Many of the 5,768 customers and TV watchers called for Gorgeous George after the boxing-wrestling exhibition at Madison Square Garden.

Seriously, though, 22-year-old Rex from Utah's sugar beet land, failed to live up to the gaudy promise of his Nov. 24 upset over Joe Walcott.

Layne won, no doubt about it in this corner, although Referee Jack Watson, a little man who had to tug and shove the big brutes all night, cast his ballot for Brion 5-4-1. Brion and his manager thought Jack was right. Judge Frank Forbes liked Layne 7-3 and Judge Harold Barnes made it 7-2-1 for Layne. The AP card agreed with Forbes.

Felt Sluggish

In his dressing room, Layne was quick to admit his disappointment over his showing.

"I felt sluggish," he said. "No alibis. I thought I won all right. But with two styles like that nobody could look good."

That was what the folks who paid $19,040 thought too. They hooted after the decision and booed at the end of four rounds. Actually it wasn't Layne they booed but the close range mauling anad wrestling of both boys that led to an unhappy evening for all.

Layne, a 9 to 5 favorite, got off strong, overpowering Brion with a wild whistling right to the body. Cesar got in a few good shots but persistent Rex did it better and more often.

Dad Vail Regatta Lost to Po'keepsie

New York, Feb. 10 (AP)—Poughkeepsie, the regatta city, may become a ghost town as far as future crew races are concerned.

It lost the "Poughkeepsie" regatta, biggest race of them all to Marietta, O., last year and now is on the verge of surrendering the Dad Vail event. At a meeting of the board of stewards of the Dad Vail Association last night, tentative sites for the coming regatta were discussed.

Prime reason for the contemplated switch was the reported failure by the Poughkeepsie Recreation Committee to raise the $3,500 to house the crews and pay for their expenses.

"This is a severe blow to our Association," said Brett Leverich, honorary chairman of the Dad Vail Association. "Just when we reach our peak, we have to take an elevator plunge. I always thought we had a home in Poughkeepsie."

Members of the Poughkeepsie Recreation Committee who were invited to attend the meeting failed to make an appearance. "No purpose would be served in attending the meeting. We have nothing to offer the crews," said Fred Stitzel, president of the P.R.C.

Charles F. Jennings, vice-chairman of the Dad Vail Association expressed hope of coming to some agreement. "We are satisfied completely with the housing, boating and water at Poughkeepsie. Our 1950 regatta held there was a complete success."

Best Troops Dying

Chicago, Feb. 10 (AP)—Gen. J. Lawton Collins, army chief of staff, says he cannot predict the outcome of the Korean war. But, he told a news conference yesterday, the war is "accomplishing a lot toward destruction of the best Communist troops," and the result is an asset to the western world.

Basketball Leaders Face Important Games Tonight; Records Threatened

Columbia-Cornell Top Game in East

By JOE FALLS

New York, Feb. 10 (AP)—Nine of the top 10 basketball teams in the land see action tonight—all against stiff opposition. So don't be surprised if the upsets roll in by the bundle.

Only Kentucky, the national leader, is out of immediate danger. The Wildcats ripped Georgia Tech, 75-42, last night to hang up their 19th victory in 20 starts. It was their 13th straight victory.

But the rest of the top 10, from Oklahoma A & M down to North Carolina State, may have their tournament hopes jostled a bit.

Oklahoma A & M, No. 2 in this week's Associated Press poll, entertains Drake. The last time these two teams met the game went into three overtime periods before the Aggies won, 72-70. The Aggies (20-1) must win if they want to stay on Kentucky's trail.

If the Oklahomans stumble, though, Indiana is ready to move right up. That is, if the Hoosiers, No. 3 nationally, get by at Minnesota, which sometimes can be quite a job. The Gophers have been alternately hot and cold, and after four straight losses, they should be about ready to sizzle again. Indiana's gaudy 13-1 mark and Big 10 lead is at stake.

Fourth-ranked Kansas State (16-2) also figures to have its hands full with Missouri, another team which doesn't always follow to the form charts. This is a Big Seven tilt, and, usually, that means anything goes.

The top game of the night takes place in St. Louis, where the eighth-ranked St. Louis Billikens play Bradley, No. 5, in a game that may eliminate the loser from the Missouri Valley race. Bradley (21-3) outlasted St. Louis (17-4), 64-59, in the Sugar Bowl final Dec. 30. But this one is in St. Louis, and not in neutral New Orleans.

Sixth ranked Columbia (12-0), the only major undefeated team in the country, will place its record on the line against Cornell in an Ivy League match at Ithaca. The home-court advantage, like in the Bradley-St. Louis tilt, could turn the tide for Cornell.

St. John's, No. 7, riding the crest of a 10-game winning streak, invades Buffalo Auditorium for a tiff with Canisius. Canisius is up for this one, and a victory over the Redmen would help its chances for a post-season bid.

Ninth-ranked Villanova, with a smart 18-1 record, plays tough Toledo in half of Palestra twin bill at Philadelphia. Harvard faces Penn in the other game.

Westrum Will Coach Valley Cage Stars

Fred Davi today announced the appointment of Wes Westrum, New York Giant catcher, as coach of the Hudson Valley All Star basketball squad which meets the Yankee Five on Thursday, Feb. 15, at the municipal auditorium.

Two established maojr league stars, Allie Clark of the Cleveland Indians, and Dick Kryhoski of the Detroit Tigers, have been added to the Yankee roster, Davi said.

The first string five of the Yankees features two topnotch Negro stars of the New York Giants—Monte Irvin and Hank Thompson, Emil Tunnel, of the New York football Giants; and Babe Sharkey of the football Yankees.

City Baseball League Clarifies Rule On Admission of New Franchises

Doug Ford Leads Texas Open Golf

San Antonio, Tex., Feb. 10 (AP)—Doug Ford of Briarcliff, N. Y., a moderate money-winner on the winter golf trail, led the $10,000 Texas Open into its third round today.

The handsome young pro, with 133 for 36 holes, held a one-stroke margin as the field, cut to 96 yesterday in the most tumultuous round of Texas Open history, moved into the elimination that will lop some 30 more from the list for tomorrow's last 18.

Doughty Doug, winner of $1,288.34 this year but never a first-money grabber to date, vaulted to the top with a five-under-par 66 over 6,400-yard, tree-lined, dusty Brackenridge Park Course. His was just one of 78 par-breaking performances—the most for one day in the annals of the ancient Texas Open.

The greatest par-cracking came at Brackenridge where the top men of the tour played but there were some at the Fort Sam Houston Country Club course, which stretches 6,426 yards and has 71 regulation figures.

Meyer Signs

Philadelphia, Feb. 10 (AP)—Russ Meyer, firebrand pitcher of the Philadelphia Phillies, sent in his signed contract yesterday. The "screwball" artist, who has had trouble controlling his temper, hurled brilliantly for the Phils in 1949, winning 17 games and losing eight. But in spring training last year he suffered an elbow injury, and was unable in the regular season to hit his old stride. He wound up with a record of nine victories and 11 defeats.

Four thousand termites have been counted in a single cubic foot of wood.

Secretary Explains Official Procedure

In an effort to clarify City Baseball League rules on the subject of addition of new teams, Secretary Ed Murphy has dispatched the following letter to the Freeman sports department:

"I have been requested by James Turck, president of the Kingston City Baseball League, to please try to clarify the procedure by which an individual or a group desiring to obtain a franchise in the league, may follow in order to obtain said franchise.

"The first rule or by-law of our league reads thus: 'The Kingston City Baseball League shall be composed of (8) eight teams, all fully agreeing on and upholding the rules and regulations of the league as herein set forth:

1. During the off season, from September until May, one may approach any franchise holder and offer to purchase his franchise for the right to participate in the league as a team to represent you or your establishment.

2. In the event you are unable to purchase a franchise from these men, you may also ask each franchise at this time, if they are willing at their meetings in the spring of 1951 to change this by-law or amend it, so they may extend the number of teams from (8) eight up to (10) ten teams, if another team (excluding your own) would also be willing to join the league.

"The reason I cite this is, because each previous year the managers have balked at following one more team to enter, as they do not care to have a nine-team league.

"If I may help you in any way by furnishing the names and addresses of these (the present) franchise in the league, I would be more to do so upon receipt of a card or letter at my home address.

"If you are successful in either way I have stated above, you can be assured you are more than welcome to become a member of the Kingston City Baseball League."

Signed
EDDIE MURPHY,
Secretary

Ferrick, Reynolds Ink Yank Contracts

New York, Feb. 10 (AP)—The New York Yankees said today that relief pitcher Tom Ferrick, pitcher Allie Reynolds and outfielder Cliff Mapes have sent in their signed contracts.

Reynolds ranked eighth in earned run averages with 3.73 per game last season. He won 16 and lost 12.

Ferrick appeared in 30 games for the world champions last year after being obtained from the St. Louis Browns in mid-season, winning 8 and losing 4. Mapes hit only .247 in 108 games, but drove across 61 runs.

Yankees still not signed include catcher Yogi Berra and pitchers Vic Raschi, Ed Lopat and Joe Page.

Allen vs. Bee

New York, Feb. 10 (AP)—Dr. Forrest C. (Phog) Allen of Kansas and Claire Bee of Long Island U., will be the opposing coaches in the sixth annual fresh air fund East-West All-Star college basketball game in Madison Square Garden, March 31. Allen's acceptance was announced today. Bee agreed to pilot the easterners a week ago.

JVs Lose To Beacon

Negro Forward Scores 33 Points

Unable to check a one-man gang, Buck Watkins, Negro forward who whipped in 33 points for a Jayvee scoring record in the DUSO League this season, the K.H.S. dropped a 45-43 thriller to the Beacon yearlings, last night on the Dutchess court.

Watkins was the difference between the clubs in a hard fought see-saw contest in which Kingston held two-point leads at the end of the first and third periods. The clubs were tied 23-23 at halftime.

Watkins picked up nine of his 33 markers from the foul line where the game was actually decided The Maroons outscored Beacon from the field, 16-15.

Don Dempsey and DuBois shared scoring honors for Kingston with 12 points each. Hermie Sickler tossed in eight. Haber played an outstanding floor game for the locals.

Katrine Gun Club To Meet Tuesday

The regular monthly meeting of the Lake Katrine Rod and Gun Club will be held Tuesday at 8 p. m. at the Rainbow Inn, Albany avenue extension.

Emerson Mayes, president, requests a full attendance of members as committees for the year will be appointed. Other important business matters will be discussed.

Following the business meeting, a sport film on the "Realm of the Wild" in color and sound will be shown.

Members are requested to bring other sportsmen to the meeting whether members or not.

According to the building committee, the work of sealing in the kitchen of the club house and installing of cabinets is progressing and the knotty pine interior is adding greatly to the beauty of the building. The work is under the direction of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the club.

Club dues are now payable and members are requested to pay same at Tuesday's meeting.

Ferraro Mixers Idle Two Weeks

Due to the firings in both the men's and women's local bowling tournaments scheduled for the next two week-ends, the Bowlodrome Mixed League will be idle for the next two weeks.

Rose Schatzel said today that there will be no bowling Sunday night, February 11 and 18. Regular league action will resume Sunday night, February 25 at the Cornell street alleys.

The haves and have nots of the DUSO League clashed headon in the Beacon High school gym last night. And, as usual, the haves won.

Kingston High's decisive 63 to 50 victory over the Beacon cagers did not reflect the wierd pattern of the contest but it proved once again that Beacon High may yet wind up the 1950-51 campaign without scoring a DUSO victory.

Last night's reversal was their 11the straight in conference play.

Coach G. Warren Kias' cagers had it last night when they needed it. They blew an early first period lead to trail 15-11 then stormed back to lead 27-22 at halftime. Beacon earned a 19-18 shade in the third period and was ahead for the last time at the 41-40 mark. The Kiasmen reeled off five straight points and were never in danger thereafter.

George Carpouzis had one of his better nights with 22 points on ten fields and a pair of conversions. Leroy Hooker scored 12 before he was banished on five personal fouls. Moll Leonard continues his excellent play with 19.

Tom Skipwith, Negro center, led the home cagers with 21 points and Thorn had 14.

Other Results

In other DUSO contests, Ellenville squeaked past Fallsburg, 58-57, to stay in a third-place tie with Kingston, while Middletown thumped Port Jervis, 53-43, the 11th Port loss in 12 league games.

Poughkeepsie and Liberty were cancelled for the second time this season, because of bad travelling conditions.

'Mean' Landlord Gets Jail

New York, Feb. 10 (AP)—A landlady whom a judge once called one of the meanest in town" must spend 90 days in jail because she did not repair a dilapidated tenement house. The woman, Dorothy Bloom, 43, was denied a stay yesterday by Magistrate Philip B. Thurston. The sentence was imposed a year ago, suspended, and then reinvoked when the repairs were not made. With her sister, Pearl, 41, Miss Bloom also was convicted of rent gouging a year ago. They paid fines totaling $7,500, and each served a five month sentence. At that time, Special sessions Justice Nathan D. Perlman called them the "meanest landlords in town."

Plan Rival N.I.T. In Chicago Stadium

Chicago, Feb. 10 (AP)—Plans for a National Invitational basketball tourney at the Chicago Stadium in direct competition with the established National Invitation meet at New York's Madison Square Garden were disclosed today by Arthur Morse, Chicago Stadium cage impressario.

Morse said he was sounding out such teams as Kentucky, Oklahoma A. & M., North Carolina State, Bradley, Arizona, Beloit and two other ranking quintets to round out an eight-team field.

The meet would be held four days, between March 10 and 17, paralleling New York's invitational meet which has a 12-team field.

Usually teams which win National Collegiate Athletic Association tourney berths also play in the N.I.T. at New York. City College of New York won both meets last year and Bradley was runner-up in both.

The N.C.A.A. tourney this season will be held from March 21 to March 27.

Can't Figure . . .

of last June, or even some earlier date.

But the board has had trouble agreeing that 10 per cent fits the general pattern of increases since the Korean war broke out. Industry members have said the pattern was much lower; labor members have suggested that a 10 per cent rise wouldn't be enough.

Want Representation

3. In a second letter also dated Feb. 9, the day after Flemming's appointment, the same four union executives urged Wilson to appoint "a leading figure from our trade union organizations" to be named by them as a member of "your top policy staff." It said such an appointment was "long overdue." The letter did not name the proposed labor representative.

4. On the price front, the Bureau of Labor Statistics reported yesterday that the week's rise in wholesale prices was 0.7 per cent. This took the wholesale price index to 182.2 compared with 180.9 on Jan. 30.

The index was 5.5 per cent above Dec. 5 and 16 per cent above the pre-Korean conflict level.

Principal increases in the Feb. 6 week—the 13th consecutive one to see all records shattered — were in farm products and foods, many of which were not included in last month's price freeze. These went up 1.6 and 1.9 per cent respectively. Meat rose 3.2 per cent and livestock 2.7 per cent.

Layne Outpoints Brion At Garden

New York, Feb. 10 (AP)—Next for Rex Layne, the bullboy from Lewiston, Utah, could be Roland Lastarza, Rocky Marciano, Pat Valentino, or maybe Gorgeous George?

Marv Jenson, Layne's manager, held out for Lastarza, Marciano or Valentino after last night's split decision victory over Argentina's Cesar Brion.

Many of the 5,768 customers and TV watchers called for Gorgeous George after the boxing-wrestling exhibition at Madison Square Garden.

Seriously, though, 22-year-old Rex from Utah's sugar beet land, failed to live up to the gaudy promise of his Nov. 24 upset over Joe Walcott.

Layne won, no doubt about it in this corner, although Referee Jack Watson, a little man who had to tug and shove the big brutes all night, cast his ballot for Brion 5-4-1. Brion and his manager thought Jack was right. Judge Frank Forbes liked Layne 7-3 and Judge Harold Barnes made it 7-2-1 for Layne. The AP card agreed with Forbes.

Felt Sluggish

In his dressing room, Layne was quick to admit his disappointment over his showing.

"I felt sluggish," he said. "No alibis. I thought I won all right. But with two styles like that nobody could look good."

That was what the folks who paid $19,040 thought too. They hooted after the decision and booed at the end of four rounds. Actually it wasn't Layne they booed but the close range mauling anad wrestling of both boys that led to an unhappy evening for all.

Layne, a 9 to 5 favorite, got off strong, overpowering Brion with a wild whistling right to the body. Cesar got in a few good shots but persistent Rex did it better and more often.

Dad Vail Regatta Lost to Po'keepsie

New York, Feb. 10 (AP)—Poughkeepsie, the regatta city, may become a ghost town as far as future crew races are concerned.

It lost the "Poughkeepsie" regatta, biggest race of them all to Marietta, O., last year and now is on the verge of surrendering the Dad Vail event. At a meeting of the board of stewards of the Dad Vail Association last night, tentative sites for the coming regatta were discussed.

Prime reason for the contemplated switch was the reported failure by the Poughkeepsie Recreation Committee to raise the $3,500 to house the crews and pay for their expenses.

"This is a severe blow to our Association," said Brett Leverich, honorary chairman of the Dad Vail Association. "Just when we reach our peak, we have to take an elevator plunge. I always thought we had a home in Poughkeepsie."

Members of the Poughkeepsie Recreation Committee who were invited to attend the meeting failed to make an appearance. "No purpose would be served in attending the meeting. We have nothing to offer the crews," said Fred Stitzel, president of the P.R.C.

Charles F. Jennings, vice-chairman of the Dad Vail Association expressed hope of coming to some agreement. "We are satisfied completely with the housing, boating and water at Poughkeepsie. Our 1950 regatta held there was a complete success."

Best Troops Dying

Chicago, Feb. 10 (AP)—Gen. J. Lawton Collins, army chief of staff, says he cannot predict the outcome of the Korean war. But, he told a news conference yesterday, the war is "accomplishing a lot toward destruction of the best Communist troops," and the result is an asset to the western world.

Westrum Will Coach Valley Cage Stars

Fred Davi today announced the appointment of Wes Westrum, New York Giant catcher, as coach of the Hudson Valley All Star basketball squad which meets the Yankee Five on Thursday, Feb. 15, at the municipal auditorium.

Two established maojr league stars, Allie Clark of the Cleveland Indians, and Dick Kryhoski of the Detroit Tigers, have been added to the Yankee roster, Davi said.

The first string five of the Yankees features two topnotch Negro stars of the New York Giants—Monte Irvin and Hank Thompson, Emil Tunnel, of the New York football Giants; and Babe Sharkey of the football Yankees.

City Baseball League Clarifies Rule On Admission of New Franchises

Doug Ford Leads Texas Open Golf

San Antonio, Tex., Feb. 10 (AP)—Doug Ford of Briarcliff, N. Y., a moderate money-winner on the winter golf trail, led the $10,000 Texas Open into its third round today.

The handsome young pro, with 133 for 36 holes, held a one-stroke margin as the field, cut to 96 yesterday in the most tumultuous round of Texas Open history, moved into the elimination that will lop some 30 more from the list for tomorrow's last 18.

Doughty Doug, winner of $1,288.34 this year but never a first-money grabber to date, vaulted to the top with a five-under-par 66 over 6,400-yard, tree-lined, dusty Brackenridge Park Course. His was just one of 78 par-breaking performances—the most for one day in the annals of the ancient Texas Open.

The greatest par-cracking came at Brackenridge where the top men of the tour played but there were some at the Fort Sam Houston Country Club course, which stretches 6,426 yards and has 71 regulation figures.

Meyer Signs

Philadelphia, Feb. 10 (AP)—Russ Meyer, firebrand pitcher of the Philadelphia Phillies, sent in his signed contract yesterday. The "screwball" artist, who has had trouble controlling his temper, hurled brilliantly for the Phils in 1949, winning 17 games and losing eight. But in spring training last year he suffered an elbow injury, and was unable in the regular season to hit his old stride. He wound up with a record of nine victories and 11 defeats.

Four thousand termites have been counted in a single cubic foot of wood.

Secretary Explains Official Procedure

In an effort to clarify City Baseball League rules on the subject of addition of new teams, Secretary Ed Murphy has dispatched the following letter to the Freeman sports department:

"I have been requested by James Turck, president of the Kingston City Baseball League, to please try to clarify the procedure by which an individual or a group desiring to obtain a franchise in the league, may follow in order to obtain said franchise.

"The first rule or by-law of our league reads thus: 'The Kingston City Baseball League shall be composed of (8) eight teams, all fully agreeing on and upholding the rules and regulations of the league as herein set forth:

1. During the off season, from September until May, one may approach any franchise holder and offer to purchase his franchise for the right to participate in the league as a team to represent you or your establishment.

2. In the event you are unable to purchase a franchise from these men, you may also ask each franchise at this time, if they are willing at their meetings in the spring of 1951 to change this by-law or amend it, so they may extend the number of teams from (8) eight up to (10) ten teams, if another team (excluding your own) would also be willing to join the league.

"The reason I cite this is, because each previous year the managers have balked at following one more team to enter, as they do not care to have a nine-team league.

"If I may help you in any way by furnishing the names and addresses of these (the present) franchise in the league, I would be more to do so upon receipt of a card or letter at my home address.

"If you are successful in either way I have stated above, you can be assured you are more than welcome to become a member of the Kingston City Baseball League."

EDDIE MURPHY,
Secretary

Basketball Leaders Face Important Games Tonight; Records Threatened

Columbia-Cornell Top Game in East

By JOE FALLS

New York, Feb. 10 (AP)—Nine of the top 10 basketball teams in the land see action tonight—all against stiff opposition. So don't be surprised if the upsets roll in by the bundle.

Only Kentucky, the national leader, is out of immediate danger. The Wildcats ripped Georgia Tech, 75-42, last night to hang up their 19th victory in 20 starts. It was their 13th straight victory.

But the rest of the top 10, from Oklahoma A & M down to North Carolina State, may have their tournament hopes jostled a bit.

Oklahoma A & M, No. 2 in this week's Associated Press poll, entertains Drake. The last time these two teams met the game went into three overtime periods before the Aggies won, 72-70. The Aggies (20-1) must win if they want to stay on Kentucky's trail.

If the Oklahomans stumble, though, Indiana is ready to move right up. That is, if the Hoosiers, No. 3 nationally, get by at Minnesota, which sometimes can be quite a job. The Gophers have been alternately hot and cold, and after four straight losses, they should be about ready to sizzle again. Indiana's gaudy 13-1 mark and Big 10 lead is at stake.

Fourth-ranked Kansas State (16-2) also figures to have its hands full with Missouri, another team which doesn't always follow to the form charts. This is a Big Seven tilt, and, usually, that means anything goes.

The top game of the night takes place in St. Louis, where the eighth-ranked St. Louis Billikens play Bradley, No. 5, in a game that may eliminate the loser from the Missouri Valley race. Bradley (21-3) outlasted St. Louis (17-4), 64-59, in the Sugar Bowl final Dec. 30. But this one is in St. Louis, and not in neutral New Orleans.

Sixth ranked Columbia (12-0), the only major undefeated team in the country, will place its record on the line against Cornell in an Ivy League match at Ithaca. The home-court advantage, like in the Bradley-St. Louis tilt, could turn the tide for Cornell.

St. John's, No. 7, riding the crest of a 10-game winning streak, invades Buffalo Auditorium for a tiff with Canisius. Canisius is up for this one, and a victory over the Redmen would help its chances for a post-season bid.

Ninth-ranked Villanova, with a smart 18-1 record, plays tough Toledo in half of Palestra twin bill at Philadelphia. Harvard faces Penn in the other game.

Ferrick, Reynolds Ink Yank Contracts

New York, Feb. 10 (AP)—The New York Yankees said today that relief pitcher Tom Ferrick, pitcher Allie Reynolds and outfielder Cliff Mapes have sent in their signed contracts.

Reynolds ranked eighth in earned run averages with 3.73 per game last season. He won 16 and lost 12.

Ferrick appeared in 30 games for the world champions last year after being obtained from the St. Louis Browns in mid-season, winning 8 and losing 4. Mapes hit only .247 in 108 games, but drove across 61 runs.

Yankees still not signed include catcher Yogi Berra and pitchers Vic Raschi, Ed Lopat and Joe Page.

Allen vs. Bee

New York, Feb. 10 (AP)—Dr. Forrest C. (Phog) Allen of Kansas and Claire Bee of Long Island U., will be the opposing coaches in the sixth annual fresh air fund East-West All-Star college basketball game in Madison Square Garden, March 31. Allen's acceptance was announced today. Bee agreed to pilot the easterners a week ago.

NFA Cagers Trip St. Pat's, 51-41

Newburgh Free Academy humbled St. Patrick's Academy, 51 to 41 last night in the "Battle of the Century" in the Hill City. The Goldbacks beat the Irishmen but failed to stop their ace center, Big Eddie O'Connor, who poured in 31 points.

JVs Lose To Beacon

Negro Forward Scores 33 Points

Unable to check a one-man gang, Buck Watkins, Negro forward who whipped in 33 points for a Jayvee scoring record in the DUSO League this season, the K.H.S. dropped a 45-43 thriller to the Beacon yearlings, last night on the Dutchess court.

Watkins was the difference between the clubs in a hard fought see-saw contest in which Kingston held two-point leads at the end of the first and third periods. The clubs were tied 23-23 at halftime.

Watkins picked up nine of his 33 markers from the foul line where the game was actually decided The Maroons outscored Beacon from the field, 16-15.

Don Dempsey and DuBois shared scoring honors for Kingston with 12 points each. Hermie Sickler tossed in eight. Haber played an outstanding floor game for the locals.

Katrine Gun Club To Meet Tuesday

The regular monthly meeting of the Lake Katrine Rod and Gun Club will be held Tuesday at 8 p. m. at the Rainbow Inn, Albany avenue extension.

Emmerson Mayes, president, requests a full attendance of members as committees for the year will be appointed. Other important business matters will be discussed.

Following the business meeting, a sport film on the "Realm of the Wild" in color and sound will be shown.

Members are requested to bring other sportsmen to the meeting whether members or not.

According to the building committee, the work of sealing in the kitchen of the club house and installing of cabinets is progressing and the knotty pine interior is adding greatly to the beauty of the building. The work is under the direction of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the club.

Club dues are now payable and members are requested to pay same at Tuesday's meeting.

Ferraro Mixers Idle Two Weeks

Due to the firings in both the men's and women's local bowling tournaments scheduled for the next two week-ends, the Bowlodrome Mixed League will be idle for the next two weeks.

Ross Schatzel said today that there will be no bowling Sunday night, February 11 and 18. Regular league action will resume Sunday night, February 25 at the Cornell street alleys.

The haves and have nots of the DUSO League clashed headon in the Beacon High school gym last night. And, as usual, the haves won.

Kingston High's decisive 63 to 50 victory over the Beacon cagers did not reflect the wierd pattern of the contest but it proved once again that Beacon High may yet wind up the 1950-51 campaign without scoring a DUSO victory.

Last night's reversal was their 11the straight in conference play.

Coach G. Warren Kias' cagers had it last night when they needed it. They blew an early first period lead to trail 15-11 then stormed back to lead 27-22 at halftime. Beacon earned a 19-18 shade in the third period and was ahead for the last time at the 41-40 mark. The Kiasmen reeled off five straight points and were never in danger thereafter.

George Carpouzis had one of his better nights with 22 points on ten fields and a pair of conversions. Leroy Hooker scored 12 before he was banished on five personal fouls. Moll Leonard continues his excellent play with 19.

Tom Skipwith, Negro center, led the home cagers with 21 points and Thorn had 14.

Other Results

In other DUSO contests, Ellenville squeaked past Fallsburg, 58-57, to stay in a third-place tie with Kingston, while Middletown thumped Port Jervis, 53-43, the 11th Port loss in 12 league games.

Poughkeepsie and Liberty were cancelled for the second time this season, because of bad travelling conditions.

Favors New Bond Issue

P. O. Box 45
Chichester, New York
February 6, 1950

Editor, The Freeman:

As a taxpayer, parent and resident of the Onteora School District, I read with keen interest, the numerous statements and letters currently found in The Freeman pertaining to the new $300,000 bond issue upon which we are to vote February 13.

It occurs to me that as voters, we should endeavor to view this matter dispassionately, without malice, flaring tempers or soaring blood pressures, and to learn first hand the real facts and figures relative to the request for the additional money. There are meetings throughout the district this week which voters are urged to attend and where one may learn the answers to questions, where information will be available to all who will seek it. Should we not avail ourselves of such an opportunity and attend the meetings?

To review a few accomplished facts: We voted to centralize; we voted overwhelmingly for the $1,850,000 bond issue. I understood then as I do now that the figure was the tentative cost. The dire turn of world events caused sharp price rises while the architect was drawing up the final plans for school, thereby making the request for additional funds necessary.

We are now confronted with the fact that in order to build our school as planned, we need an additinal $300,000, 16 per cent plus of $1,850,000 to be paid by us over a period of 30 years. The increase in taxes for an average home such as mine would be approximately a dollar. If it were more, I would still favor building the school without deletions, all of which are necessary details. If each one of us sacrificed two or three evenings at a movie, a night or two of bowling, or some similar form of recreation, the money saved would more than meet the tax increase.

In the heat of the argument we seem to have lost sight of the number one reason for centralizing our district and building our school—the 900 or more children who are to be educated there. Whether they are our own or our neighbors, are they not entitled to the very best that we can give them in the form of education? Where can we find a better investment than in the welfare and education of the youth of our nation? They are the future citizens of our state and country. As men and women they must be prepared to take their place in this great land of ours, at a time when the world is sorely troubled and the need for well educated citizens grows increasingly urgent. Their education is our responsibility. I believe a modern, efficient, well equipped school is as important as a first class staff of teachers.

Let us all give earnest consideration to all of the facts pertaining to the new bond issue, go to the polls, and vote yes, February 13.

Sincerely yours,
NATHALIE B. ADAMS
(Mrs. William W. Adams)

Onteora Central School

Editor, The Freeman:

I am writing this open letter as an individual and have not been asked to do so by any group of people or party for or against the issue, "The $300,000 additional cost to the Onteora Central School." I am writing after hearing both sides of the discussion at the Olive Bridge open meeting, Feb. 7.

February 13 in Phoenicia all residents of the Onteora School District will vote whether or not an additional $300,000 will be charged to them for certain items of the school building not in the contract made. When you vote there are a few things I wish you would keep clearly in your mind:

1. The school will be built within the previously noted $1,850,000 by you. It will be as stated by Mr. John Moehle, at the Olive Bridge meeting, "A beautiful building" with "gymnasium far better than we have now, and an auditorium." Mr. Moehle also stated that there would be "excellent classrooms available for the kindergarten" with or without the $300,000 and that the "educational work and program would not be impaired." He also stated "that the specially constructed kindergarten rooms might even be built within the present contract if savings on the electrical work could be made."

2. It has also been made clear that the items deleted from the present contract can be added later without spoiling the completed plans or architectural structure and value of the school.

3. It was made clear by the School Board through Mr. Fox that no one could tell what the interest charge would be in addition to the $300,000 you are voting for or against. You are therefore voting for or against $300,000 plus an unknown factor.

4. You should bear in mind that there may be extra items coming along as the building gets under construction that would be necessary, outside of the present contract and that you may be called upon for an additional appropriation to be financed by the taxpayers with our without the $300,000 now in question.

5. Let's get the building up, get the roof on and get it in use as soon as possible, and then consider financing the extras after we get in it. That is the safe conservative financing that you would follow in building your own home. There will be plenty of time to decide on these matters deleted from the contract.

6. Most of the discussion at the Olive Bridge meeting and possibly at other meeting centers around matters previously decided and already over the dam, lets be careful of our finances individually and collectively or we may all be over the dam.

REMEMBER how many months it took the few men on the Onteora Board of Education to decide to let the contract for the school. Now all the residents of this large area have been asked to decide an important issue within one week from the time the contract was let.

REMEMBER you are not working against or holding back the construction of an excellent central school by voting against the $300,000 at this time. You are still working with the Board and Mr. Moehle for they are soliciting your good judgment pro or con.

REMEMBER if you vote against the $300,000 additional at this time you can still vote yes on separate or all items that have been deleted if they are needed in the future.

REMEMBER to register your good judgment in this matter by voting at Phoenicia February 13.

Signed,
BURTON S. TANDY,
Resident of Shokan.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

Joe Guessed Right But Played Wrong

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

Every once in a while Hard Luck Joe analyzes a hand beautifully. He sees at a glance that the hand calls for setting up a particular suit, or perhaps for a cross-ruff. Off he goes to execute his plan. As a matter of fact, "execution" is exactly the word his partners often use. For example, his analysis of the hand shown today was perfect in all respects but one. He saw that the hand called for a cross-ruff and he was right.

West opened the king of clubs, and Joe won with the ace. He saw that he could expect to win four high cards outside of the trump suit. He also saw that he could win his eight trumps separately by cross-ruffing. Obviously, therefore, it was up to him to cross-ruff the hand in order to make his contract.

After winning the first trick with the ace of clubs, Joe ruffed a club in dummy to begin the cross-ruff. He next cashed the ace of hearts and ruffed a heart in his own hand.

Then he realized that he had better cash the top diamonds before going too far and he therefore laid down the ace and king of diamonds. He next ruffed the six of clubs in dummy and ruffed a second heart in his own hand; and followed by ruffing the ten of clubs in dummy and a third heart in his own hand.

At this point, Joe was in his own hand with one trump and two diamonds while dummy had one trump, one heart and one diamond. Joe led a diamond but West won and returned a trump, thus causing dummy's queen to fall on the same trick as Joe's ace. Joe therefore still had to lose another diamond trick.

Joe was right when he decided to cross-ruff the hand. However, he should have forseen the position which actually came about. In order to make the contract he had to begin the hearts before ruffing a club.

Correct play is to win the ace of clubs. cash the top diamonds, take the ace of hearts, and ruff a heart. It is now possible for declarer to ruff three clubs in dummy and return by ruffing three more hearts. In this way all eight trumps are made separately.

Favors New Bond Issue

P. O. Box 45
Chichester, New York
February 6, 1950

Editor, The Freeman:

As a taxpayer, parent and resident of the Onteora School District, I read with keen interest, the numerous statements and letters currently found in The Freeman pertaining to the new $300,000 bond issue upon which we are to vote February 13.

It occurs to me that as voters, we should endeavor to view this matter dispassionately, without malice, flaring tempers or soaring blood pressures, and to learn first hand the real facts and figures relative to the request for the additional money. There are meetings throughout the district this week which voters are urged to attend and where one may learn the answers to questions, where information will be available to all who will seek it. Should we not avail ourselves of such an opportunity and attend the meetings?

To review a few accomplished facts: We voted to centralize; we voted overwhelmingly for the $1,850,000 bond issue. I understood then as I do now that the figure was the tentative cost. The dire turn of world events caused sharp price rises while the architect was drawing up the final plans for school, thereby making the request for additional funds necessary.

We are now confronted with the fact that in order to build our school as planned, we need an additinal $300,000, 16 per cent plus of $1,850,000 to be paid by us over a period of 30 years. The increase in taxes for an average home such as mine would be approximately a dollar. If it were more, I would still favor building the school without deletions, all of which are necessary details. If each one of us sacrificed two or three evenings at a movie, a night or two of bowling, or some similar form of recreation, the money saved would more than meet the tax increase.

In the heat of the argument we seem to have lost sight of the number one reason for centralizing our district and building our school—the 900 or more children who are to be educated there. Whether they are our own or our neighbors, are they not entitled to the very best that we can give them in the form of education? Where can we find a better investment than in the welfare and education of the youth of our nation? They are the future citizens of our state and country. As men and women they must be prepared to take their place in this great land of ours, at a time when the world is sorely troubled and the need for well educated citizens grows increasingly urgent. Their education is our responsibility. I believe a modern, efficient, well equipped school is as important as a first class staff of teachers.

Let us all give earnest consideration to all of the facts pertaining to the new bond issue, go to the polls, and vote yes, February 13.

Sincerely yours,
NATHALIE B. ADAMS
(Mrs. William W. Adams)

Onteora Central School

Editor, The Freeman:

I am writing this open letter as an individual and have not been asked to do so by any group of people or party for or against the issue, "The $300,000 additional cost to the Onteora Central School." I am writing after hearing both sides of the discussion at the Olive Bridge open meeting, Feb. 7.

February 13 in Phoenicia all residents of the Onteora School District will vote whether or not an additional $300,000 will be charged to them for certain items of the school building not in the contract made. When you vote there are a few things I wish you would keep clearly in your mind:

1. The school will be built within the previously noted $1,850,000 by you. It will be as stated by Mr. John Moehle, at the Olive Bridge meeting, "A beautiful building" with "gymnasium far better than we have now, and an auditorium." Mr. Moehle also stated that there would be "excellent classrooms available for the kindergarten" with or without the $300,000 and that the "educational work and program would not be impaired." He also stated "that the specially constructed kindergarten rooms might even be built within the present contract if savings on the electrical work could be made."

2. It has also been made clear that the items deleted from the present contract can be added later without spoiling the completed plans or architectural structure and value of the school.

3. It was made clear by the School Board through Mr. Fox that no one could tell what the interest charge would be in addition to the $300,000 you are voting for or against. You are therefore voting for or against $300,000 plus an unknown factor.

4. You should bear in mind that there may be extra items coming along as the building gets under construction that would be necessary, outside of the present contract and that you may be called upon for an additional appropriation to be financed by the taxpayers with our without the $300,000 now in question.

5. Let's get the building up, get the roof on and get it in use as soon as possible, and then consider financing the extras after we get in it. That is the safe conservative financing that you would follow in building your own home. There will be plenty of time to decide on these matters deleted from the contract.

6. Most of the discussion at the Olive Bridge meeting and possibly at other meeting centers around matters previously decided and already over the dam, lets be careful of our finances individually and collectively or we may all be over the dam.

REMEMBER how many months it took the few men on the Onteora Board of Education to decide to let the contract for the school. Now all the residents of this large area have been asked to decide an important issue within one week from the time the contract was let.

REMEMBER you are not working against or holding back the construction of an excellent central school by voting against the $300,000 at this time. You are still working with the Board and Mr. Moehle for they are soliciting your good judgment pro or con.

REMEMBER if you vote against the $300,000 additional at this time you can still vote yes on separate or all items that have been deleted if they are needed in the future.

REMEMBER to register your good judgment in this matter by voting at Phoenicia February 13.

Signed,
BURTON S. TANDY,
Resident of Shokan.

Favors New Bond Issue

P. O. Box 45
Chichester, New York
February 6, 1950

Editor, The Freeman:

As a taxpayer, parent and resident of the Onteora School District, I read with keen interest, the numerous statements and letters currently found in The Freeman pertaining to the new $300,000 bond issue upon which we are to vote February 13.

It occurs to me that as voters, we should endeavor to view this matter dispassionately, without malice, flaring tempers or soaring blood pressures, and to learn first hand the real facts and figures relative to the request for the additional money. There are meetings throughout the district this week which voters are urged to attend and where one may learn the answers to questions, where information will be available to all who will seek it. Should we not avail ourselves of such an opportunity and attend the meetings?

To review a few accomplished facts: We voted to centralize; we voted overwhelmingly for the $1,850,000 bond issue. I understood then as I do now that the figure was the tentative cost. The dire turn of world events caused sharp price rises while the architect was drawing up the final plans for school, thereby making the request for additional funds necessary.

We are now confronted with the fact that in order to build our school as planned, we need an additinal $300,000, 16 per cent plus of $1,850,000 to be paid by us over a period of 30 years. The increase in taxes for an average home such as mine would be approximately a dollar. If it were more, I would still favor building the school without deletions, all of which are necessary details. If each one of us sacrificed two or three evenings at a movie, a night or two of bowling, or some similar form of recreation, the money saved would more than meet the tax increase.

In the heat of the argument we seem to have lost sight of the number one reason for centralizing our district and building our school—the 900 or more children who are to be educated there. Whether they are our own or our neighbors, are they not entitled to the very best that we can give them in the form of education? Where can we find a better investment than in the welfare and education of the youth of our nation? They are the future citizens of our state and country. As men and women they must be prepared to take their place in this great land of ours, at a time when the world is sorely troubled and the need for well educated citizens grows increasingly urgent. Their education is our responsibility. I believe a modern, efficient, well equipped school is as important as a first class staff of teachers.

Let us all give earnest consideration to all of the facts pertaining to the new bond issue, go to the polls, and vote yes, February 13.

Sincerely yours,
NATHALIE B. ADAMS
(Mrs. William W. Adams)

Onteora Central School

Editor, The Freeman:

I am writing this open letter as an individual and have not been asked to do so by any group of people or party for or against the issue, "The $300,000 additional cost to the Onteora Central School." I am writing after hearing both sides of the discussion at the Olive Bridge open meeting, Feb. 7.

February 13 in Phoenicia all residents of the Onteora School District will vote whether or not an additional $300,000 will be charged to them for certain items of the school building not in the contract made. When you vote there are a few things I wish you would keep clearly in your mind:

1. The school will be built within the previously noted $1,850,000 by you. It will be as stated by Mr. John Moehle, at the Olive Bridge meeting, "A beautiful building" with "gymnasium far better than we have now, and an auditorium." Mr. Moehle also stated that there would be "excellent classrooms available for the kindergarten" with or without the $300,000 and that the "educational work and program would not be impaired." He also stated "that the specially constructed kindergarten rooms might even be built within the present contract if savings on the electrical work could be made."

2. It has also been made clear that the items deleted from the present contract can be added later without spoiling the completed plans or architectural structure and value of the school.

3. It was made clear by the School Board through Mr. Fox that no one could tell what the interest charge would be in addition to the $300,000 you are voting for or against. You are therefore voting for or against $300,000 plus an unknown factor.

4. You should bear in mind that there may be extra items coming along as the building gets under construction that would be necessary, outside of the present contract and that you may be called upon for an additional appropriation to be financed by the taxpayers with our without the $300,000 now in question.

5. Let's get the building up, get the roof on and get it in use as soon as possible, and then consider financing the extras after we get in it. That is the safe conservative financing that you would follow in building your own home. There will be plenty of time to decide on these matters deleted from the contract.

6. Most of the discussion at the Olive Bridge meeting and possibly at other meeting centers around matters previously decided and already over the dam, lets be careful of our finances individually and collectively or we may all be over the dam.

REMEMBER how many months it took the few men on the Onteora Board of Education to decide to let the contract for the school. Now all the residents of this large area have been asked to decide an important issue within one week from the time the contract was let.

REMEMBER you are not working against or holding back the construction of an excellent central school by voting against the $300,000 at this time. You are still working with the Board and Mr. Moehle for they are soliciting your good judgment pro or con.

REMEMBER if you vote against the $300,000 additional at this time you can still vote yes on separate or all items that have been deleted if they are needed in the future.

REMEMBER to register your good judgment in this matter by voting at Phoenicia February 13.

Signed,
BURTON S. TANDY,
Resident of Shokan.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

Joe Guessed Right But Played Wrong

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

Every once in a while Hard Luck Joe analyzes a hand beautifully. He sees at a glance that the hand calls for setting up a particular suit, or perhaps for a cross-ruff. Off he goes to execute his plan. As a matter of fact, "execution" is exactly the word his partners often use. For example, his analysis of the hand shown today was perfect in all respects but one. He saw that the hand called for a cross-ruff and he was right.

West opened the king of clubs, and Joe won with the ace. He saw that he could expect to win four high cards outside of the trump suit. He also saw that he could win his eight trumps separately by cross-ruffing. Obviously, therefore, it was up to him to cross-ruff the hand in order to make his contract.

After winning the first trick with the ace of clubs, Joe ruffed a club in dummy to begin the cross-ruff. He next cashed the ace of hearts and ruffed a heart in his own hand.

Then he realized that he had better cash the top diamonds before going too far and he therefore laid down the ace and king of diamonds. He next ruffed the six of clubs in dummy and ruffed a second heart in his own hand; and followed by ruffing the ten of clubs in dummy and a third heart in his own hand.

At this point, Joe was in his own hand with one trump and two diamonds while dummy had one trump, one heart and one diamond. Joe led a diamond but West won and returned a trump, thus causing dummy's queen to fall on the same trick as Joe's ace. Joe therefore still had to lose another diamond trick.

Joe was right when he decided to cross-ruff the hand. However, he should have forseen the position which actually came about. In order to make the contract he had to begin the hearts before ruffing a club.

Correct play is to win the ace of clubs. cash the top diamonds, take the ace of hearts, and ruff a heart. It is now possible for declarer to ruff three clubs in dummy and return by ruffing three more hearts. In this way all eight trumps are made separately.

Eddy Duchin Dies; Cited by U. S. Navy

New York, Feb. 10 (AP)—Eddy Duchin, whose mastery of the piano keyboard delighted millions of Americans, died here last night only a few hours after the navy cited him for his World War 2 combat record.

Rear Admiral Walter S. Delany, commandant of the 3rd Naval District, delivered the citation personally yesterday to Duchin, 41, who was a patient at Memorial Hospital.

Duchin enlisted in the navy eight years ago. He served on destroyers in some of the toughest engangements of both the Atlantic and Pacific. In 1945 he was discharged as a lieutenant commander.

His losing battle against leukemia—a form of cancer of the blood—started several months ago. The hospital said he had been a frequent patient recently.

At his bedside when he died was his wife and a sister.

Born in Cambridge, Mass., his full name was Edwin Frank Duchin. His mother wanted him to play the piano; his druggist father hoped he would become a pharmacist.

However, odd piano assignments with college orchestras convinced him he could earn more with his musical skills than with his druggist knowledge; and Duchin joined Leo Reisman's orchestra, then playing at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel in New York.

Duchin formed his own band in 1931 at the request of the old, famed Central Park Casino. There he was often teamed with singer Morton Downey.

Duchin's first wife, sugar heiress Marjorie Oelrichs, died in 1937, two years after they were married and six days after she bore him a son.

He was married again in 1947 to Maria Teresa Winn of London, who survives.

Funeral services were scheduled Sunday.

Hurley Woman Is

F. Brenn of 38 Brewster street, to tell them she was not coming for dinner as was her custom on Friday evenings, but was dining with friends.

It was her custom to meet her husband after the store closed Friday evenings and when she failed to reach the store Mr. Van Tassell called his home and when he received no response, he with Mr. and Mrs. Brenn went to the house. The Conner ambulance was called but when it was found Mrs. Van Tassell was dead, Sheriff Cluett Schantz and Under Sheriff Clayton W. Vredenburgh were called and with Deputy Earl Conro went to the home. District Attorney Louis G. Bruhn was also notified and assisted in the investigation. Coroner Ernest A. Kelly was summoned and Dr. Maroon was called.

Called Accidental

An investigation was being continued today in an effort to determine the time of the shooting.

Coroner Kelly, who investigated the shooting with the other officials, this morning issued a verdict of accidental shooting.

Mrs. Van Tassell is survived by her husband, John H. Van Tassell, Hurley; her parents, Vivian F. and Edythe L. Brenn, Kingston.

Friends may call Sunday between 7 and 9 p. m. at the W. N. Conner Funeral Home, 296 Fair street, where funeral services will be held privately on Monday at the convenience of the family. Burial will be in Wiltwyck Cemetery.

Baby Found Hanging

New York, Feb. 10 (AP)—A youthful shoe factory employe was booked on homicide charges today, after his seven-month-old baby girl was found dead hanging by a sash cord from two nails hammered into a bathroom door. The father was identified as Joseph Vicens, 22. The infant, Eileen, was found last night by a brother of the father, Hector Vicens, when he entered Joseph's two-room apartment on West 53rd street. Vicens told police his wife, Rosa, 19, was taken to a hospital yesterday morning and that he stayed at home to mind the baby. He said he took the baby with him when he went shopping in the afternoon, but that his memory was hazy after that.

draft age from 19 years to 18 but require local draft boards first to call up all available men in their present manpower pools of 19 through 25 years. This would effect thousands of childless married men who are not veterans.

2. Extend present required service of 21 months to 24 months exclusive of leave. With leave, this amounts to 26 months and one week. The Pentagon has asked a minimum of 27 months.

3. Establish a universal military training and service program on a permanent basis to succeed the present Selective Service Act which is due to expire July 9.

Oldest Ones First

In calling up 18-year-olds, those nearest 19 would be drafted first, followed by those 18 years and six months old, then 18 years and three months and finally those just turned 18.

Provision would be made for deferment of up to 75,000 18-year-olds in each of the next three years to enter college after completing four to six months of basic training.

Child Health Conference Planned for Woodstock

A child health conference conducted by the Ulster County Health Department will be held at the Health Center in Woodstock, February 21 from 2 to 4 p. m. Dr. Hans J. Cohn will be the physician in charge assisted by Miss Anne C. Cassidy, R.N., public health nurse.

These are well-child clinics limited to infant and pre-school children only for the maintenance of health and prevention of disease, and not for the care of the sick child. Their purpose is to improve child health through early recognition of defects, advice regarding nutrition, instruction of parents in understanding of growth and development, handling of minor behavior difficulties and the administration of immunizations for smallpox, diphtheria, tetanus and whooping cough.

Children under the regular health supervision of their own physician are not admitted to these clinics unless the physician desires this service to be taken over by the child health conference. In this manner, duplication of service is avoided, facilitating the work of the private physician.

Land War . . .

He said, however, that "we should be prepared to make heavy sacrifices" to help free nations.

"But we should do it with common sense, within our strength, with a long view of history in mind."

Can't Carry Tax Load

Declaring that the nation cannot sustain for long a budget of $71.6 billions and the tax load it demands, he urged reduction of national spending "to a level we can carry over a long term of years."

"The economic destruction of the U. S. is one of the means by which Stalin hopes to overcome us," he said.

He declared it was an "unbearable strain on our economic system" to try simultaneously to maintain armies in the Pacific, build an air and naval force, arm free nations and send land armies to Europe.

"The whole Korean tragedy is developing proof that the way to punish aggressors is from the air and sea and not by land itself," he said.

Stalin Wants Land War

Opposing the creation of land armies for expeditions "into the quicksands of either Europe or China," Hoover said that Stalin's "greatest hope is to get us into a land war."

Instead of great armies, he maintained that air and naval power, "if large enough, is Europe's real protection."

"If the Europeans are attacked," he said, "we should be prepared and use such overwhelming air and naval power to the limit and keep it up until they (the Russians) have had enough."

He said America's air threat "has been during four years the most powerful deterrent to any attack on western Europe."

"It is far more powerful than pouring American divisions into the reach of this Asiatic horde," he added.

After Hoover's previous speech, his proposals were called isolationism by President Truman. But as before, Hoover denied this, saying:

"I am not advocating isolationism, but if other nations should fail, we may be isolated by force of circumstances and against our will."

New Proposals

"Recently," Hoover said, "I proposed that if the nations of Europe failed, we should, as a prudent nation, have in mind a second line of air and naval defense based upon the foreign shores of the Pacific and Atlantic Oceans both north and south and I may add the Mediterranean and Indian Ocean."

In his Dec. 20 speech, he made no mention of any first or second line of defense. His new proposals envisaged Europe's own strength, plus American supplies and the threat of U. S. air power as the first line of defense.

Neither did his previous speech mention the Indian Ocean or the Mediterranean.

He said then: "The foundation of our national policies must be to preserve for the world this western hemisphere Gibraltar of western civilization. * * * we can, without any measure of doubt, with our own air and naval forces, hold the Atlantic and Pacific Oceans with one frontier on Britain (if she wishes to cooperate), the other on Japan, Formosa and the Philippines."

He saw the U.N.—whose effectiveness he previously criticized—as a hope for peace by collective action against aggression, and said: "Halting and faulty as it may be, we cannot abandon this idea and this hope."

Floods Menacing

of families were marooned. Several small communities were isolated.

Damage was heavy in the flood belt. Many homes were wrecked and roads blocked by earthslides. Rail travel between Seattle and Portland was delayed by the earthslides.

A half dozen beach homes were swept into Puget Sound at Tacoma by mud slides and two shoreline homes and a portable school were wrecked at Seattle.

A huge ice jam sent the Susquehanna river 17 feet above normal level in Columbia, Pa., and more than 40 families in Lancaster and York counties were driven from their homes. A state of emergency was declared in the rich farming and industrial region.

Many of the valley's roads were flooded and service was halted on the Pennsylvania Railroad's freight line from the hard coal fields.

Connelly Blasts

"On April 14, 1950 the voters of the district by a vote of 968 to 231 approved of the expenditure of $1,850,000 for a new school. This is certainly some indication that the vast majority want a new school in the district. Prior to this vote, the board sponsored not one but thirty-one meetings throughout the district at which the proposal was publicly, and not at all secretly, discussed. It is a well known fact that Messrs. Haver and Bell did not go on record as either being for or against the new school. What thunderclap from the land of old Rip suddenly galvanized them into activity?

"Many people in the district might have voted for the original $1,850,000, want a new school very badly, and yet be against the additional $300,000. It is their prerogative to so vote on Tuesday.

Are They for School

"Messrs. Haver and Bell say they are for a new school. The proof of the pudding is the eating. If they were not really against any school and were not so determined to try to stop any school, they would not now threaten to enjoin the building of the school. They know that material shortages are imminent. They know that if they could secure a temporary injunction for a month or two the probability of the contractor securing steel would be much less and perhaps no school could be built for years. Would this benefit the residents of the district or would it benefit some people who in this matter are pursuing other interests than those of the best interests of the people and children of the district?

"It is charged that the construction contracts signed Tuesday in my office are illegal. The board relied on me in this respect, and the only accusation against the board itself that can be made in this regard that it should have secured a better attorney. From the release of Messrs Bell and Haver appearing in the Freeman of February 7, their very definite, positive and certain opinion of illegality is based on a contention that the board failed to properly advertise for bids. The law requires public contracts for more than $2,500 to be preceded by advertisement for bids. The board advertised for bids for a month prior to January 16 when they were opened. Due to the uncertain conditions in the building field there were only two bidders on the general contract. I. and O. A. Slutsky bid $1,350,000 and the only other bid was for $1,543,279. If the low bids for the general contract, plumbing, heating and electrical were all accepted, the amount would have exceeded $1,850,000. Therefore the board chopped off $139,715 from the low general bid by deleting landscaping, site development, kindergarten rooms, tile, seats in auditorium, folding bleachers and the partition in the auditorium. The contract for Slutzky was for $1,210,825 with a provision that the deleted items could be restored within 60 days if the voters of the district approved the additional $300,000.

"It is now claimed that the board could not do this, but had to delete the items from the specifications and readvertise again before awarding any contract.

Gives Opinion

"It is my opinion that the law does not require readvertisement. The Legal Bureau of the State Education Department agrees with my opinion. However, there does not appear to be any case construing the statute squarely in point and holding either that you do or don't have to start all over again with advertising and have no discretion to eliminate items. Perhaps some court might say that republication is unnecessary. The law is not an exact science, and with even courts writing prevailing and dissenting opinions in the same case, only one with far more skill and assurance than I have can predict with certitude the opinion a court would render in any given case.

What has been done in signing contracts is for the best interest of the district. Any lawyer can easily secure a temporary injunction tying up construction temporarily. This would not be done for the purpose of adjudicating a technicality. It would be done by those forces who are trying to stop the building of any school. It would be done with the hope that building conditions in the near future would be so unsettled that no one would bid, and with the further hope that if someone did bid he would have greater difficulty than now in securing materials.

The Ulster County News of February 8 says: "Mr. Egan said today that the decision about starting a taxpayers' action will be made after the Feb. 13 election." The opponents of any school therefore appear to be following the strategy of first defeating the proposed increase of $300,000 and then if that is defeated of moving to enjoin the construction of any school. Their strategy seems to make it important for all who want any school at all to vote for the increased appropriation on February 13th. It is unfortunate that this should be so, since the question of whether any school should be built, decided favorably by the majority long ago, is a separate issue from the question of whether $300,000 should be further appropriated.

Proclamation

American Heart Week

Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk today called upon residents of this city to observe the week of February 11, as American Heart Week. The text of the mayor's proclamation follows:

WHEREAS disease of the heart and blood vessels constitutes our nation's most important medical and public health problem in that it affects more persons than any other disease, leads all others as a cause of death, occasions a great number of days lost from work and is a severe strain on the economy, and

WHEREAS the week including February 14 each year is being sponsored by the American Heart Association, and its affiliates, the Ulster County Heart Association, as American Heart Week for the purpose of focusing public attention on the medical, social and economic aspects of this primary health problem, and of reminding the Nation that solution depends upon the fullest cooperation of the people, science, government and health and social agencies:

NOW, THEREFORE, I, Oscar V. Newkirk, Mayor of the City of Kingston, do hereby order that the week beginning February 11, 1951 be observed in the City of Kingston as American Heart Week. I further call upon schools, churches, scientific bodies, civic associations, business establishments, and other organizations and the people of the City of Kingston generally, to observe this American Heart Week with appropriate activities.

OSCAR V. NEWKIRK

Allies . . .

Chinese fled across the frozen marshes. Three were captured.

10:30 a. m.—A South Korean patrol crossed the Han and fought through the south gate into Seoul.

3:35 p. m.—Lt. Col. Tom Dolvin's 27th Regiment column of the 25th Division, with American and British tanks in support, rolled onto the big air base at Kimpo. Vanguards pushed on northwest along the Seoul-Inchon corridor.

5 p. m.—Negro infantrymen of the U. S. 25th Division with light tanks for firepower capped a 25-mile dash from the south by entering Inchon. Guns of the "Mighty Mo" laid down a shield of fire for the allied force.

All along the western front, the Reds apparently were pulling back toward the old Parallel 38 border.

Eddy Duchin Dies; Cited by U. S. Navy

New York, Feb. 10 (AP)—Eddy Duchin, whose mastery of the piano keyboard delighted millions of Americans, died here last night only a few hours after the navy cited him for his World War 2 combat record.

Rear Admiral Walter S. Delany, commandant of the 3rd Naval District, delivered the citation personally yesterday to Duchin, 41, who was a patient at Memorial Hospital.

Duchin enlisted in the navy eight years ago. He served on destroyers in some of the toughest engangements of both the Atlantic and Pacific. In 1945 he was discharged as a lieutenant commander.

His losing battle against leukemia—a form of cancer of the blood—started several months ago. The hospital said he had been a frequent patient recently.

At his bedside when he died was his wife and a sister.

Born in Cambridge, Mass., his full name was Edwin Frank Duchin. His mother wanted him to play the piano; his druggist father hoped he would become a pharmacist.

So young Eddy took piano lessons, but went off to Massachusetts College of Pharmacy for his studies. He was graduated in 1929.

However, odd piano assignments with college orchestras convinced him he could earn more with his musical skills than with his druggist knowledge; and Duchin joined Leo Reisman's orchestra, then playing at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel in New York.

Duchin formed his own band in 1931 at the request of the old, famed Central Park Casino. There he was often teamed with singer Morton Downey.

Duchin's first wife, sugar heiress Marjorie Oelrichs, died in 1937, two years after they were married and six days after she bore him a son.

He was married again in 1947 to Maria Teresa Winn of London, who survives.

Funeral services were scheduled Sunday.

Hurley Woman Is

F. Brenn of 38 Brewster street, to tell them she was not coming for dinner as was her custom on Friday evenings, but was dining with friends.

It was her custom to meet her husband after the store closed Friday evenings and when she failed to reach the store Mr. Van Tassell called his home and when he received no response, he with Mr. and Mrs. Brenn went to the house. The Conner ambulance was called but when it was found Mrs. Van Tassell was dead, Sheriff Cluett Schantz and Under Sheriff Clayton W. Vredenburgh were called and with Deputy Earl Conro went to the home. District Attorney Louis G. Bruhn was also notified and assisted in the investigation. Coroner Ernest A. Kelly was summoned and Dr. Maroon was called.

Called Accidental

An investigation was being continued today in an effort to determine the time of the shooting.

Coroner Kelly, who investigated the shooting with the other officials, this morning issued a verdict of accidental shooting.

Mrs. Van Tassell is survived by her husband, John H. Van Tassell, Hurley; her parents, Vivian F. and Edythe L. Brenn, Kingston.

Friends may call Sunday between 7 and 9 p. m. at the W. N. Conner Funeral Home, 296 Fair street, where funeral services will be held privately on Monday at the convenience of the family. Burial will be in Wiltwyck Cemetery.

Baby Found Hanging

New York, Feb. 10 (AP)—A youthful shoe factory employe was booked on homicide charges today, after his seven-month-old baby girl was found dead hanging by a sash cord from two nails hammered into a bathroom door. The father was identified as Joseph Vicens, 22. The infant, Eileen, was found last night by a brother of the father, Hector Vicens, when he entered Joseph's two-room apartment on West 53rd street. Vicens told police his wife, Rosa, 19, was taken to a hospital yesterday morning and that he stayed at home to mind the baby. He said he took the baby with him when he went shopping in the afternoon, but that his memory was hazy after that.

Too Many Coaches

draft age from 19 years to 18 but require local draft boards first to call up all available men in their present manpower pools of 19 through 25 years. This would effect thousands of childless married men who are not veterans.

2. Extend present required service of 21 months to 24 months exclusive of leave. With leave, this amounts to 26 months and one week. The Pentagon has asked a minimum of 27 months.

3. Establish a universal military training and service program on a permanent basis to succeed the present Selective Service Act which is due to expire July 9.

Oldest Ones First

In calling up 18-year-olds, those nearest 19 would be drafted first, followed by those 18 years and six months old, then 18 years and three months and finally those just turned 18.

Provision would be made for deferment of up to 75,000 18-year-olds in each of the next three years to enter college after completing four to six months of basic training.

Child Health Conference Planned for Woodstock

A child health conference conducted by the Ulster County Health Department will be held at the Health Center in Woodstock, February 21 from 2 to 4 p. m. Dr. Hans J. Cohn will be the physician in charge assisted by Miss Anne C. Cassidy, R.N., public health nurse.

These are well-child clinics limited to infant and pre-school children only for the maintenance of health and prevention of disease, and not for the care of the sick child. Their purpose is to improve child health through early recognition of defects, advice regarding nutrition, instruction of parents in understanding of growth and development, handling of minor behavior difficulties and the administration of immunizations for smallpox, diphtheria, tetanus and whooping cough.

Children under the regular health supervision of their own physician are not admitted to these clinics unless the physician desires this service to be taken over by the child health conference. In this manner, duplication of service is avoided, facilitating the work of the private physician.

Land War . . .

should strengthen itself, and its ocean perimeters, as the safest means of averting disaster.

He said, however, that "we should be prepared to make heavy sacrifices" to help free nations.

"But we should do it with common sense, within our strength, with a long view of history in mind."

Can't Carry Tax Load

Declaring that the nation cannot sustain for long a budget of $71.6 billions and the tax load it demands, he urged reduction of national spending "to a level we can carry over a long term of years."

"The economic destruction of the U. S. is one of the means by which Stalin hopes to overcome us," he said.

He declared it was an "unbearable strain on our economic system" to try simultaneously to maintain armies in the Pacific, build an air and naval force, arm free nations and send land armies to Europe.

"The whole Korean tragedy is developing proof that the way to punish aggressors is from the air and sea and not by land itself," he said.

Stalin Wants Land War

Opposing the creation of land armies for expeditions "into the quicksands of either Europe or China," Hoover said that Stalin's "greatest hope is to get us into a land war."

Instead of great armies, he maintained that air and naval power, "if large enough, is Europe's real protection."

"If the Europeans are attacked," he said, "we should be prepared and use such overwhelming air and naval power to the limit and keep it up until they (the Russians) have had enough."

He said America's air threat "has been during four years the most powerful deterrent to any attack on western Europe."

"It is far more powerful than pouring American divisions into the reach of this Asiatic horde," he added.

After Hoover's previous speech, his proposals were called isolationism by President Truman. But as before, Hoover denied this, saying:

"I am not advocating isolationism, but if other nations should fail, we may be isolated by force of circumstances and against our will."

New Proposals

"Recently," Hoover said, "I proposed that if the nations of Europe failed, we should, as a prudent nation, have in mind a second line of air and naval defense based upon the foreign shores of the Pacific and Atlantic Oceans both north and south and I may add the Mediterranean and Indian Ocean."

In his Dec. 20 speech, he made no mention of any first or second line of defense. His new proposals envisaged Europe's own strength, plus American supplies and the threat of U. S. air power as the first line of defense.

Neither did his previous speech mention the Indian Ocean or the Mediterranean.

He said then: "The foundation of our national policies must be to preserve for the world this western hemisphere Gibraltar of western civilization. * * * we can, without any measure of doubt, with our own air and naval forces, hold the Atlantic and Pacific Oceans with one frontier on Britain (if she wishes to cooperate), the other on Japan, Formosa and the Philippines."

He saw the U.N.—whose effectiveness he previously criticized—as a hope for peace by collective action against aggression, and said: "Halting and faulty as it may be, we cannot abandon this idea and this hope."

Floods Menacing

of families were marooned. Several small communities were isolated.

Damage was heavy in the flood belt. Many homes were wrecked and roads blocked by earthslides. Rail travel between Seattle and Portland was delayed by the earthslides.

A half dozen beach homes were swept into Puget Sound at Tacoma by mud slides and two shoreline homes and a portable school were wrecked at Seattle.

A huge ice jam sent the Susquehanna river 17 feet above normal level in Columbia, Pa., and more than 40 families in Lancaster and York counties were driven from their homes. A state of emergency was declared in the rich farming and industrial region.

Many of the valley's roads were flooded and service was halted on the Pennsylvania Railroad's freight line from the hard coal fields.

Connelly Blasts

voters care to vote the additional $300,000.

"On April 14, 1950 the voters of the district by a vote of 968 to 231 approved of the expenditure of $1,850,000 for a new school. This is certainly some indication that the vast majority want a new school in the district. Prior to this vote, the board sponsored not one but thirty-one meetings throughout the district at which the proposal was publicly, and not at all secretly, discussed. It is a well known fact that Messrs. Haver and Bell did not go on record as either being for or against the new school. What thunderclap from the land of old Rip suddenly galvanized them into activity?

"Many people in the district might have voted for the original $1,850,000, want a new school very badly, and yet be against the additional $300,000. It is their prerogative to so vote on Tuesday.

Are They for School

"Messrs. Haver and Bell say they are for a new school. The proof of the pudding is the eating. If they were not really against any school and were not so determined to try to stop any school, they would not now threaten to enjoin the building of the school. They know that material shortages are imminent. They know that if they could secure a temporary injunction for a month or two the probability of the contractor securing steel would be much less and perhaps no school could be built for years. Would this benefit the residents of the district or would it benefit some people who in this matter are pursuing other interests than those of the best interests of the people and children of the district?

"It is charged that the construction contracts signed Tuesday in my office are illegal. The board relied on me in this respect, and the only accusation against the board itself that can be made in this regard that it should have secured a better attorney. From the release of Messrs Bell and Haver appearing in the Freeman of February 7, their very definite, positive and certain opinion of illegality is based on a contention that the board failed to properly advertise for bids. The law requires public contracts for more than $2,500 to be preceded by advertisement for bids. The board advertised for bids for a month prior to January 16 when they were opened. Due to the uncertain conditions in the building field there were only two bidders on the general contract. I. and O. A. Slutsky bid $1,350,000 and the only other bid was for $1,543,279. If the low bids for the general contract, plumbing, heating and electrical were all accepted, the amount would have exceeded $1,850,000. Therefore the board chopped off $139,715 from the low general bid by deleting landscaping, site development, kindergarten rooms, tile, seats in auditorium, folding bleachers and the partition in the auditorium. The contract for Slutzky was for $1,210,825 with a provision that the deleted items could be restored within 60 days if the voters of the district approved the additional $300,000.

"It is now claimed that the board could not do this, but had to delete the items from the specifications and readvertise again before awarding any contract.

Gives Opinion

"It is my opinion that the law does not require readvertisement. The Legal Bureau of the State Education Department agrees with my opinion. However, there does not appear to be any case construing the statute squarely in point and holding either that you do or don't have to start all over again with advertising and have no discretion to eliminate items. Perhaps some court might say that republication is unnecessary. The law is not an exact science, and with even courts writing prevailing and dissenting opinions in the same case, only one with far more skill and assurance than I have can predict with certitude the opinion a court would render in any given case.

What has been done in signing contracts is for the best interest of the district. Any lawyer can easily secure a temporary injunction tying up construction temporarily. This would not be done for the purpose of adjudicating a technicality. It would be done by those forces who are trying to stop the building of any school. It would be done with the hope that building conditions in the near future would be so unsettled that no one would bid, and with the further hope that if someone did bid he would have greater difficulty than now in securing materials.

The Ulster County News of February 8 says: "Mr. Egan said today that the decision about starting a taxpayers' action will be made after the Feb. 13 election." The opponents of any school therefore appear to be following the strategy of first defeating the proposed increase of $300,000 and then if that is defeated of moving to enjoin the construction of any school. Their strategy seems to make it important for all who want any school at all to vote for the increased appropriation on February 13th. It is unfortunate that this should be so, since the question of whether any school should be built, decided favorably by the majority long ago, is a separate issue from the question of whether $300,000 should be further appropriated.

Fleeing Reds left roads heavily mined. But "we didn't find a single enemy and not a shot was fired," said Capt. Charles Fryant of Dallas, commander of the reconnaissance company.

All along the western front, the Reds apparently were pulling back toward the old Parallel 38 border.

Eddy Duchin Dies; Cited by U. S. Navy

New York, Feb. 10 (AP)—Eddy Duchin, whose mastery of the piano keyboard delighted millions of Americans, died here last night only a few hours after the navy cited him for his World War 2 combat record.

Rear Admiral Walter S. Delany, commandant of the 3rd Naval District, delivered the citation personally yesterday to Duchin, 41, who was a patient at Memorial Hospital.

Duchin enlisted in the navy eight years ago. He served on destroyers in some of the toughest engangements of both the Atlantic and Pacific. In 1945 he was discharged as a lieutenant commander.

His losing battle against leukemia—a form of cancer of the blood—started several months ago. The hospital said he had been a frequent patient recently.

At his bedside when he died was his wife and a sister.

Born in Cambridge, Mass., his full name was Edwin Frank Duchin. His mother wanted him to play the piano; his druggist father hoped he would become a pharmacist.

So young Eddy took piano lessons, but went off to Massachusetts College of Pharmacy for his studies. He was graduated in 1929.

However, odd piano assignments with college orchestras convinced him he could earn more with his musical skills than with his druggist knowledge; and Duchin joined Leo Reisman's orchestra, then playing at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel in New York.

Duchin formed his own band in 1931 at the request of the old, famed Central Park Casino. There he was often teamed with singer Morton Downey.

Duchin's first wife, sugar heiress Marjorie Oelrichs, died in 1937, two years after they were married and six days after she bore him a son.

He was married again in 1947 to Maria Teresa Winn of London, who survives.

Funeral services were scheduled Sunday.

Hurley Woman Is

F. Brenn of 38 Brewster street, to tell them she was not coming for dinner as was her custom on Friday evenings, but was dining with friends.

It was her custom to meet her husband after the store closed Friday evenings and when she failed to reach the store Mr. Van Tassell called his home and when he received no response, he with Mr. and Mrs. Brenn went to the house. The Conner ambulance was called but when it was found Mrs. Van Tassell was dead, Sheriff Cluett Schantz and Under Sheriff Clayton W. Vredenburgh were called and with Deputy Earl Conro went to the home. District Attorney Louis G. Bruhn was also notified and assisted in the investigation. Coroner Ernest A. Kelly was summoned and Dr. Maroon was called.

Called Accidental

An investigation was being continued today in an effort to determine the time of the shooting.

Coroner Kelly, who investigated the shooting with the other officials, this morning issued a verdict of accidental shooting.

Mrs. Van Tassell is survived by her husband, John H. Van Tassell, Hurley; her parents, Vivian F. and Edythe L. Brenn, Kingston.

Friends may call Sunday between 7 and 9 p. m. at the W. N. Conner Funeral Home, 296 Fair street, where funeral services will be held privately on Monday at the convenience of the family. Burial will be in Wiltwyck Cemetery.

Baby Found Hanging

New York, Feb. 10 (AP)—A youthful shoe factory employe was booked on homicide charges today, after his seven-month-old baby girl was found dead hanging by a sash cord from two nails hammered into a bathroom door. The father was identified as Joseph Vicens, 22. The infant, Eileen, was found last night by a brother of the father, Hector Vicens, when he entered Joseph's two-room apartment on West 53rd street. Vicens told police his wife, Rosa, 19, was taken to a hospital yesterday morning and that he stayed at home to mind the baby. He said he took the baby with him when he went shopping in the afternoon, but that his memory was hazy after that.

draft age from 19 years to 18 but require local draft boards first to call up all available men in their present manpower pools of 19 through 25 years. This would effect thousands of childless married men who are not veterans.

2. Extend present required service of 21 months to 24 months exclusive of leave. With leave, this amounts to 26 months and one week. The Pentagon has asked a minimum of 27 months.

3. Establish a universal military training and service program on a permanent basis to succeed the present Selective Service Act which is due to expire July 9.

Oldest Ones First

In calling up 18-year-olds, those nearest 19 would be drafted first, followed by those 18 years and six months old, then 18 years and three months and finally those just turned 18.

Provision would be made for deferment of up to 75,000 18-year-olds in each of the next three years to enter college after completing four to six months of basic training.

Child Health Conference Planned for Woodstock

A child health conference conducted by the Ulster County Health Department will be held at the Health Center in Woodstock, February 21 from 2 to 4 p. m. Dr. Hans J. Cohn will be the physician in charge assisted by Miss Anne C. Cassidy, R.N., public health nurse.

These are well-child clinics limited to infant and pre-school children only for the maintenance of health and prevention of disease, and not for the care of the sick child. Their purpose is to improve child health through early recognition of defects, advice regarding nutrition, instruction of parents in understanding of growth and development, handling of minor behavior difficulties and the administration of immunizations for smallpox, diphtheria, tetanus and whooping cough.

Children under the regular health supervision of their own physician are not admitted to these clinics unless the physician desires this service to be taken over by the child health conference. In this manner, duplication of service is avoided, facilitating the work of the private physician.

Land War . . .

should strengthen itself, and its ocean perimeters, as the safest means of averting disaster.

He said, however, that "we should be prepared to make heavy sacrifices" to help free nations.

"But we should do it with common sense, within our strength, with a long view of history in mind."

Can't Carry Tax Load

Declaring that the nation cannot sustain for long a budget of $71.6 billions and the tax load it demands, he urged reduction of national spending "to a level we can carry over a long term of years."

"The economic destruction of the U. S. is one of the means by which Stalin hopes to overcome us," he said.

He declared it was an "unbearable strain on our economic system" to try simultaneously to maintain armies in the Pacific, build an air and naval force, arm free nations and send land armies to Europe.

"The whole Korean tragedy is developing proof that the way to punish aggressors is from the air and sea and not by land itself," he said.

Stalin Wants Land War

Opposing the creation of land armies for expeditions "into the quicksands of either Europe or China," Hoover said that Stalin's "greatest hope is to get us into a land war."

Instead of great armies, he maintained that air and naval power, "if large enough, is Europe's real protection."

"If the Europeans are attacked," he said, "we should be prepared and use such overwhelming air and naval power to the limit and keep it up until they (the Russians) have had enough."

He said America's air threat "has been during four years the most powerful deterrent to any attack on western Europe."

"It is far more powerful than pouring American divisions into the reach of this Asiatic horde," he added.

After Hoover's previous speech, his proposals were called isolationism by President Truman. But as before, Hoover denied this, saying:

"I am not advocating isolationism, but if other nations should fail, we may be isolated by force of circumstances and against our will."

New Proposals

"Recently," Hoover said, "I proposed that if the nations of Europe failed, we should, as a prudent nation, have in mind a second line of air and naval defense based upon the foreign shores of the Pacific and Atlantic Oceans both north and south and I may add the Mediterranean and Indian Ocean."

In his Dec. 20 speech, he made no mention of any first or second line of defense. His new proposals envisaged Europe's own strength, plus American supplies and the threat of U. S. air power as the first line of defense.

Neither did his previous speech mention the Indian Ocean or the Mediterranean.

He said then: "The foundation of our national policies must be to preserve for the world this western hemisphere Gibraltar of western civilization. * * * we can, without any measure of doubt, with our own air and naval forces, hold the Atlantic and Pacific Oceans with one frontier on Britain (if she wishes to cooperate), the other on Japan, Formosa and the Philippines."

He saw the U.N.—whose effectiveness he previously criticized—as a hope for peace by collective action against aggression, and said: "Halting and faulty as it may be, we cannot abandon this idea and this hope."

Floods Menacing

of families were marooned. Several small communities were isolated.

Damage was heavy in the flood belt. Many homes were wrecked and roads blocked by earthslides. Rail travel between Seattle and Portland was delayed by the earthslides.

A half dozen beach homes were swept into Puget Sound at Tacoma by mud slides and two shoreline homes and a portable school were wrecked at Seattle.

A huge ice jam sent the Susquehanna river 17 feet above normal level in Columbia, Pa., and more than 40 families in Lancaster and York counties were driven from their homes. A state of emergency was declared in the rich farming and industrial region.

Many of the valley's roads were flooded and service was halted on the Pennsylvania Railroad's freight line from the hard coal fields.

Connelly Blasts

voters care to vote the additional $300,000.

"On April 14, 1950 the voters of the district by a vote of 968 to 231 approved of the expenditure of $1,850,000 for a new school. This is certainly some indication that the vast majority want a new school in the district. Prior to this vote, the board sponsored not one but thirty-one meetings throughout the district at which the proposal was publicly, and not at all secretly, discussed. It is a well known fact that Messrs. Haver and Bell did not go on record as either being for or against the new school. What thunderclap from the land of old Rip suddenly galvanized them into activity?

"Many people in the district might have voted for the original $1,850,000, want a new school very badly, and yet be against the additional $300,000. It is their prerogative to so vote on Tuesday.

Are They for School

"Messrs. Haver and Bell say they are for a new school. The proof of the pudding is the eating. If they were not really against any school and were not so determined to try to stop any school, they would not now threaten to enjoin the building of the school. They know that material shortages are imminent. They know that if they could secure a temporary injunction for a month or two the probability of the contractor securing steel would be much less and perhaps no school could be built for years. Would this benefit the residents of the district or would it benefit some people who in this matter are pursuing other interests than those of the best interests of the people and children of the district?

"It is charged that the construction contracts signed Tuesday in my office are illegal. The board relied on me in this respect, and the only accusation against the board itself that can be made in this regard that it should have secured a better attorney. From the release of Messrs Bell and Haver appearing in the Freeman of February 7, their very definite, positive and certain opinion of illegality is based on a contention that the board failed to properly advertise for bids. The law requires public contracts for more than $2,500 to be preceded by advertisement for bids. The board advertised for bids for a month prior to January 16 when they were opened. Due to the uncertain conditions in the building field there were only two bidders on the general contract. I. and O. A. Slutsky bid $1,350,000 and the only other bid was for $1,543,279. If the low bids for the general contract, plumbing, heating and electrical were all accepted, the amount would have exceeded $1,850,000. Therefore the board chopped off $139,715 from the low general bid by deleting landscaping, site development, kindergarten rooms, tile, seats in auditorium, folding bleachers and the partition in the auditorium. The contract for Slutzky was for $1,210,825 with a provision that the deleted items could be restored within 60 days if the voters of the district approved the additional $300,000.

"It is now claimed that the board could not do this, but had to delete the items from the specifications and readvertise again before awarding any contract.

Gives Opinion

"It is my opinion that the law does not require readvertisement. The Legal Bureau of the State Education Department agrees with my opinion. However, there does not appear to be any case construing the statute squarely in point and holding either that you do or don't have to start all over again with advertising and have no discretion to eliminate items. Perhaps some court might say that republication is unnecessary. The law is not an exact science, and with even courts writing prevailing and dissenting opinions in the same case, only one with far more skill and assurance than I have can predict with certitude the opinion a court would render in any given case.

What has been done in signing contracts is for the best interest of the district. Any lawyer can easily secure a temporary injunction tying up construction temporarily. This would not be done for the purpose of adjudicating a technicality. It would be done by those forces who are trying to stop the building of any school. It would be done with the hope that building conditions in the near future would be so unsettled that no one would bid, and with the further hope that if someone did bid he would have greater difficulty than now in securing materials.

The Ulster County News of February 8 says: "Mr. Egan said today that the decision about starting a taxpayers' action will be made after the Feb. 13 election." The opponents of any school therefore appear to be following the strategy of first defeating the proposed increase of $300,000 and then if that is defeated of moving to enjoin the construction of any school. Their strategy seems to make it important for all who want any school at all to vote for the increased appropriation on February 13th. It is unfortunate that this should be so, since the question of whether any school should be built, decided favorably by the majority long ago, is a separate issue from the question of whether $300,000 should be further appropriated.

Proclamation

American Heart Week

Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk today called upon residents of this city to observe the week of February 11, as American Heart Week. The text of the mayor's proclamation follows:

WHEREAS disease of the heart and blood vessels constitutes our nation's most important medical and public health problem in that it affects more persons than any other disease, leads all others as a cause of death, occasions a great number of days lost from work and is a severe strain on the economy, and

WHEREAS the week including February 14 each year is being sponsored by the American Heart Association, and its affiliates, the Ulster County Heart Association, as American Heart Week for the purpose of focusing public attention on the medical, social and economic aspects of this primary health problem, and of reminding the Nation that solution depends upon the fullest cooperation of the people, science, government and health and social agencies:

NOW, THEREFORE, I, Oscar V. Newkirk, Mayor of the City of Kingston, do hereby order that the week beginning February 11, 1951 be observed in the City of Kingston as American Heart Week. I further call upon schools, churches, scientific bodies, civic associations, business establishments, and other organizations and the people of the City of Kingston generally, to observe this American Heart Week with appropriate activities.

OSCAR V. NEWKIRK
Mayor

Allies . . .

Chinese fled across the frozen marshes. Three were captured.

10:30 a. m.—A South Korean patrol crossed the Han and fought through the south gate into Seoul.

3:35 p. m.—Lt. Col. Tom Dolvin's 27th Regiment column of the 25th Division, with American and British tanks in support, rolled onto the big air base at Kimpo. Vanguards pushed on northwest along the Seoul-Inchon corridor.

5 p. m.—Negro infantrymen of the U. S. 25th Division with light tanks for firepower capped a 25-mile dash from the south by entering Inchon. Guns of the "Mighty Mo" laid down a shield of fire for the allied force.

Fleeing Reds left roads heavily mined. But "we didn't find a single enemy and not a shot was fired," said Capt. Charles Fryant of Dallas, commander of the reconnaissance company.

All along the western front, the Reds apparently were pulling back toward the old Parallel 38 border.
